Opposes Reduction of War Debts.

Washington, D. C. Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Exhibiting the strong opposition to any hint of repudiation or cancellation of the debts of the war, which the Democrats propose to have eliminated from the issues to be crystallized during the last few days, the house ways and means committee today voted, 21 to 1, to approve the moratorium resolution. An amendment was tacked on it to put congress on record against any future cancellation of the war debts.

With this proviso attached the bill is expected to go to the house floor tomorrow to remain there under consideration—by night it need be—if it go to a vote not later than Monday evening.

Rider Opposing Debt Revision.

The amendment against war debt revision, drafted by Representative Harold Ragon [Dem., Ark.], received unanimous Democratic support. Representative Frank Crowther [Rep., N. Y.] was the only Republican to vote for it. Following is the paragraph in the amendment opposing debt revision or reduction.

"It is hereby expressly declared to be against the policy of congress that any of the indebtedness of foreign countries to the United States should be in any manner canceled or reduced and nothing in this joint resolution shall be construed as indicating a contrary policy, or as implying that favorable consideration will be given to a change in the policy hereby declared."

Four Democrats, Morgan G. Sanders [Tex.], Edward E. Eslick [Tenn.], Clement C. Dickinson [Mo.], and Carl Vinson [Ga.] voted against the moratorium resolution, but supported the no revision of debts amendment. Representatives Sanders, Eslick, and Vinson will draft a minority report.

Debate Behind Closed Doors.

While the committee debated the bill behind closed doors, the other measure in the President's legislative program—measures designed primarily to assist the country's credit situation—rolled along their congressional course.

As they progressed the Democrats were busy remodeling them to fit their own patterns. And between times they mauled themselves mightily in trying to tie presidential author, Republican friends, his administration record, and his political prospects to the issues.

Secretary of War Hurley's speech yesterday, it seemed, displeased Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, leader of the senate Democrats. Senator Robinson not being one to let an opponent get by without a scrap, he proceeded to take Robinson had nothing but scorn for Hoover policies—for the Smoot-Hawley tariff act and the farm marketing act with its creature, the farm board in particular. He hadn't much to say about the moratorium proposal. The President have to depend on Democratic support for the measure? But now listen to Senator Pat" Harrison heaping the praise on Hoover such as it was—on the part of Democratic support—in the case of the naval armaments conference. Democratic support, the senator said, was given the Democratic [illegible] remodeling them to fit their own patterns. And between times they mauled themselves mightily in trying to tie presidential author, Republican friends, his administration record, and his political prospects to the issues.

kidnapers and turn over to them the money they demanded.

It was considered probable Mr. Donnelly would make an appearance at 9:15 o'clock tomorrow in front of the Mercer hotel, as directed in Mrs. Donnelly's letter.

No plans had been developed, but he insisted the directions be followed and that every effort be made to comply with all demands, including the delivery of the $75,000 wherever directed.

Mrs. Donnelly has won national recognition as a woman who turned a pattern for making an apron into a $1¼ million dollar business.

"Nelly Don's" career, to use the name by which her dresses and aprons are known all over the world, started in a young wife's desire to look nice around the home. When she was 17 years old she was graduated from a Methodist convent in Parsons, Kas., and became the bride of Paul Donnelly.

Attends College as Bride.

Mr. Donnelly said "Nelly Don" decided that was too soon to end her education, so, as a bride, she entered Lindenwood college at St. Charles, Mo., and completed the regular four year course there.

When she graduated she made a promise "never to look a sight when I do my housework, as some wives do." And she began to design and make her own aprons and dresses.

The neighbor women would say enviously, when she wore the trim little frocks out into the yard on such prosaic errands as hanging up tea towels.

"Just look at that Mrs. Donnelly!"

Soon she was petitioned to make some for sale.

"Nelly Don" wasn't interested. She had a complex against becoming a businessman.

Urged to Sell to Stores.

"Well, then, why don't you sell them to the stores, so we can buy them there?" her friends persisted.

That was something else again. She mulled the matter over in her mind for a long time, then screwed up her courage, got a few of her models together and went timidly down to the George B. Peck Dry Goods company with them.

"What do you call these, aprons?" she was asked. "They ought to have a name."

She hadn't thought of that. "Let's see, why wouldn't 'Nelly Don' do?" That was name Donnelly had invented for her, a combination of her first and last name. So the aprons were called "Nelly Dons."

Orders Eighteen Dozen.

"We'll take eighteen dozen of them," the buyer told her at Peck's. "Nelly Don" was staggered. "But aren't it wonderful?"

Home she went, and another idea popped into her head. Mr. Donnelly had been talking for a long time of establishing a little business of his own. Why shouldn't it be the apron business?

He wasn't so sure about it himself. But she had confidence in her ideas and with some savings of the two, Mr. and Mrs. Donnelly installed two power sewing machines in their attic, hired a couple of helpers, and went to work on that order for Peck's.

The business grew and quarters were moved to a storeroom at 29th street and Brooklyn avenue. Came 1918 and Mr. Donnelly decided to enlist for war service, so he and "Nelly Don" took inventory of affairs before he left. They decided earnings were enough to expand a bit, so the company moved into quarters in the Coca Cola building at 21st street and Grand avenue. It was the Donnelly Garment company, moving right along, by that time.

"Nelly Don" aprons and frocks were selling everywhere. There were lots of girls in the plant, designers, cutters, sewers, etc.

Today the company occupies five floors of the Corrigan building, which is its headquarters. It occupies a floor of the Shubert building, too. It has offices in New York in the Empire State building, where young Kansas City girls carry on the banner of "Nelly Don" in the east.

The company's pay roll contains 1,000 names, 900 women and 100 men.

G. O. P. LEADERS DOLEFUL; BASE '32 HOPE ON IFS

Committee Members Fear Hoover Defeat.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—It was a dejected lot of Republican leaders who dispersed to their homes today following the meeting of the national committee which called the Republican national convention to meet in Chicago June 14 next.

Save for a handful of political neophytes known as the "Hoover boy scouts," the 100 committeemen and committeewomen had reached Washington the first of the week bringing reports of the low ebb of Republican fortunes in their respective regions. They exchanged confidences and went away more convinced than ever that the party, with President Hoover as its candidate, faces defeat next year.

There was little variation in the reports of the political situation brought in by the committeemen. With factories closed, farmers broke and business men leading a precarious existence, the country is hard hit by the depression and prone to make the party in power the scapegoat. A good many mentioned the dry attitude of the administration as an additional cause of grievance.

Lack of Enthusiasm.

While Chairman Simeon D. Fess of the national committee and Secretary of War Patrick Hurley succeeded in whipping up considerable applause for the President in their speeches, there was a notable lack of enthusiasm for Mr. Hoover manifested in the private conversations of the committeemen. To find a parallel for the situation you have to go back to the days of 1911 and 1912, when the revolt of the western wing of the party against President Taft was brewing, or, more particularly, to the hard times of the early '90s, when President Harrison, cold and uninspiring, was given his due of renomination by a sullen party anticipating defeat.

That Mr. Hoover will be renominated on the first ballot of the convention was universally taken for granted, even by those to whom that prospect is most painful. That being the case, even the most optimistic of the leaders was reduced to basing hopes of success in the election on various "ifs." There will be a fair chance of electing Mr. Hoover they opined, "if" prosperity revives in substantial measure by November, 1932, or "if" the Democrats blunder, as they frequently do, and particularly if both these contingencies materialize.

Women More Optimistic.

In contrast with such opinions were those of the committeewoman from western and southern dry states who turned out to be the stanchest Hooverites at the meeting. They pooh-poohed the misgivings of the veterans, asserting their confidence that, depression or no depression, Mr. Hoover will be reelected by "church members and prohibitionists," as one of them put it.

One of the most arresting revelations of the sentiment among the leaders was the feeling expressed by many that if Mr. Hoover were to renounce his ambition to succeed himself not only the party but the country would be instantly galvanized into a state of newborn confidence and enthusiasm.

"If Mr. Hoover would stand aside," one committeeman said: "if the party could look forward to the nomination of Coolidge or of Dawes, the effect would be electrical. There would be no stepping us."

Doubt He Would Retire.

Nobody, it turned out, was willing to tell the President that he ought to sacrifice himself for the good of the party. It was suggested by more than one, however, that if Mr. Hoover should fail to carry the direct presidential primary states next spring a serious crisis in his candidacy would be created and he might choose to withdraw.

Others perceived little hope in that direction, pointing out that even if the President should lose the direct primary states he would still command a large majority of the convention, having more than one-third of it in the bag already in the hand-picked delegations from the Republican rotten boroughs of the south, which will be 54 votes stronger in the Chicago convention by virtue of the large Hoover vote in that region in 1928.

There is abundant evidence that the President intends to personally superintend his canvass for delegates, particularly in Illinois and other direct presidential primary states. He frequently sends for Senator Otis Glenn [Rep., Ill.] to acquaint him with the situation in that state and advise on political maneuvers.

Studies Chicago Situation.

For some time Mr. Hoover has been giving close study to political conditions in Chicago as they affect his candidacy. The Republican party in Chicago is wet and shot through with opposition to Mr. Hoover. This is one of the reasons that the President was against Chicago as the place for holding the national convention. Some of the national committeemen look for a good many anti-Hoover delegates to be elected, not only in Chicago but throughout Illinois. Some of the Hooverites have entertained uncomfortable visions of Illinois anti-Hoover delegates starting a convention stampede to Dawes or Coolidge.

Mr. Hoover is endeavoring to cope with this situation. He has had two talks with George F. Harding, leader of a Republican faction in Chicago, who both times breezed in and out of Washington by airplane, refusing to throw any light on his conferences at the White House. The President appointed Mr. Harding's friend, Gregory Van Meter, collector of internal revenue in Chicago.

The efforts of the President to induce Judge James H. Wilkerson to run for governor of Illinois are regarded as further evidence of his desire to strengthen the Hoover candidacy in that state. In his handling of the Capone case Judge Wilkerson touched the popular imagination.

The President also is taking a personal hand in the Ohio situation, where trouble for him is brewing.

'ALFALFA BILL' TESTS HIS POLITICAL POWER IN OKLAHOMA TODAY

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Culminating one of the most bitter political campaigns in the history of this state, Oklahoma voters tomorrow will record their judgment of four initiated measures drawn up by William H. [Alfalfa Bill] Murray, picturesque and militant governor.

The special election will be a further test of Murray's strength in the state, as well as a harbinger of his potential position in national Democratic circles. Murray is carrying his legislative program to the people because he failed to get favorable action by the last legislature.

Murray repeatedly has declared the election is a fight for the "little fellow and the farmer" against the "corporate interests."

One of the four proposals would revise the state income tax law to place more taxes on the wealthy and decrease levies on small incomes.

PLAN POLITICAL PUNISHMENT FOR HOOVER'S CRITIC

He Will Name No More Postmasters.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Retaliatory action against Representative McFadden for his charges against President Hoover was begun today by his fellow Pennsylvania Republicans.

At the request of Senators Reed and Davis of that state Postmaster General Brown agreed to reprive the outspoken congressman of his privilege of naming postmasters in his district.

In the house, where McFadden asserted the President had "sold out" to Germany, a move was begun at the same time by Representative Darrow to compel McFadden to prove his assertions or be read out of the party. Darrow is the Pennsylvania member of the powerful Republican steering committee.

They'll Consider Him Dead.

"We intend to act to all practical purposes as though Representative McFadden had died," Reed said. "This action is not unprecedented. Several years ago a representative from Reading, Pa., got enthusiastic and claimed William S. Vare and I were crooks. I put the clamps on him.

"We named all his postmaster appointments as long as he stayed in the house, which wasn't long."

Under the new procedure the two senators will parcel out the postmaster patronage, following the same course as exists in districts represented by Democratic congressmen.

McFadden's home is in Canton, Pa., and his district comprises a large number of rural counties.

Demand Proof of Charges.

A course of action to compel him to back with facts his accusations against the President's transactions dealing with the moratorium was discussed by Darrow with house leaders, including Republican Leader Snell.

"An opportunity should be given to McFadden," said Darrow, "and he should be made to prove his charges. If he cannot he should recant or suffer the consequences."

Snell said "all Republicans are awfully mad" at McFadden, but refused to discuss further plans to punish him.

McFadden said he was prepared to furnish proof of his allegations and would when given the opportunity.

"This thing is above personalities," he added, "it affects the welfare of the country."

MAYOR OFFERS TO BUY A CHRISTMAS TREE FOR EVERY SCHOOL

Mayor Cermak offered yesterday to purchase and decorate a sufficient number of Christmas trees so that one may be set up in the yard of every public and parochial school. The cost, which has been estimated at $1,000, will be paid by the mayor. The trees will be sent to the schools upon the request of the principals.

"I want every child to enjoy a Christmas tree," said the mayor. "If a request is submitted to my office a tree will be placed in each school yard. The trees will be erected in the school yards so that others than school children can get at least that much of the Christmas spirit."

The mayor also accepted sponsorship of Cermak day, Dec. 14, at the Christmas fiesta and carnival being held at the Coliseum. Every child under 12 years will be a guest at the Coliseum on that day. A delegation of several hundred members of the Order of the Moose received the mayor's acceptance at his office yesterday.

Capper Plans Bill for $1 Tariff on Crude Oil

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Senator Capper [Rep., Kas.] today said he would introduce within a short time a bill calling for $1 per barrel tariff on crude oil.

VICTORY FEAST IS PLANNED BY DEMOCRATS HERE

At a meeting of the Democratic county central committee yesterday arrangements were made for a "victory banquet" to be held on Jan. 14 simultaneously with similar celebrations in New York, Baltimore, and Boston. No Jackson day dinner is to be held here because many Chicago Democrats are expected to accompany Mayor Cermak in Washington for the Jackson day dinner there on Jan. 8.

Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National bank, at yesterday's meeting urged that as many Democrats as possible accompany Mayor Cermak, because the Democratic national committee will be meeting in Washington at the time and the mayor will ask that the national convention be brought to Chicago.

"It is necessary that this convention come to Chicago because Illinois is regarded as a pivotal state," Mr. Traylor said. "In my daily contact with Republicans they concede Illinois to the Democrats in 1932, but nevertheless we must have the convention."

Edward N. Hurley, former chairman of the United States shipping board, whose efforts were largely responsible for getting the Republican national convention for Chicago, spoke in the same vein. He said Mayor Cermak's good record had convinced the Republicans that Chicago was the place for their convention. Mayor Cermak asserted that the Democratic prospects were never better.

FORGED CHECK CASHED BY LINK, TRIAL REVEALS

Frank J. Link, who was a trustee of the sanitary district during the whopee era of 1927-'28, when Timothy J. Crowe was president, put his own signature under the forged signature of another man on a sanitary district pay check and then deposited the money in his own bank account.

FRANK J. LINK.

This was revealed by direct evidence given late yesterday afternoon in Chief Justice Harry Fisher's criminal court, where Crowe, Link, and six other trustees, former trustees, and former officials are on trial on charges of graft conspiracy.

Draws in Waiter's Name.

The pay checks were drawn in the name of Lawrence J. McDonnell, 2000 Irving avenue, a waiter at the Brevoort hotel. McDonnell's name and an address—1446 Winona avenue—appeared on the pay roll for two pay periods of $100 each. Both checks were cashed, according to documents received in court, and one of them bears the signature F. J. Link below the forged signature "L. McDonnell." The check shows on its face that it was deposited in Link's savings account.

McDonnell testified yesterday afternoon that he had never worked for the district and did not know that his name was on the pay roll. His wife had done some political work for Link and was paid $100 by him with a personal check, but she had no idea that her husband's name was on the sanitary pay roll, she testified.

Told Home of Pay Roller.

Several other important developments, one of which almost caused a suspension of the trial, stood out in the proceedings yesterday. They were:

1. The issuance of two warrants under conspiracy to obstruct the administration of justice. On the basis of the warrants state's attorney detectives raided the apartment of Joe Spagat, who lives in a hotel at 1 North Pine avenue. His wife was arrested, but no trace could be found of Spagat, said to be a personal friend of Crowe. The wife was released later after promising to aid in the search for her husband. Spagat took $12,250 in excess money from the public treasury in addition to $7,200 in salary, according to the prosecutors.

2. The request of Prosecuter John Northup for court attachments tantamount to warrants asked that thirteen important state witnesses be forcibly brought into court for their failure to obey court subpoenas.

3. The possibility that the trial may have to start all over again because of the decision yesterday by the Illinois Supreme court giving the state the right to demand a jury trial. Between now and Monday, when the trial is scheduled to be resumed, the attorneys and judges will read over the court decision and search the record of the proceedings to see if Prosecutor Northup made any formal demand for a jury trial.

Testimony Involves Link.

The testimony pertaining to the McDonnell pay checks is considered the most important of the trial so far. Link, who was directly implicated in the check testimony, sat in the jury box nervously twisting his fingers as the witnesses testified. A slight flush appeared on his face as his attorney, Albert Fink, rose to his feet to say that the testimony of a handwriting expert was not necessary to prove that the signature was in fact that of Link. He stipulated this to be the case. McDonnell was questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Jo Calvin Cook.

Q.—For how long did you live at 1446 Winona avenue [the address given on the pay roll]? A.—For six years. I just recently moved to Foster avenue.

Q.—Did any one live at that address beside yourself, your wife, and children? A.—My mother-in-law and a roomer named Johnson.

Q.—Did you ever ask any one to get you a job at the sanitary district? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you know that L. McDonnell, 1446 Winona avenue, was on the sanitary district pay roll? A.—No, I did not.

Q.—Did you ever sign these checks or authorize any one to sign them? A.—No, I did not.

Judge Fisher interrupted with the following questions:

Q.—Did you get the proceeds from the checks? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Any money from them? A.—Not a cent.

Attorney Fink cross-examined the witness and brought out that McDonnell's wife was once a precinct worker for Link.

Wife Gives Testimony.

Mrs. McDonnell, the mother of two children, was a belligerent witness, so far as the defense was concerned. She used her head to emphasize each bit of testimony and made sharp replies to the questions by Attorney Cook on cross-examination. Her direct testimony was as follows:

Q.—Were you ever on the sanitary district pay roll? A.—Not to my knowledge.

Q.—Did you ever ask any one to use his influence to get you on? A.—Yes, once; there was a peculiar circumstance about it. A Mrs. Mathilda Carlton, precinct captain, said after some work for her that she would probably put me on, but she didn't say where. I never heard of her after that.

Mrs. McDonnell then told of being summoned to the state's attorney's office and of learning of the checks drawn in her husband's name. She went to Link for an explanation.

"I went to Link's home," she testified. "I said that as long as my husband's name was forged to the check why didn't he get the money? Link took some notes about the checks and said he would see about it."

Q.—Did you talk to Link again? A.—Yes, I called him on the telephone about two weeks later and he said that he did not have time look it up. I told him that he had two weeks and he said, "What are you going to do about it?" I said, "I'm through with it," and he hung up the receiver.

Secretary Is a Witness.

Mrs. Carlton, 1457 Foster avenue, who is now secretary to the chief clerk of the sanitary district, was next called. She told of employing Mrs. McDonnell for precinct work and of giving her Link's personal check for the services. She said she paid this sum at Link's suggestion. She said she lives in Link's ward and does political work for him. She did not know McDonnell was on the pay roll, she said.

The checks were introduced in evidence. One check shows that it was deposited on April 25, 1928, in Link's savings account at the National Bank of the Republic.

Among those for whom attachments were asked are Dr. George Leininger, 1521 North Wood street; Charles F. LaVerde, 7549 South California avenue; Arthur [Prince Arthur] Quinn, H. A. Watkins, 732 East 67th street; Joseph Trandel, 1332 Julian street, a former member of the legislature; Morris Sabath, 1914 South Ashland avenue, brother of Congressman A. J. Sabath; Bert Fairchild, political leader in Crowe's ward, and John J. [Boss] McLaughlin, former member of the legislature.

At the start of the afternoon session Judge Fisher suggested that the trial be halted pending a study of the ruling of the Supreme court on the right of the state to a jury trial. It was decided, however, to hear the witnesses on hand and then to adjourn until Monday to give an opportunity to study the decision and the state of the record on whether the prosecution has any formal objection of record.

UPHOLDS STATE'S RIGHT TO DEMAND TRIAL BY JURY

Supreme Court Decision Pleases Swanson.

The right of the state's attorney to demand a jury trial in criminal cases in which the defendant elects to stand trial before a judge without a jury is affirmed in a test case decision handed down by the Illinois Supreme court yesterday.

The decision was hailed as of vital importance by State's Attorney Swanson and his assistants because previously, when the courts were in doubt as to the right of the state to demand a jury trial, the state was hindered in many prosecutions.

JUDGE DAVID.

Canal Graft Trial Cited.

One prominent case cited was the trial of officials and former officials of the sanitary district, now on trial before Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court. First Assistant State's Attorney John Northup has objected to trying the case before Judge Fisher, but in the absence of authority from the Supreme court for the state to insist upon a jury trial, Mr. Northup was forced to bow to the will of the defense in allowing Judge Fisher to try the case without a jury.

The decision was made in the case of Frank Scornavacche, convicted by a jury before Judge Joseph B. David on May 21, 1931, on a charge of manslaughter. Scornavacche, accused of killing his friend, Santo Lacasto, after an argument at cards, was arraigned on May 15 and waived his right to a jury trial. Assistant State's Attorney George A. Lavin, who was prosecuting the case, and who had been interested in establishing the right of the state to demand a jury trial, consulted Judge David and it was decided to make a test in the Scornavacche case.

Found Guilty by Jury.

So Prosecutor Lavin made a motion for a jury trial, and Judge David granted the motion, ordering a jury to be chosen over the objection of the defendant. After the verdict was returned finding Scornavacche guilty of manslaughter, an appeal was taken to the state Supreme court.

"In the absence of a statute," the Supreme court held, "there is no good reason for holding that a right to waive a jury trial leaves a right to deprive the prosecution of a jury trial.

"There is, of course, nothing in the constitution conferring the right of jury trial on the state, but such has for centuries been the established mode of trial in criminal cases.

"While it is true that the right of jury trial is so conferred on the accused that it may not be taken from him without his consent, this is by no means saying that the state may not object to a trial before the court. A trial by a court is not and never has been within the protective provision designed as a shield to the accused.

"So long, therefore, as objection on the part of the prosecution does not attack the safeguard of trial by jury no constitutional right is jeopardized."

In another decision on a test case the Supreme court reversed an auto theft conviction because Judge Fisher had commented on evidence in the case and had instructed the jury orally instead of reading formal instructions as submitted by state and defense counsel.

Marrying City Clerk Finds New York Couples Generous

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—The job of deputy city clerk, which carries with it the duty of marrying couples in the municipal building, was disclosed as one of the city's most profitable jobs today when Counsel Samuel Seabury showed the Hofstadter legislative committee, in a public hearing, that James J. McCormick has been making $18,000 a year out of it in addition to his salary of $3,500.

Almost every couple he marries—and he marries about 300 a week—make him a little gift after the ceremony, McCormick said. They give him from $1 to $10, and rarely $20. Those gifts and his salary enabled him to bank $239,000 between 1925 and Oct. 19 of this year.

Estimates Do Not Tally.

His own estimate of his "gift" income, however, lacked $150,000 of accounting for his total deposits in that period and McCormick confessed himself unable to explain that sum.

The questions Mr. Seabury asked the deputy clerk made it clear that the counsel thought McCormick had been getting "gifts" of $20 much oftener than he did the smaller sums, and that a larger income from that source would account for the $150,000. McCormick denied this, however.

The examination of Deputy Clerk McCormick's bank accounts revealed for the first time what a profitable office the "marrying clerk" has.

McCormick said he has been in the city employ ten and a half years and has been Tammany leader in the Twenty-second Assembly district for thirty-eight years.

His municipal job has only two duties—signing bonds and performing marriages.

The "marriage chapel" in the municipal building is a room about 100 by 15 feet, fitted up with two palms furnished by the park department, a desk, and a couple of chairs on a platform.

Denies Using a "Decoy."

"Did you ever ask for money when marrying a couple?" Mr. Seabury asked.

"I never have."

"Wasn't there a little drawer in that desk, and wasn't it your practice to keep that drawer open and have a $20 bill in plain sight?"

"No, sir!"

A readier explanation of bank accounts was forthcoming from Joseph T. Quinn, the deputy commissioner of sanitation in Queens since last December, who was sheriff of Queens in 1927-'28-'29.

Quinn claimed he had no income during that time but his salary of $10,000 a year. After Mr. Seabury showed that his expenditures and investments were on a much larger scale than $10,000 a year would allow he explained that he got a total of $32,000 from Jack Phillips, the Queens sewer pipe contractor who was involved in the Connolly sewer scandal.

Phillips was quite a betting man at the race tracks, said Quinn, and Phillips used to make bets for him. Quinn never put up any money. He would see Phillips at the track and the contractor would say:

"Sheriff, I put up a little bet for you," and hand him $500, $600, $800, or maybe $1,000.

"So that this whole $32,000 that Mr. Phillips gave you in cash was pure velvet as far as you were concerned?"

"Why, it sure was."

Girl, 14, Sues Estate of Henry Piper for $75,000

A $75,000 damage suit against the estate of the late Henry Piper, founder and president of the Piper Baking company at 1810 North Wells street, was filed in the Superior court yesterday by Sophie Nechipar, 14 years old, 1628 North Wells street, through her mother, May. The child, according to the declaration, tripped upon a metal trapdoor which extended two inches above the level of the sidewalk in front of the baking plant and permanently injured herself. The accident, it is alleged, occurred on Sept. 15, 1922.

EMMERSON MAY DECIDE ON RACE HERE NEXT WEEK

Conferences to Shape Up Governorship Contest.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Gov. Louis L. Emmerson is to come to Chicago next week for a series of conferences with his political associates. His decision as to whether or not he will be a candidate in the April primary to succeed himself may then be made known.

These conferences are expected to determine, for one thing, what Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson will do about relinquishing politics at this time. The pressure back of him to forsake the bench and stir the political field for the sake of unity and Republican success is strong, but he is not expected to take this step unless Gov. Emmerson eliminates himself and throws the support of his organization to the so-called coalition camp.

GOV. EMMERSON.

Soon as Up to Governor.

If Gov. Emmerson enters the race, as most of his supporters believe he will, Judge Wilkerson will remain on the bench.

There is some anxiety on the part of Judge Wilkerson's friends over the delay of the governor in making his intentions known. It will be necessary to submit the judge's name for appointment to the higher court soon in order to get action from it this winter. Some opposition is expected here from labor men because of the injunction issued by him during the shopmen's strike at the request of Attorney-General Harry Daugherty, but this is not expected to develop into a serious fight on confirmation.

The Wilkerson decision on the governorship may have an important effect on the presidential situation. That President Hoover realizes this is shown by his action in inviting Judge Wilkerson to lunch recently and talking over the situation in Illinois. Mr. Hoover urged the judge to run for governor. Politicians here do not regard the chances of the President in capturing the Illinois delegation as any too good. Gov. Emmerson's hesitancy about entering the race is said to be based on the fear that the whole Republican ticket in this state will be defeated in November.

Three Already in Field.

William H. Malone, Attorney General Carlstrom, and Len Small are other Republican entries who are expected to remain in the race. Others may come in. One late report is that Congressman Frank R. Reid of Aurora has been surveying the situation and is to become an active candidate for the governorship nomination. He was a candidate for the Republican nomination for attorney general in 1912. His backing, if any, is not known.

Senator Otis F. Glenn arrived in Chicago yesterday and became engaged in looking over his own political fences. He is expected to announce his own candidacy for the Republican nomination to succeed himself soon and will enter the April primary. There are no indications that he will have serious difficulty there.

G. O. P. IS ACCUSED OF USING A POSTMASTER TO GET HOOVER VOTES

Taylorville, Ill., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Local Democratic leaders today charged the Republican national committee with "brazen" violation of the federal civil service laws in employing the Taylorville postmaster in political activities.

J. B. NUTT. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The Democrats asserted that J. B. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee, had sent literature to Frank Reed, postmaster and editor of the Taylorville Breeze, requesting him to take the initiative in organizing a "Thirty-two club" to work for and contribute money toward President Hoover's re-election.

The postmaster admitted receiving the literature, which was mailed from the Union bank of Cleveland, O., and signed by Alvin Frisch and Mr. Nutt. The postmaster said that, in accordance with a suggestion from the committee, he had turned the literature over to Joseph Betterton, local Republican and former deputy sheriff.

Betterton, it is said, has been approaching various Taylorville Republicans, asking them to sign up for membership in the "Thirty-two club" and contribute a $1 membership fee. Thus far, it is reported, he has obtained only ten contributions, for each of which he presented a receipt signed in facsimile by Treasurer Nutt.

making it more constructive by changes here and there.

"We intend," Mr. Robinson barked out in conclusion, "to contribute our best efforts for the promotion of the welfare of the country, to pursue a sane and fair policy. And I do not believe that fair minded citizens will give their support to a political organization whose head one day asks nonpartisan action and the next day holds aloft a flag of triumph in glorification of his own partisans."

Harrison Takes Up Cudgels.

Mora, so it seemed, in sorrow than in anger, Pat Harrison, the Mississippi senator, who smiles most when he hits hardest, took up the tale of Republican misdeeds. Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee, was occupying the rostrum in Vice President Curtis' absence. Senator Harrison flicked his opening dart at the grandfatherly Simeon, who, he said, had "fooled many people in his own state in order to get elected to office." He told how Dr. Fess recently had tried to cheer the drooping spirits of the recent meeting of the Republican committee.

"Seeing this picture of dejection and depressed looks and forlorn hopes," beamed Senator Harrison, "he made a speech. He played the part of the pawn broker. He said that the idea is to sell Hoover to the country."

Senator Alben W. Barkley [Dem., Ky.] could not resist the opening.

"Does not the senator think," he inquired, "that in their hearts the Republicans would like to give him away?"

"Does the senator mean the President or the chairman of the Republican national committee?"

"Either one, or both."

The chairman of the Republican committee gaveled strenuously to quell the laughter.

But Senator Thomas P. Gore, the blind senator from Oklahoma, had to get in his dig.

"Doesn't the senator think," he asked, "that the Republicans ought to wait until short selling has been abolished before taking any step to sell the President?"

"Short selling has become so prevalent under the Hoover administration," Mr. Harrison explained, "that my friend, the chairman of the Republican national committee, has adopted the plan of selling Hoover short—certainly not long."

"It's a bear," murmured Senator Gore.

"Yes, a bear raid," agreed Mr. Harrison blithely.

Senator Harrison charged Secretary Stimson with trying to revive the religious issue; told how the department of commerce under Mr. Hoover had grown from a department of 10,000 to one of 17,000 employes, and he cited the $400,000 annual White House expenses, saying, "we have not seen where Mr. Hoover has curtailed any of his secretaries or White House employes."

Change Land Bank Bill.

But the Democrats were busy with more than words. Over in the house banking and currency committee the President's proposal to increase the credit of the federal land banks by 100 million dollars was being operated on and an amendment transplanted into it to give borrowers a five year period of grace in which to pay installments on their mortgages. Last year the Republican majority had rejected such a provision.

This year it will be in the President's bill when it is reported to the house tomorrow, entirely changing the purport of the measure, which was designed to enable the land banks to extend new credit rather than to ease up the tension on borrowers under the old law.

Following upon the federal land bank bill, as that follows upon the moratorium legislation, will come the bill to set up the half billion dollar government financed credit corporation recommended by the President. Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve bank, will explain the necessity of the bill before the house banking and currency committee tomorrow.

Will Bills Be Altered?

And whether these also will be gladly accepted by the Democrats—and then altered to fit the Democratic idea—remains to be seen.

It is evident that much carving and pot-shotting is going to be done between now and next June—not alone on the bills wanted by the administration, but on many other administration policies, including, above all, the conduct of foreign affairs and on that other matter, so much in the limelight of late, the possible influences of the international bankers on American policy.

The resolution introduced by Senator Hiram Johnson [Rep., Cal.], Mr. Hoover's long time political enemy, requesting the state department correspondence in the Manchurian crisis, was passed by the senate today. Senator Gore introduced resolutions calling on the secretary of state to tell what foreign loans his department had approved and to submit correspondence with the debtor nations dealing with the allied debts and German reparations.

Tomorrow the senate finance committee will open its hearings on the sale of foreign securities by American bankers.

Members of the house ways and means committee heard further testimony on the moratorium bill from Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills and Henry P. Davison, partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., both of whom denied that the debtor governments had had their Dec. 15 interest payments a deposit in New York ready to turn over if required.

SENATE ORDERS NEW INVESTIGATION INTO RETAIL FOOD PRICES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(AP)—A new investigation of food prices was ordered today by the senate.

It approved a resolution by Chairman McNary of the agriculture committee reviving the food price investigating committee of the last congress which was headed by Senator Capper [Rep., Kas.].

The subcommittee was empowered to make further investigation of the prices of bread, meat, and sugar products, with particular reference to whether retail prices have reflected the decline in the cost of raw products.

The Capper subcommittee held extended hearings during the last congress after which it submitted a report recommending investigation by the justice department into certain combinations in restraint of trade.

Rules U. of C. Quadrangle Club Is Subject to Tax

Federal Judge George A. Carpenter yesterday ruled that the Quadrangle club of the University of Chicago, whose membership is comprised chiefly of professors, is a social club, and as such is subject to taxation by the government. The club recently sued the government for a refund of approximately $10,000 collected as taxes, claiming that the club is an educational society and practically a part of the University of Chicago. Assistant United States District Attorney John P. Barnes, however, introduced records showing that the club holds numerous social affairs such as dances, bridge parties and Christmas revels.

Manufacturer Ends Life; Hangs Himself in Office

Morris Karlin, 47 years old, 6209 North Talman avenue, hanged himself yesterday in the office of Karlin & Eintracht, dress manufacturing firm, of which he was a member, at 218 West Adams street. The body was discovered by his partner, Morris Eintracht, who went to the office at the request of Karlin's wife. Mrs. Karlin became alarmed when he failed to return home at the usual hour.

CHINESE, FACING DOPE TRIAL, KILLS HIMSELF IN HOME

Tom Took, 60 years old, Chinese owner of the China cafe, who was arrested in Seattle last September on charges of smuggling in $100,000 worth of dope, shot and killed himself yesterday in his home at 233 East 47th street.

The police believed that he committed suicide while despondent over his arrest. Tom's flat, above the cafe, had been under investigation for some time, detectives said, because it was suspected as a center of narcotics distribution.

The cafe owner returned on Sept. 16 from a visit to his native land. Federal authorities searching his personal belongings found 100 cans of opium. They charged Tom with violation of the narcotics laws, and released him on $7,500 bail. He was permitted to return to Chicago pending his trial in Seattle.

NEAR SOLUTION OF HOW GERMANY SHOULD PAY UP

Gives Her Ten Years on Short Term Loans.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—World bankers and those of Germany are nearing a compromise solution for the repayment of money borrowed by Germany, according to reliably informed financial circles today.

The plan being perfected now incorporates the features of the debt proposals of the Belgian expert, Emile Francqui, and those of the German ex-trust chief, Hermann Schmitz. It provides for Germany to repay her commercial short term loans within ten years through a special international trustee company.

Will Pay to Company.

The German debtors are to pay their debts to this company which will issue promissory notes or bonds in foreign currencies to the creditors. The creditors will turn these into cash either through banks of their own countries or through a special loan to be taken up by the trustee company.

The chief stumbling block delaying agreement is the rate of interest. The Germans insist it must remain within the "sound and businesslike limits of 5 or 6 per cent," while a number of the creditors are asking much higher rates. Formerly some loans were negotiated at 15 per cent interest, which the Germans now contend was only possible in extraordinary cases in the days of the international boom. They insist that such rates are impossible.

Briton Speeds to France.

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, deputy controller of finance of the British treasury, went to Paris today on a mission believed to have special reference to the impending general European reparations conference. The belief was expressed in political circles the conference would be held about Jan. 15.

Before the treasury official left the British government sent France a note regarding Germany's debts. While the text was not revealed, it was taken to be granted the note emphasized that German debts contracted in the form of short term credits should have priority over reparations payments.

Compare Debts and Assets.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BASEL, Dec. 17.—The subcommittee on statistics reported to the Young plan advisory committee today on Germany's probably income from her foreign investments in 1932 compared with the interest and amortization of her foreign long term and short term debts for the same period.

The two items offset each other to such an extent that the amount of the difference between them will go far toward determining to what extent and how soon Germany will be able to resume paying reparations after the Hoover moratorium expires next summer.

The subcommittee approved and recommended for insertion in the full committee's final report an amount ranging from $72,000,000 to $96,000,000 as Germany's income from her foreign assets. On the other side of the ledger the total charges of interest and amortization on Germany's short term and long term debts, based on prevailing interest rates, amount to between $284,000,000 and $445,000,000.

The subcommittee flatly admitted that it abandoned trying to fix the total amount of German assets abroad, indicating that they were considerably in excess of $2,015,000,000.

HEIGHTS STILL RAIDED.

Prohibition agents yesterday discovered a 750 gallon still in a garage at 26 East 22d street, Chicago Heights. Three men, Louis Conti, Louis Delero, and Joe Gilo, who were found on the premises, were arrested.

PLAN TO MEET 26,000 PAY ROLL AT PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 17.—(AP)—A new financial program to meet the pay roll of 26,000 municipal employes, now three days overdue because of insufficient funds in the treasury, was conceived by city officials today.

Under the latest arrangement, legislation was introduced in city council today to enable the sinking fund commission to receive from the city treasury an advance payment of $2,000,000 due it in interest on Dec. 31 on its holdings of the city debt.

With this money the sinking fund commission is to buy $2,000,000 worth of the unsold portion of the city's current $15,000,000 bond issue, which is being disposed of "over the counter" in the city treasurer's office.

The proceeds of this sale will then be used to make up the $1,625,000 pay roll which was due Tuesday. The city pays its workers semi-monthly.

Fire 168 at Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Because Allegheny county has no money, Commissioner Babcock, chairman of the board, this week not only dismissed 168 men from the pay rolls but also announced a 25 per cent wage cut for all county employes.

Cut Ohio Salaries 15 Pct.

Columbus, O., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Gov. George White today ordered all state departments to cut expenditures for 1932 to an amount equivalent to a reduction of 15 per cent in appropriations voted for those departments by the legislature. All departments except educational institutions will be affected.

Slice Alaskan Rail Wages.

Anchorage, Alaska, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The Anchorage Times said today the interior department had ordered drastic curtailment in the offices of the Alaska railroad and field forces, placed shop workers on a five day week basis, and materially reduced wages.

BANDIT BEATS WOMAN WITH A GUN; ROBS HER

Miss Nina Benton, 33 years old, a bookkeeper, was descending the stairway of the Wellington avenue elevated station on her way to her home at 915 King place last night when a robber, a step behind her, hit her on the head with the butt of his revolver. Miss Benton was felled by the blow and started rolling down the stairs. The gunman fell over her.

He arose and struck her twice again and then demanded her purse. The purse was concealed in her coat and Miss Benton replied she carried none. The gunman took her wrist watch, valued at $25, then hit her on the head. The blow caused her to drop her purse. Angered, the bandit beat her with the gun once more, snatched the purse, which contained $5, and fled. Miss Benton was taken to the Illinois Masonic hospital.

HOLD OUT HOPE FOR SCHOOL PAY BY CHRISTMAS

Board Works on Plans to Help Employes.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

School employes, who have received only one month's pay since last April, pressed hard yesterday for an answer to the question: "Will we get any money before Christmas?"

"I think you will get a little," was the reply of L. E. Myers, president of the school board, as he met with the other trustees to consider the board's budget for 1932.

"Is that reasonably definite?" asked Joseph Spain of the school engineers' union.

"I made my statement after talking with D. F. Kelly, chairman of the committee selling 1930 tax anticipation warrants to large property owners," replied Mr. Myers.

The answer of Mayor Cermak to the query was: "We hope to get a half month's pay for the school employés before Christmas."

Kelly Appears Hopeful.

Mr. Kelly was working hard, seemed to be hopeful, but was not ready to make a forecast yesterday. His organization has obtained subscriptions for a reported total of $3,000,000. City Controller Szymczak has requested Mr. Kelly to have the subscribers put up the cash so that it can be utilized for salary payments.

It was rumored that some of the subscribers pledged purchase of tax warrants on the assumption that the state legislature would straighten out the tax difficulties, which so far has not been done.

A monthly pay roll for the school board aggregates about $4,900,000 at this season of the year. Controller Szymczak said the city's aggregate of funds is obligated to such an extent that it is "impossible to meet any pay rolls" from it.

Makes Plea for Cash.

William McFetridge of the school janitors' union made a plea to the trustees for Christmas cash.

"My people average less than $115 a month and they are broke, in debt, and almost in despair," said McFetridge. "They lack clothing, food, and carfare. They have drained the union treasury, and we are pledging the union credit to get coal for some of them. To our disgrace and yours some of these public employés have had to ask charity in order to get food. Our employés need money. Just a $10. bill will help many families."

The condition of the employés appeared so desperate, that the trustees, on motion of Trustee H. Wallace Caldwell, decided to work out a legal plan, if possible, by which the board will attempt to buy food and fuel indirectly for its employés in distress.

Trustee Joseph P. Savage announced that the board at its next meeting will issue tax anticipation warrants to its employés in place of cash. He hopes that with these the employés will be able to buy necessities.

Lose $1,544,144 in Rent.

Under a decision of the Illinois Supreme court yesterday the board will lose rent of $1,544,144 on nine pieces of school property, most of which are in the loop. The court held invalid the 1925 appraisal of the properties, on which the board had hoped to collect the $1,544,144. This sum represents the difference between the rental sought under the 1925 appraisal and that paid under the 1915 appraisal during the last seven years while the matter has been in litigation.

Thomas V. Sullivan, school board attorney, said he would petition for a rehearing.

GOV. EMMERSON SIGNS SIX MEASURES PASSED BY THE LEGISLATURE

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Gov. Emmerson today signed the following bills, passed at this week's session of the general assembly:

House bill 171 [Tice]—Provides for the resale of Chicago school board warrants to enable teachers to secure their pay by Christmas.

House bill 231 [Lawler]—Legalizing subway bonds of the city of Springfield.

House bill 18 [Tice]—Validates tax levy ordinances in cities and villages which were adopted before the expiration of 10 day limit for publication.

Senate bill 104 [Carlson]—Provides that the board of town auditors shall be the proper taxing authority for the issuance and disposal of anticipation warrants.

Senate bill 43 [Bohrer]—Makes the first installment of taxes for the year 1932 delinquent after the first day of May instead of February.

Senate bill 100 [Carlson]—Authorizes townships to direct the raising of taxes for poor relief, applying to townships where boundary lines and those of cities are co-extensive.

All bills carry emergency clauses and are effective at once.

12 EDUCATORS REFUSE TO SWEAR LOYALTY TO DUCE

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Dec. 17.—Twelve professors, representing seven Italian universities, today refused to subscribe to the new oath of allegiance which is required by law of all instructors of higher learning. The new oath orders a vow of loyalty to King Victor Emmanuel, the royal family and the Fascist régime. It is understood that the professors object to swearing allegiance to Fascism.

Heading the list is former Premier Orlando, who represented Italy at the peace conference at Versailles. He resigned as professor of law of the Royal Superior institute in Rome following his refusal to take the oath.

Among the others are Senator Ruffini, Lionello Venturi and Prof. De Sanct of the University of Turin; Gregorio Levy, Ernesto Bonaiutto and Vito Volterra of the University of Milan, and Prof. De Vito de Marco of the University of Naples. The rest, whose names have not been announced, represent the Universities of Perugia, Pavia, Bologna and Milan. All are expected to resign their posts.

There are 3,225 professors in Italian universities. Of them 1,032 have taken the new oath. Eighty-one have not yet been sworn, but it is announced that illness or temporary absence, are the reasons.

Recently the Vatican declared that the church had no objection to subscribing to the oath, although resistance from that quarter had been expected in view of Pope Pius' encyclical letter last July urging Catholics to take the oath of allegiance to Fascism, but only with mental reservations.

In its pronouncements the Vatican stated the oath to the Fascist régime was mentioned in the same line with the sovereign and the royal family, and that therefore it ruled that the formula respecting the Fascist régime did not indicate a political party but that it was synonymous with the government of the nation.

How Oath Reads.

The oath reads in part:

"I swear to be faithful to the king, his royal successors and to the Fascist régime; to observe loyally the statutes and other laws of the state; to exercise my office as a teacher and fulfill all my academic duties with an aim to forming diligent and honest citizens devoted to their country and to the Fascist régime."

While the educators were defying the Fascist government, Premier Mussolini was busy overhauling his cabinet machinery. Nine out of the twelve ministers will be ousted, according to information from Fascist party circles.

The shifting, it is said, will be in line with last week's changes in the secretaryship and directorate of the Fascist party. Foreign Minister Dino Grandi, Minister of Air Italo Balbo and Minister of Communications Costanzo Ciano will not be affected by the shakeup, it is reliably predicted.

The chief interest is in the financial portfolio. Two names have been advanced for this post. One report is that Count Volpi, who resigned three years ago, will again become finance chief, and another report is that Il Duce will tender this portfolio to Alberto Beneduce, chairman of the world bank's advisory committee now sitting at Basel.

Will Shift Diplomatic Corps.

It is also stated that the ministries of war and marine will be combined into a single ministry of national defense, which Minister of Communications Ciano will take over.

The cabinet shakeup is also expected to be followed by certain changes in the diplomatic corps. It is reported that Alfredo Rocco, minister of justice, will become ambassador to the Vatican, repacing the present envoy, Count de Vecchi.

A cabinet meeting has been summoned for Saturday. It is expected to be the last reunion of the present council of ministers.

19 FINED FOR CHEATING.

Nine peddlers, four vegetable store owners, two butchers, a grocer, a baker and a cab driver, accused of cheating patrons, were fined a total of $283.25 yesterday by Judge Theodore Ribler of the Municipal court on complaint of City Sealer Joe Grein.

CANAL BOARD VOTES LAST OF FUNDS FOR PAY

Virtually the last dollar in the sanitary district's corporate fund went for salary purposes yesterday when the trustees voted a pay roll already six week overdue. After the district's 1,400 employés receive their $196,000 in salaries for the first two weeks in November there will remain only $17,000 in the district's fund.

Unless tax anticipation warrants or bonds can be sold before Jan. 1, the district will be forced to default on the payment of $1,500,000 in interest and amortization on its bonds, President Thomas J. Bowler said. The trustees declined to open bids on a million dollar sewer construction job yesterday, after district engineers had reported that work on six large jobs already under contract had been virtually stopped for want of money.

VOTE TO ABOLISH ELEVEN JOBS IN MAYOR'S CABINET

Finance Committee Acts to Cut Budget.

Abolishment of eleven positions in Mayor Cermak's cabinet was recommended late last night by the city council finance committee. The action, which will be presented today to the city council for approval, is part of the economy program urged by the mayor's advisory commission.

None of the job eliminations received the unanimous vote of the seven committee members. Individual aldermen championed individual officeholders, but a sufficient majority supported the slicing in each case. J. L. Jacobs, efficiency engineer, attended the session and cited reasons for discontinuing the offices.

List Jobs and Salaries.

The offices urged abolished, their holders and salaries follows:

Commissioner of public welfare, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Conkey, $5,000; commissioner of compensation, Edward J. Denemark, $6,000; commissioner of buildings, John E. Ericsson, $5,000; city physician, vacant, $4,000; superintendent of the license bureau, Fred Flachman, $6,000; business agent, John A. Cervenka, $6,000; chief boiler inspector, Harry Kohl, $4,000; city sealer, Joseph Grein, $5,000, and three market masters, $1,600 each.

An ordinance to abolish the office of commissioner of public service, held by Jerry O'Connor, was placed on file.

It is expected that the offices and departments affected will be recreated or amalgamated with other departments. Some of the cabinet members whose offices are recommended abolished probably will be placed in charge of bureaus when the various consolidations are completed. Mr. Jacobs, in urging the eliminations last night, said that there are 38 department heads, "too many for the mayor to keep in close contact with."

Would Merge Offices.

The committee also recommended the creation of a department of central purchasing, which, pertaining to city departments alone, would effect an annual saving of $1,000,000, it is said. Including the school board, library, municipal tuberculosis sanitarium, $500,000 more would be saved. The department would purchase all supplies and materials for all departments, but would not let contracts for improvements built by the board of local improvements or construction of roads, viaducts, and bridges by the department of public works. This would eliminate 124 employes.

Sewell Avery Testifies.

Earlier in the day the finance committee heard Sewell L. Avery, chairman of Montgomery Ward & Co., discuss the impressions of the business activities of the previous administration.

Mr. Avery appeared before the committee as chairman of Mayor Cermak's advisory commission to urge the passage of six ordinances consolidating various city activities in the interests of efficiency and reduced expenditures. The ordinances are the outgrowth of the survey of administration of city business which Mayor Cermak asked the commission to make as soon as he took office in April. Jacobs made the actual survey.

Awed by Needless Waste."

"We found the obstacles to these political retrenchments greater than we would have encountered in private business," Mr. Avery said. "Its contact with these obstacles made the executive committee (of the advisory commission) mellow, liberal, and sympathetic and caused it to vary its recommendations somewhat from what is happening in the business world.

"Much more could easily be done than is recommended here. We found scandalous inefficiency and rot in some places. The committee was awed by the needless waste that exists because of political management.

"These recommendations are not entirely Mr. Jacobs' report. The commission curbed and altered some of his plans. Our objective was to be so sensible and so reasonable that the plan could be accepted. It follows, then, that the amounts are less than could have been saved.

Describes Friendly Attitude.

"Efficiency will be increased and improved and the work will be done better. We are working with you and not against you. This is the minimum that you dare to do and the maximum that we dared to recommend. We have tried to be constructive, friendly, and cooperative."

The committee opened its discussion on the ordinance creating a new department of service and regulatory inspection. Plumbing, electrical, smoke, boiler, refrigerator, weights and measures, and building inspection, now scattered in several departments and a number of semi-independent bureaus, would be concentrated in the new department.

Whereas the combined 1931 appropriations for these inspection services were $1,450,000, Jacobs estimated that the services could be combined and the same work done on a $1,050,000 appropriation in 1932. The ordinance was referred to the corporation counsel for an opinion when Ald. B. A. Cronson [4th] pointed out that some of the jobs it abolishes are statutory and that the abolishment might jeopardize the collection of fees by the new department.

PEDESTRIANS GET BREAK AT NEW TRAFFIC LIGHT

A traffic light operated by pedestrians and for pedestrians—the first of the kind in Chicago—was installed yesterday at 99th street and Ewing avenue, a block from the Tayler school and near Calumet park.

The light will show green to Ewing avenue continuously unless a pedestrian presses a button on the standard or a vehicle trips an automatic trigger in the pavement of 99th street when it will give the go light to the crossing pedestrian or vehicle. For this crossing Ewing avenue traffic is stopped a minimum of 14 seconds and a maximum of 35 seconds. The minimum green for Ewing avenue traffic is 40 seconds.

"This type of light," said Leslie Sorenson, city traffic expert, "is the most desirable for a situation like 99th and Ewing. On 99th the occasional vehicle and the pedestrian need this protection to crossing the street. Ewing is a busy thoroughfare. With the usual arbitrarily timed light, Ewing traffic would be stopped for a red light every minute when the stop would be unnecessary nine times out of ten.

"The city is planning to install about half a dozen more of these lights. Their location has not been definitely decided."

GOVERNOR STAYS EXECUTION OF 2 COLORED KILLERS

Ben Norsingle, 19 years old, and John Reed, 24 years old, Negro slayers, yesterday were granted a stay of execution by Gov. Emmerson. They were to have been executed in the electric chair at the county jail this morning.

Gov. Emmerson granted the stay to enable counsel for the defendants to perfect an appeal to the state supreme court. The stay is to expire Jan. 15.

Norsingle and Reed were identified as the slayers of John Martin, manager of the General Market store at 4271 Drexel boulevard, during a holdup on Aug. 3. Martin had been spending half his weekly salary to provide food for needy Negroes. The neighborhood was aroused over the slaying and aided in the capture of Norsingle and Reed. They were convicted by a jury on Nov. 10.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED.

George Eliakis, 54 years old, was found dead yesterday in bed at his home, 2503 Van Buren street. Heart disease apparently was the cause of death.

KIN OF MIKADO CHOSEN TO HEAD JAPANESE ARMY

Prince Agrees to Take Over High Post.

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Dec. 18.—(Friday.)—(AP)—A spokesman for the Japanese war office announced today the army in Manchuria has been obliged to make plans to launch an extensive military campaign in the area of the South Manchurian railway to suppress bandits there.

TOKIO, Dec. 18.—[Friday.]—(AP)—Field Marshal Prince Kotohito Kanin has been selected as chief of the general staff to succeed Gen. Hanso Kanaya.

It is the first time since the Russo-Japanese war that a prince of the royal blood has been chosen for the post and the vernacular newspapers said Prince Kanin, a kinsman of Emperor Hirohito, had agreed to accept the appointment.

The proposed appointment of Prince Kanin as chief of general staff is with the aim of obtaining unification and consolidation of military affairs in Manchuria during the present critical period.

Fire on Student Rioters.

(Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.)

SHANGHAI, Dec. 17.—Student riots swept Nanking today simultaneously with the arrival in the capital of the Cantonese leaders, who will form a new government.

Many students were wounded when troops fired upon them after they had wrecked the building of the Central Daily News, official organ of the Kuomintang [Nationalist] party. A government official is reported to have been stabbed to death by students, and several of the youths were drowned when they jumped into a creek to escape the charge of the soldiers.

Dr. C. C. Wu, Eugene Chen, Dr. Sun Fo, Li Wen-fan, and Pson Lu were the Cantonese leaders aboard the special train which left Shanghai for Nanking this morning, their train being preceded by an armored train. Soldiers with fixed bayonets and policemen armed with mauser pistols guarded the party as it left here amid cheers.

Acclaim Canton Leaders.

On their arrival in Nanking the Cantonese were enthusiastically welcomed by a large crowd headed by Lin Sen, acting president of the government.

About 3,000 students from Peiping, Tsinan, Tientsin and Shanghai started demonstrating at noon. Attempts to rush the foreign office and the central Kuomintang headquarters were frustrated by a large force of policemen and soldiers.

PLEADS GUILTY TO $250,000 FRAUD SCHEME

Louis L. Gottlieb, an attorney and real estate mortgage broker, pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to defraud scores of investors of a total of $250,000 yesterday in the Criminal court. Judge Philip Sullivan deferred sentence to Jan. 4.

The sentence was postponed by Judge Sullivan on the plea of Gottlieb's attorneys that their client was suffering from an incurable skin disease and could not live six months. Gottlieb is 53 years old. He is at liberty on a $50,000 bond.

The theft of the investors' money occurred in 1929. Gottlieb fled from the city early in November of that year and was reported in distant parts of the world until he was captured in Indianapolis last May.

FEARS TOLD

MRS. MARTHA HUTCHINSON.

WOMAN HUNTED IN SLAYING OF HERB PEDDLER

A woman was sought last night as the possible slayer of Jozen Mozendarth Barru, 45 years old, an East Indian and owner of a herb medicine shop at 3607 South State street. He was shot to death early yesterday morning at Kedzie avenue and 115th street.

In his hand he clutched a few strands of long, black hair, suggesting to police that he had grappled with his killer and that the killer probably was a woman. It was further theorized that male companions of the woman did the actual shooting while she held Barru.

The suspicion that a woman figured in the murder was bolstered by the story of Mrs. Sara Barru, colored wife of the herb seller. She said that her husband received many calls from a woman whose voice appeared cultured. Wednesday night the same woman telephoned, she said, and asked for Barru. Barru, after talking to her, left, Mrs. Barru revealed, saying he would return in a few hours. Police believe the call lured him to his death.

97 CHRISTMAS PAROLES GIVEN BY EMMERSON

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Gov. L. L. Emmerson today announced he had granted 97 Christmas paroles which were made effective Tuesday, Dec. 15.

Time granted the convicts ranged from one day in one case to 45 days in several cases. Twenty of the men getting these Christmas gifts were imprisoned in the southern Illinois penitentiary, at Menard; 37 in the Illinois state penitentiary at Joliet, and 40 in the Illinois state reformatory at Pontiac.

Paroles were made effective, the governor said, so that the men might get home in time to plan Christmas.

SLAIN WOMAN'S FEAR OF DOCTOR TOLD AT TRIAL

Dragged Her from Party, His Ex-Roommate Says.

Reno, Nev., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Bernard [Red] Underwood, former roommate of Dr. Carl Pierre Andre, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Martha Hutchinson, testified today that an hour before the young West Virginia widow was killed Dr. Andre had told her that she would never see Underwood again.

"We three were in the apartment about 6 p. m.," Underwood said. "I thought Dr. Andre and Mrs. Hutchinson were going out to the 'Lazy Me' ranch, and Martha invited me to go with them, but Dr. Andre said they weren't coming back this way.

"Martha said, 'I'll see you later,' but Dr. Andre said to both of us, 'No, you won't see him any more.' He seemed to be sincere about it."

Tells of Woman's Fear.

Shortly before Underwood's testimony, a statement that Mrs. Hutchinson feared she would be beaten by Dr. Andre was read into the evidence. Testimony given by Maxwell R. McMillan was entered over the protests of defense attorneys.

Underwood testified that never once had he seen Mrs. Hutchinson intoxicated. Yesterday Mrs. Claire Scott, a divorcee who had been termed "the woman in the case" by the prosecution, testified on cross-examination that both Underwood and Mrs. Hutchinson were "frequently under the influence of liquor," and that only two nights before the young widow's death she and Underwood were "very much intoxicated."

Dragged Her from Party.

The incident at the Vanderbilt dude ranch when Dr. Andre is supposed to have dragged Mrs. Hutchinson from a party and then across the corral to his automobile was related in part by Underwood.

He had gone to the "Lazy Me" ranch with Dr. Andre, Underwood said, in search of the dentist's machine, which had been driven here by Mrs. Hutchinson.

"Dr. Andre went up to the place they call the 'Block House,' while I remained in the car," he testified. "The next I saw was the doctor dragging Mrs. Hutchinson to the car."

HOLD UP SOUTH SIDE STORE.

Two Negro bandits forced Charles Hoffman, 8147 Eberhart avenue, manager of the Feichenfeld brothers market at 227 East 47th street, to hand over $131 from the cash drawer yesterday.

FOES OF DRY LAW IN BOTH PARTIES UNITE ON PLAN OF BATTLE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Complete "harmony" and "unity of purpose" were reported by Republican and Democratic "wets" today after officials of the new Republican group for prohibition reform had conferred with Representative Charles Linthicum [Dem., Md.], leader of the house repealists for several years. The Republicans formed their own group yesterday electing Representative James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.] their leader. Mr. Beck explained that the new organization was for the purpose of keeping the bi-partisan aspect of a concerted movement but others among the Republicans said they had demanded that the administration party not let the "wet" issue go to the Democrats by default of leadership.

JUDGE ORDERS AUDITOR NELSON TO TRIAL MONDAY

Will Face Misfeasance Charge at Woodstock.

The trial of State Auditor Oscar Nelson on charges of misfeasance in office will begin next Monday at Woodstock, Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of McHenry county announced last night. A panel of veniremen was summoned by the judge. The trial was originally scheduled for Jan. 18, but Judge Shurtleff said he saw no reason why the misfeasance hearing should be delayed until then.

OSCAR NELSON.

State Auditor Nelson was indicted by the Lake county grand jury in connection with the closing of the Waukegan State bank last June. The charge of misfeasance in office was based on the state auditor's alleged neglect to close the bank until long after it was insolvent.

Faces Another Charge.

Mr. Nelson was also charged with conspiracy together with Norman O. Geyer, president of the closed bank, and George Woodruff, former chairman of the board of the National Bank of the Republic, which is now merged with the Central Trust company as the Central Republic Bank and Trust company. The three defendants on the conspiracy charge will be placed on trial Jan. 18 before Judge Shurtleff.

The state auditor and the other defendants obtained a change of venue from Lake county to McHenry county on the ground that prejudice existed against them in Lake county and an impartial jury could not be chosen.

Judge Shurtleff yesterday overruled Nelson's motion to quash the indictment and his motion to stand trial separately on the conspiracy charge. The judge then announced the date of the misfeasance trial, declaring that previous objections of attorneys had been removed.

The Proviso State bank of Maywood was closed by State Auditor Nelson yesterday morning at the request of the board of directors. The bank has capital of $100,000, surplus of $50,000, and deposits of $350,000. The records showed that approximately $1,000,000 in deposits had been withdrawn in the last year and a half.

Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg yesterday was busy preparing for his investigation of the Sheridan Trust and Savings bank which starts next week. The bank closed last June with deposit liabilities of $5,276,000.

Bain Under Knife Tomorrow.

A surgical operation upon John Bain, head of the 12 Bain banks which closed last May, will be performed tomorrow morning in the Evangelical hospital of Chicago, according to an announcement last night by Dr. Frank Phifer, attending surgeon. Bain may not be questioned with safety for four weeks after this operation, the physician said.

Depositors of the Second Northwestern State bank will be paid a 10 per cent dividend this week as the result of an order signed yesterday by Judge Joseph Burke. The dividend will total about $200,000.

WOMEN BANDITS ROB BUTCHER.

Two women with revolvers and a man companion, locked Walter Bertke in the icebox of his butcher shop at 6200 South Campbell avenue and fled with $60 from the cash register yesterday.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Modification of the anti-trust laws to permit industries to consolidate and keep production in line with consumption, the setting up by business itself of a voluntary economic council and establishment of privately financed unemployment benefits were advised today by the chamber of commerce of the United States as the nucleus of a national program to lift the country out of the present period of economic depression.

The chamber recommended needed relief without any federal appropriation or "dole."

The chamber's program was based on a referendum on eleven recommendations submitted to its membership, the proposals on which the vote was taken having been prepared by a special committee.

"The subject matter of the two referenda," the chamber said, "takes on particular importance at this time by reason of the fact that in the present session of congress virtually all of the proposals advanced will be given consideration in one form or another.

The four main recommendations made by the chamber to promote economic stability, dealing with long range problems and the immediate situation, were given as follows:

"The setting up by business itself of a national economic council to aid all fields of industry, finance and commerce in their planning.

"Modification of the anti-trust laws to make clear lawfulness of agreements intended to relate production to consumption.

"Relief in emergencies for the natural resource industries, such as coal, oil and lumber, by the creation of a government tribunal which would permit agreements for curtailment of production when in the public interest.

"Establishment of privately financed systems of unemployment benefits as well as other similar benefits and upon definite reserves previously established."

3 FLYERS KILLED AS ARMY PLANES CRASH IN FLIGHT

Mount Clemens, Mich., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Two army planes from Selfridge field crashed in the air this afternoon near New Baltimore, eight miles north of the army field. Three flyers were killed, one of them in a vain attempt to escape by parachute.

The dead are:

Lawrence W. Koons, 23, second lieutenant, regular army, of Bloomington, Ill.

Charles M. Wilson, 32, second lieutenant, air corps reserve, of Ann Arbor, Mich.

Walter Lauver, 32, sergeant, regular army, of Big Cove, Pa., an observer.

All three were attached to the 17th pursuit squad stationed at Selfridge field.

Engaged in Mimic Battle.

In attack formation, the planes were engaged in a mimic battle, in which eight planes were taking part. Koons was flying underneath with Lauver. Suddenly his plane nosed upwards and crashed into the one piloted by Wilson while the ships were less than 300 feet from the ground.

Lauver leaped when not more than 100 feet in the air, but his parachute had no chance to open.

The body of Sergt. Lauver was found 250 yards from one of the wrecked planes, his body tangled in his parachute. The planes fell about 350 feet apart in adjoining fields. The bodies of the pilots were found in the wreckage.

Both Planes Demolished.

Both planes were demolished, but the wreckage of neither caught fire. The single seater plane was a Boeing fighter with a Wasp engine; the other was a Consolidated primary training plane, powered with a Wright Whirlwind engine.

Second Lieutenant Donald L. Putt was in charge of the formation.

Lieut. Koons came to Selfridge field two years ago from Chanute field, Rantoul, Ill. Wilson had been at Selfridge less than two months. He came here from Kelly field.

Army ambulances eight miles away were rushed to the scene and brought the bodies back to Selfridge field.

During the excitement several persons were injured when two automobiles collided in a road nearby.

DISBARRED

JOHN J. GORMAN IS DISBARRED BY SUPREME COURT

John J. Gorman, the lawyer and former congressman who acted for the former city administration in "exposing" supposed British propaganda in textbooks used in the Chicago public schools, was disbarred from the practise of law yesterday by order of the Illinois Supreme court.

The high court found from the evidence submitted against Gorman by the Chicago Bar association that he was "shifty, unreliable, untruthful, untrustworthy, and unfitted for service in the high and honorable office of an attorney and counsellor of this court."

The Chicago Bar association instituted the proceedings as a result of Gorman's conduct in preferring charges against William McAndrew, when the latter was superintendent of schools. Gorman was prosecutor and principal witness in the trial of Mr. McAndrew before the board of education, which resulted in an order for the superintendent's ouster.

Supporting the campaign charge of the former mayor of Chicago that McAndrew was a "paid agent of the English crown," Gorman also condemned as pro-British a textbook written by Prof. David Saville Mussey of Columbia university. Dr. Mussey filed a libel suit against Gorman, but withdrew it after Gorman signed a stipulation and issued a formal apology in which he stated there was no basis for the charges he had made.

Discussing this apology the Supreme court said:

"By the facts stated in his recent stipulation and his brief and argument in the proceedings herein, respondent Gorman has shown that he does not conform to the standard fixed by the legal profession. The judgment will, therefore, be entered that the rule be made absolute and respondent's name stricken from the roll of attorneys of this court."

LAWYER SEIZED IN PATENT FIGHT FREED BY JUDGE

David Fox, young Milwaukee lawyer, who was arrested while gathering evidence for a patent suit in the yards of the Ingersoll Steel and Disc company, was freed by Judge Leon Edelman in the Grand Crossing court yesterday. Fox had been charged with trespassing, but he promised to turn over drawings and photographs made in the factory to the Ingersoll company. The evidence was sought for use in a suit to be instituted by the Budd Wheel company of Philadelphia.

Fire in Stockyards Ties Up Traffic; Loss, $25,000

Traffic on South Ashland avenue was delayed for an hour and a half last evening by hose lines laid down by firemen fighting a $25,000 fire in a five story warehouse of Swift & Co. in the stockyards. The structure, at 43d and Justine streets, is used for the storage of fertilizers and wool. Most of the damage was to wool stocks on the fifth floor.

Don't buy an OUT-OF-DATE tube!

If it isn't a quick heater it isn't the latest type

WHEN you go to your dealer for radio tubes tell him you want the new-type quick heaters, and make sure you get them. The market is flooded with old-style slow-heating tubes, sold under supposedly reputable brands. And if you buy them today, you're not getting your money's worth.

There's no reason why you should put up any longer with the delay and inconvenience of slow-heating tubes. Don't worry about prices . . . you pay no premium for modern quick-heating Eveready Raytheons. Note these new low prices:

TYPE	NEW LOW PRICE
ER 227	$1.00
ER 224	1.60
ER 245	1.60
ER 251	1.60
ER 245	1.10
ER 247	1.55
ER 280	1.90
ER 226	.80
ER 171-A	.90
ER 201-A	.75

When you buy a tube ask your dealer these three questions:

1. Is this a new-type tube?
2. Is it a quick heater?
3. How quick? (If a tube doesn't heat up in ten seconds or less, it isn't worthy of a modern radio.)

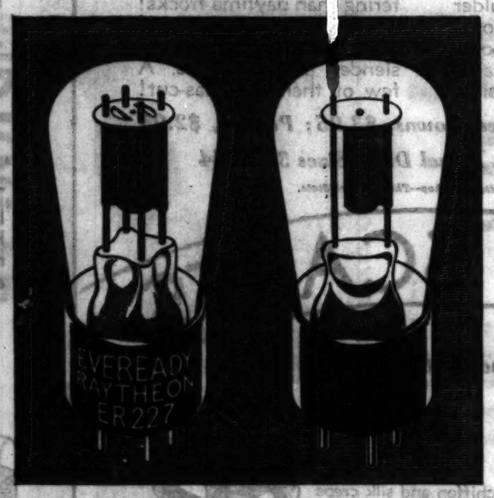
Have the dealer prove to you that you are getting quick-heater tubes. And time the test yourself. A quick start is your guarantee of getting up-to-date tubes.

Seconds count, in radio. While you're waiting for old-style tubes to go into action, you may be missing an important announcement—the song of a favorite star—the introduction of a speaker—the thrilling climax of a sport event.

All Eveready Raytheon Tubes have the rugged 4-pillar construction that gives you clear, true, natural tone, undisturbed by jolts or bumps. And remember—an Eveready Raytheon heats up in a bare 7 seconds. Get modern tubes and get the best!



Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation the fragile parts cannot move a hair's breadth from their fixed position. Ordinary tubes have only a two-pillar foundation. Two supports instead of four! Jolts, bumps and vibration often impair their vital accuracy.

MRS. MARKS GETS HER MAN, EVEN IF IT TAKES YEARS

And She Forthwith Pours Him Into Police Station.

Mrs. Beatrice Marks, 4184 Drexel boulevard, proved yesterday to Paul Sylvestri, 7539 Lexington street, the truth of the adage that she who flirts last, flirts best.

A taxicab drew up before the South state street police station a little before noon yesterday. In it were a man and a woman—Mrs. Marks and Mr. Sylvestri. Mrs. Marks got out. It can safely be said that Mr. Sylvestri got out; it would be more accurate to say that Mrs. Marks with the help of the chauffeur poured him out. He was not willed.

Somehow or other the lady and her helper took him across the sidewalk and into the station and propped him against the desk.

She Gets Her Man.

"Here he is," said Mrs. Marks. "It took me nearly three years to find him, but I will say that when Beatrice Marks starts out on the trail she always gets her man."

Then to Desk Sergt. William Dillon, she told the story of two flirtations, one of which was disastrous to her and the other, it appears, to Paul Sylvestri.

"It was on Jan. 11, 1929, that I met Mr. Sylvestri," she asserted. "He is, as you can see, a charming young person even when gin has made him willowy as he now is. He dined with me at Randolph and Clark streets and I admit I flirted a little with him, too.

"So we went to dinner in a cabaret at 22d street. We had some drinks and such was the trust I placed in Mr. Sylvestri that I had no idea when he invited me for another taxi ride that his intention was to rob me. But so he did, at 18th and Canal streets. He took my rings, which were worth $2,700, and the $270 I had in my purse.

Sees Him in Elevator.

"Since then I have hunted everywhere for Mr. Sylvestri. I could never forget that face and today I saw it in an elevator at 815 North Franklin street. Again we flirted and again Mr. Sylvestri suggested food and drink. We went to a speakeasy and he drank his drinks and my drinks until he wobbled. And then I put him in a taxi and told him I was going to take him home. So here he is, and this is the right home for him."

A complaint, charging Sylvestri with robbery, was made out and signed and he was taken to a cell, where he went to sleep and snored loudly. A little before 6 p. m. an interviewer awakened him.

"Where am I?" he asked.

He was told that he was in jail and that the peculiar criss cross effect in his vision was caused by the bars. It was added that he was charged with robbery by a woman with whom he had flirted.

"What woman?" he asked. "I never robbed one in my life and I don't remember flirting with any today. But this is going to be a lesson to me. I want to get out of here and go to work."

NOW DUNCAN SISTERS WONDER WHERE THAT MILLION DISAPPEARED

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Vivian and Rosetta Duncan today testified before Rupert Turnbull, federal referee in bankruptcy, that, while their liabilities total about $50,000, their assets amount chiefly to their grips, their stage patter, and a desire to pay their debts.

Both sisters testified. Their testimony was that their bank accounts were all, their automobiles gone, their house being foreclosed for a mortgage, their jewelry pawned, while suits and creditors clamor from London to Los Angeles.

From testimony it appeared that the Duncan sisters took in more than $1,000,000 in royalties and stage and film salaries in recent years.

"I have no idea where it went," Rosetta testified.

Two Sailors Escape Brig at Great Lakes Station

Two sailors sawed through bars of the brig at the Great Lakes Naval Training station yesterday and escaped. The fugitives are Thomas Hart, formerly of Chicago, a second class seaman, and James Theron Williams of Maywood, Cal., a fireman, second class. Ten other prisoners in the brig made no attempt to follow the pair. Williams was arrested at Nashville, Tenn., on Aug. 28 on a charge of stealing an automobile, and was taken to the naval training station to await court martial. Hart was arrested on Dec. 4 for overstaying his leave.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

NOW AN INCOME TAX.

The Illinois senate has passed an income tax bill. All public institutions in the state are cracked because of overtaxation and the remedy proposed in the legislature is another tax. The wealth which can be taxed is vanishing. The incomes on which government tries to levy its percentages have disappeared. The Chicago school teachers are unpaid. Public employes are facing empty treasuries. There is no provision for the satisfaction of bond obligations. Tax anticipation warrants cannot be sold. Public credit is gone. Public money cannot be raised. Taxation has destroyed the sources of revenue. The cure adopted by the Illinois senate is another tax.

With such a state of mind prevailing the case seems hopeless. Government already has exhausted the taxpaying capacity of the citizenship. Collections cannot be made now with the levies which law already has imposed. The ability to collect vanishes with the ability of the citizen to pay. The political illusion seems to be that if new forms of taxation are discovered new sources of taxable wealth will be found. Illusion cannot create sources of revenue. New tax laws cannot bring forth taxable dollars. New levies can only further depress the community, increasing the burdens which already have half destroyed it.

It may be natural for politics to seek substitutes for the cutting of government costs, but the substitutes will not be found. The costs have brought down the whole structure and there will be no recovery until the cause of the damage has been dealt with. That is the last thing the politicians will agree to do.

The Illinois income tax proposals are aimed at Chicago by the squirarchy, but Chicago cannot pay the taxes already levied on it. Reason has not taught the political machine anything as yet. We'll see what experience will do. It promises to be a bitter lesson and when the experience is full the patient will be very sick.

A CALIFORNIA PARTICULAR.

The extraordinary development of a high mist in southern California has given the upland environs of Los Angeles several inches of snow. In Los Angeles itself the mist was perceived by visitors as a cold, penetrating all day rain, but the natives observed nothing but a slight fog. Indeed, some of them could not observe that, but remarked upon the brilliance of the sunlight. It is presumed in other parts of the country that the mist did not attend the Southern California-Georgia football game Saturday, but of that no certainty. It is true that the radio announcer mentioned the sun kissed, golden warmth of the afternoon and described the shadows lengthening toward the end of day upon the defeated Georgians. Even in the dusk the sun shines upon the native players. But the radio announcements from Los Angeles football fields are to be taken technically. Last year a game played part of the time in a downpour and the rest of the time in a drizzle was described to faraway listeners as being played in sun kissed golden warmth. There was not even a high mist.

A good Californian would have noticed the remarkable dryness and sun kissed golden warmth of the deluge if it had come anywhere near Los Angeles.

THE SPANISH PRESIDENT.

Don Niceto Alcala Zamora is the first president of Spain under the constitution. He has taken the oath to support it, has been inaugurated and installed in the Bourbon palace, which he, with his family, immediately deserted for a night's sleep at home. Among the political marvels of the last decade or so in Europe the Spanish republic is not the least. Even when more volatile or more excitable countries were in upheaval it seemed probable that the institutions which were cracking and tumbling down elsewhere could preserve themselves in Spain, but there has been a complete break with traditions. Spain starts life afresh with its democracy released to full power, with the king a refugee and the church separated from the state.

The new republic is in what sometimes proves a revolution, to be only the first stage. Moderates may not actually begin revolutions, but generally they carry them to their first success. The preliminary agitators may be radicals and extremists, but it is not until the moderates have taken up the cause that it becomes formidable to the government to be overthrown. Then on nearly every occasion there has been a revival of the extremists. In the American revolution it was not very violent, although the American radicals seemed dangerous to the conservatives of the time. The American founders were able to compromise.

In the Cromwell revolution the extremists could not overthrow Cromwell, but they drove him to a dictatorship and they frustrated the revolution by bringing back the Stuarts. The French moderates were driven out by the radicals and the recovery from that went a long way back to absolutism. The Russian moderates were driven out by the radicals who have yet to write the finis of their episode. Germany is now balancing between the extremes of communism and Fascism. Italy avoided a revolution of communism by submitting to a dictatorship.

With historic admonitions the new Spanish republic steps out to meet or make its destiny. Its radicals have threatened to have their own way or go back to the barricades. If the republic weathers the period of uncertainty, preserving democracy against anarchy or dictatorship which extremists would make necessary, the Spanish republic may lead the Spanish people again on the road to the power and prosperity which absolutism destroyed centuries ago.

GOING TO BEARDSTOWN.

Beardstown is on the Illinois river below Havana and northwest of Springfield, an old fashioned river town of central Illinois where the community learns occasionally to take a cheerful view of flood waters and get compensation out of the duck shooting. Beardstown never expected to become historic. At least its chances were none that other municipalities could not consider reasonable in their prospects.

Beardstown had certain associations with the sanitary district of Chicago, dealing largely with compensations, as was the case with other river towns which found conditions changed by the sanitary canal, but it did not expect immortality from that and it seems now purely fortuitous that Beardstown should have found the hall of fame and other towns have escaped it. However, as it is being revealed in the trial of sanitary district officials, Beardstown was destined.

It was where the pay rollers went when they did not go anywhere. When an expense account was to cover unearned earnings the beneficiary of the district went to Beardstown. If the travel discovered in the district accounts had been actual Beardstown would now be a metropolitan area with almost as many hotels as Chicago and with almost as many taxicabs.

"Going to Beardstown" is due for a permanent place in the American idiom. It represents one of the consummations chiefly desired in political action and, if anything can be expected of the future of politics from an examination of its past, travel to Beardstown will be heavy whenever there is an opportunity. It may not do Beardstown much good over the counter or in the cash register, but nevertheless there's immortality in it.

CARELESS ARRESTS.

Judge McKinlay has protested to the police department against sweeping and careless arrests. He points out that when innocent and law abiding citizens are gathered in it is not only unjust to the individual victims but conducive to disrespect for law and to prejudice against the police.

We agree with Judge McKinlay, while recognizing, as he does, the difficulties with which our crime conditions surround police work. Probably, as he points out, the public indignation against widespread crime and its intricate relations with corrupt politics has put a pressure for action upon the police force leading to spectacular methods in which a careful regard for individual rights is weakened. Judge McKinlay recognizes the good intentions of Commissioner Allman and his chief of detectives, as do we, and also the difficulty of imposing upon policemen more cautious methods. But it is an unescapable duty of the higher command, and the judge's reminder should assist its performance.

Roundups of suspected lawbreakers, gangsters and men of disreputable association are essential to police work and assist justice in the main. But they should be limited carefully. We hear too often of the arrest of respectable citizens upon very ill founded suspicion, and the wrong to them more than offsets any advantage that may be derived from the running down of the offense of which they are suspected. It is better for the public welfare and even for police efficiency that a guilty man should escape than an innocent suffer the discredit of arrest. The community is sore beset by crime and demands of the police the most energetic and persistent effort against criminals. It should allow for the difficulties with which the police are beset. But the first duty of law enforcement is respect for the law and for individual rights, though a régime of fanaticism seems to have obscured that duty in high authority and law.

Editorial of the Day

THE FOOTBALL REACTION.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]

Post-season football talk differs in several respects from that of earlier seasons. There is some of the usual complaining about the failure of coaches to produce winners, and in the course of time the usual number of changes in college athletic departments will doubtless be made.

The new and unexpected development is the rising tide of criticism in undergraduate bodies against high powered football and the measures which seem to be necessary to keep it in high gear. Undergraduate publications at Columbia and New York university are bitter in their criticism of these measures and demand important changes in athletic policy. And in the middle west, at the Universities of Kansas, Nebraska, and Oklahoma similar protests have been made.

Undergraduates everywhere seem to be losing interest in the game. They feel little obligation to support the team either with their money or their lung power. And where a decade ago the undergraduate who dared to remain out of the cheering section on Saturday afternoon was censured by his association for his lack of spirit, thousands of undergraduates look not to football but elsewhere for their Saturday afternoon diversion. Football, they say, is for them who want to play it.

This change in attitude is reflected along with the depression in football receipts. And at many colleges sport budgets are being trimmed sharply to meet this changing situation. In at least one instance a legislative committee has been appointed to study athletic expenditures and to find a means of reducing them.

All of which seems to mean that the problem of overemphasis on football will take care of itself, and that the gridiron sport will presently be reduced to its proper place in the educational program. And the huge college stadia will stand as monuments reflecting little credit on the college administrations which made them rather than laboratories and libraries, the most important units in campus activities.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

THE ADVANTAGES OF COLD FEET.

If a person is improperly clothed he is likely to catch cold. The infection may take the form of rheumatism or neuralgia, pneumonia, bronchitis, sore throat, a common cold—without exhausting the list of possibilities. These are accepted facts that are about to be established. Every one knows them and, what's more, they have long been a part of our body of common information. Science is establishing them—supplying basic proof of the correctness of common information.

A late study, and a very thorough one, comes from Dr. F. B. Talbot. Using delicate heat measuring instruments, he proved that the temperature of the skin varied in different regions. The hands and the feet not only feel cold but they are cold at times. The local temperatures vary with variations in the temperature of the atmosphere.

Some parts of the body are more readily chilled than others. Exercise, work, and eating are factors not only in the production of heat but in the amount which is thrown off by the skin. Shivering is one of nature's great remedial measures. It is far superior to taking a drink of hot whisky, for the latter has small virtue, and none of that is due to the whisky. Shivering is a muscle contraction having as its purpose the manufacture of heat, the purpose of which in turn is to warm up the body. Even gooseflesh is divinely appointed. It serves to decrease the loss of heat when too much would otherwise be fed to the air.

Cold feet is also beneficent in a small way. It helps the body to live within its income or, in other words, it reduces the expenditure of heat when the supply runs low.

Other investigators have proved that these changes in the temperatur of different parts of the skin produce such internal changes in the distribution of the blood as cause swollen turbinates, stopped up nose, snoring, coughs, and congestion of the lungs. Still others have related them to infections. One practical lesson to get out of all this is that keeping well clothed and wrapped in very cold weather is one wa of avoiding such infections. It does not follow that such swaddling cannot be overdone.

Dr. Talbot's study proved that the skin of the face is more resistant to cold than is that of any other part of the body. That observation proves that the hardening process a good measure of protection against colds and other infections. Taking cold water and cold air baths and dressing lightly are valuable training procedures in building up body resistance. The place of the wrapping and covering procedures is to meet temporary conditions to care for exposures that the skin has not been trained to overcome.

COCOANUTS AS FOOD.

Mrs. A. T. R. writes:

1. Can you give me any information as to the food value of cocoanuts?

2. I have heard that some physicians recommend cocoanut for diabetes. Can you corroborate this?

REPLY.

1. One ounce of shredded cocoanut contains 191 calories, of which 7 are from proteins, 36 from carbohydrates, and the remainder from fats. The meat of the cocoanut is a rich food, especially valuable as a source of fats. As with other foods rich in vegetable fats, one must be especially careful not to overindulge. It should not be depended on as the sole food.

2. If so I have never heard it. Nor would there be any logic in such a proposal.

GALL BLADDER.

R. E. writes:

1. What are some of the causes of inflammation of the gall bladder?

2. What can be done to prevent further attacks?

REPLY.

1. Infection of the gall bladder is sometimes an after-effect of typhoid fever. Among the supposed causes are overeating, eating improper diet, and lack of exercise.

2. Operation is required in many cases. Among measures that are commonly employed are careful eating, avoiding heavy meals and rich foods, avoiding excess of meats, eggs, condiments, and sauces, eating a light evening meal.

NOT COMPULSORY.

Aurora, Ill., Dec. 11.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Can I be made to complete purchase of a piece of real estate though I did not sign a contract, but paid a small sum of money to a broker, witnessed by the owner? 2. Can I recover the money? The money paid down was to hold the property until the deed and abstract could be seen. F. C. A.

1. No.

2. Not if the owner is ready to carry out his agreement.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

WOULD DISRUPT SCHEDULE.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—[Friend of the People.]—What community house would a person living at 5050 to 5200 North Keating avenue or 5050 to 5200 North Cicero avenue be admitted to? A group of boys from 15 to 18 years old have formed a basketball team but are refused permission to use the gymnasium. They were informed that they did not reside in the district. O. J. J.

Replying to this inquiry you are advised that these boys live in Jefferson Park district. Our gymnasium is occupied by regular classes every afternoon and evening of the week and these boys are welcome to enter any of these classes. It would be impossible to grant them the exclusive use of the gymnasium, as this would interfere with our season schedule. BERTEL G. ECKLUND, Secretary, Jefferson Park District.

SALESMAN'S SAMPLES.

Chicago, Dec. 12.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A company intrusts a salesman with sample items of its products and tells him that samples are furnished by the company free of charge, but makes him sign a memorandum of agreement, on which all of the items are named with no price stated. Can they demand payment upon presentation of a memorandum stating prices, although the samples were returned to the company? 1. Could the company force payment? 2. Could I be sued outside of Chicago for the above mentioned matter in the amount of $25.00? The company is located outside of Illinois. J. T.

1. Not on the facts stated.

2. Not unless the creditor can find you or your assets at the point where they are.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. R. H. L.

THE PRINCE OF WALES has burst out in poetry (of a kind). At a meeting of the Travel Association of Great Britain he recited this original ode:

Early to bed and early to rise—
You'll soon be bust if you don't advertise.

Peerless, what! But listen, Edward David, now we'll tell you one:

That six months' quarantine law for each pup,
Makes tourists with dogs pass England right up.

WHICH REMINDS US that we were speaking to a Britisher once of that odious six months' quarantine law for every hound (four legged, of course) that came into England and he agreed with all the maledictions we uttered. "Quite so!" said he, "a silly law; oh, rawther! And unnecessary since the discovery of inoculation against rabies. But when a thing is once made into a law, even if it is something quite silly, or if experience shows it to work harm instead of good, it is quite difficult to have it changed. You know something about that yourself, being an American. You have some sort of law over there prohibiting the selling of Scotch, beer, and what not that none of you seem to care for very much, but you seem a bit slow in getting rid of it, what!"

"Let us change the subject," said we hurriedly.

THE BABY AND THE BRUTES.

Where red-eyed camels crouched outside the khan,
And solemn asses once forgot to bray,
The concourse of the creatures less than man
Assembled on that first far Christmas day.

Hushed was the wolf's howl on the nearer hill,
Nor scarce a grunt from swine within the pen,
And even restless dogs were strangely still,
While softer came the cluck of the mother hen.

These creatures were akin to Mary and her child—
Each doomed to sorrow and a sacrificial loss;
For lordly man—whose ways were ever wild—
Demands his feast of flesh from off a bloody cross.

Give way, O world of bronze and battle,
Let all the guns and drums of war be mute;
The child asleep beneath the feet of cattle
Ennobles every meekly lowing barnyard brute.

Give way, O shepherds, to your humble sheep
That call and crowd about the stable door;
Let brown eyes blink and take a single peep
At the baby in the straw upon the stable floor.

Give way, O wise men, with your bags of gold,
That little lambs may nibble at this straw;
Their fleece will keep Him from the bitter cold;
Their eyes will see what wise men never saw.

THE U. S. AUTHORITIES in these parts are reported to be much distressed over the rumors that Mr. A. Capone is ruling his loyal subjects in Chicago and carrying on the government of his realm from his throne room in the county jail. What, in the county jail? Right here in Chicago? Why, how strange! Wasn't he sentenced to serve a term in the government incarceration plant in Leavenworth, Kas., or some such place? It must be he didn't want to go. He probably dislikes the climate in Kansas.

—:—

A YOUNG WOMAN BANDIT entered a butcher shop in Chicago yesterday and, flourishing a pistol, yelled at the trembling meat vender: "Gitthell into that ice box, you big stiff!" Ladies, ladies, if you must be bandits, please, oh, pretty please, do not say "Gitthell into that ice box, you big stiff." It would be much more ladylike to say, "Please get into the ice box, party." Remember, girls, a lady is always a lady.

IT'S THE DEPRESSION.

At least everybody blames everything else on the depression, so we might as well blame this on it, too. Anyway, the Linebook of 1931 is almost sold out. If you want a copy or ten copies or a hundred copies for yourself, for Christmas cards or Christmas presents, you'd better order them now. Don't say we didn't warn you.

THE COLLEGES are now busy taking the overemphasis out of football. Overemphasis, dear children, is a terrible blight, much like the boll weevil or the hideous corn borer, and it must be stamped out. And we always stamp it out at the end of each and every football season.

—:—

ADD HIGHLY SUPERFLUOUS QUESTIONS: "As an employé of the sanitary district during the whoopee régime, what work did you do?"

—:—

WHAT IN THE WORLD has become of the beautiful subway we were going to build in Chicago? The very word subway seems to have been forgotten. Anyhow, it was a fine idea.

—:—

BEFORE.

It would be easy if I could remember
That all things pass . . . if I could only believe
Some time this tightening loneliness shall vanish,
There will be springs when I have ceased to grieve.

That I shall go light-hearted into summer
As I have done before when love was through,
And find new magic shattering old starlight . . .
But, oh, my dear, those loves were never you!

HELEN WELSHIMER.

AN ACTRESS is going to marry the doctor who saved her by a delicate surgical operation from death. That's fine, but after the wedding suppose the doctor is called in to do the same surgical operation for another actress at the point of death. Heck, what's he going to do?

—:—

EARTHQUAKE SHOCKS were reported yesterday from Texas, Tennessee, Florida, North Carolina, and Virginia. Pshaw! that wasn't an earthquake; that was those states scrambling to get back into the Democratic column. R. H. L.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 18, 1915.

WASHINGTON.—A further parley with Austria over the sinking of the Ancona was decided upon by President Wilson and his advisers at the cabinet meeting. After considering the Austrian reply refusing to accede to the blunt demands made by the President and his peremptory note of last week the administration will endeavor to convince Vienna that the destruction of the steamer before the removal of all passengers is indefensible.

CHICAGO.—Nicholas Hunt, police inspector in the days when the policing of Chicago was parceled out that way, is scheduled to don the "bull's" harness again. Following a conference between Percy B. Coffin of the civil service commission and the mayor it became known that the head of the Shippy, Hunt & Dorman private detective agency is to move into the detective bureau as chief of that important arm of the city's soldiery.

NEW YORK.—A plot to blow up the Welland canal, which runs around Niagara falls on the Canadian side, is charged in connection with the arrest of four Germans in New York and Jersey City. The arrests are said to be the prelude to a series of startling exposures of German propaganda in this country which may link together a number of past events.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 18, 1901.

WASHINGTON.—It was officially announced that Henry C. Payne of Milwaukee would succeed Charles Emory Smith as postmaster general, this being the first change in the cabinet since the death of President McKinley. Mr. Payne probably will assume the duties of his new office the first week in January.

CHICAGO.—The University of Chicago received a Christmas present of $1,250,000 from John D. Rockefeller, the founder of the institution. A gift of $375,437 was also announced, with the names of the donors and the purpose for which the amount was given withheld. The gift of Mr. Rockefeller makes a total of $10,250,000 which he has given to the university. The announcement of the donations was made by President Harper at the fortieth convocation held in the Studebaker theater. President Harper urged the establishment of a law school in the university and a large endowment for Rush Medical college.

CHICAGO.—Arthur R. Jones of A. R. Jones & Co., grain commission merchants and stock brokers, was expelled from membership on the Board of Trade by the directors of that body on charges of uncommercial conduct and bucket shopping.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 18, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A suspicious looking package which it was feared might be an infernal machine was sent to George Scoville, counsel for Guiteau. After some rather formidable precautions the box was opened and found to contain a coil of rope with a noose at the end and a note which read: "With the compliments of the Garfield and Arthur club of Meyersdale, Pa." District Attorney Corkhill thinks that the final argument in the case of Guiteau may not be reached before Jan. 10, while others think that the trial may last throughout January. The examination of regular insanity experts will commence about Dec. 21. The official report of the testimony thus far makes a volume of about 1,200 pages.

CALDWELL, Kas.—A large body of cowboys, comprising some of the most reckless in the territory, raided this town, riding up and down the principal streets, hooting and yelling and firing their revolvers indiscriminately. Mike Meagher, former mayor, George Speer, a gambler, and four cowboys were killed when the citizens rallied and battled the invaders. Meagher was killed by Jim Talbot, an ancient enemy. Meagher was marshal of this city for several years when the most lawless men of the territory made their headquarters here and many a cowboy and many a Texan bit the dust before his steady aim. As always predicted, he died with his boots on.

GOLF IN THE SCHOOLS.

Chicago, Dec. 13.—Your Mr. Hewitt is evidently unfamiliar with modern trends in education, and if we are fortunate enough to have a supervisor who is abreast of the times, who is Mr. Hewitt to criticize? What is wrong about teaching golf during the gymnasium period by the teachers of physical education? If Mr. Hewitt knew whereof he wrote he would know that the first thing mentioned at any educational conference is health. We teachers of physical education have an excellent opportunity to teach the girls to make worthy use of leisure time. I presume Mr. Hewitt would rather have them spend that time in a questionable ballroom or petting in a parked automobile rather than out in the open air on a golf course or tennis court.

We should be very glad to have Mr. Hewitt or any member of the board of education come out to our schools and see the $200 golf and tennis equipment bought and paid for from the proceeds of an entertainment given by the girls themselves. Heaven forbid that we go back to the old militaristic one-two-three-four form of physical education.

JESSIE E. ANDERSON, Penger High School.

ECONOMIES.

Van Wert, O., Dec. 11.—The government could easily overcome its deficit without any increase in taxes if it would follow the example of tens of thousands of its citizens whose incomes have been materially reduced.

There are six in my family. For the last ten or twelve years my average weekly pay check amounted to $45 a week. About six months ago business conditions forced me to accept $30 a week, and I'm thankful for that much during such times as these.

Well, we knew we had to get along on $15 less a week, so I gave up my membership in the country club, dropped my Rotary membership and that of another business club. My wife cooperated by sending fewer clothes to the cleaner, doing the ironing and by being more careful in her purchases of groceries. I dropped a little life insurance that was not essential to the protection of my family. Of course, we have all cut down on our personal expenditures.

The net result is that we are now paying cash for everything as we go and are paying a little each week on bills we contracted when our income was more. And we are carrying a larger bank balance than we ever did before.

OSSAWYER.

A SELF-IMPOSED TAX.

Cicero, Ill., Nov. 27.—There are over twenty million radio owners in the United States. If each owner would contribute the small sum of 10c per week for 4 months, for an entertainment that is worth $100 each evening, this small sum would not be missed by any one and would add millions of dollars to the unemployment fund. I know each one of us would gladly share this cost to cost contribution.

JOSEPH F. KARNICKA.

$7 EARNED IN SIX MONTHS.

Urbana, Ill., Dec. 12.—A woman told me her husband, a carpenter, would not work unless he got $1.25 an hour, and in six months had earned just seven dollars. She was supporting him and children of his first wife by going out washing for fraternities, and she is the mother of two babies, the oldest two years old.

A painting contractor told me he offered a man work at 45 cents an hour. The man had been without work a year. The man replied, "Before I'll work for less than 90 cents an hour I'll let the county support me." If farmers took that attitude the world would starve. It is the taxpayer that is willing to work at any price he can get to save his home from being sold for taxes.

With high cost of labor and high taxes who can prevent the capitalist from investing in tax exempt securities and giving to charity rather than investing in industries?

MRS. FRED HUSSARD.

THE WAY OUT.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—Our people can, by merely evincing a spirit of cooperation, get us out of our difficulties, or the major portion of them, by paying the part of their taxes which they consider fair, based upon the last tax bill which they paid without objection; by accepting a wage based upon the ability of the industry to pay; by distributing large surpluses instead of holding them for future stock manipulations; by paying a personal property tax based upon income, and by realizing that government must be supported by the whole people and not by just a few.

GEORGE R. HARBAUGH.

FOREIGN MILK.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—I notice by your milk map that one-half the milk coming into Chicago is brought from Indiana and Wisconsin. Why does not our legislature shut out this foreign milk and help the Illinois farmer? S. T. KEATOR.

HOW DRY WE ARE.

Chicago, Nov. 23. — If prohibition is really installed in this country why have we still with us the saloons? True they are now called "speakeasies," but that doesn't alter the fact that they still sell intoxicating liquors. My high school friends and myself do not understand it and we wish it to be explained.

THE TRIBUNE had an article on the front page a few days ago to the effect that beer [I think it was beer] prices have dropped. If beer is allowed to be made and the prices it brings are carefully noted, is there any prohibition in America? I think all this ado about prohibition is about nothing, because we have never attained the prohibition stage.

SIXTEEN.

A PREFERENCE.

Chicago, Dec. 1.—Having seen the decorative work of "some Russian" along State street, and having read Mr. Randall's letter in the Voice of the People commenting on this work and the mind of its author, I am of the opinion that the mind of the Russian is to be preferred a thousand times to Mr. Randall's. NOT A RUSSIAN, LL. B.

TELLS OF CHATS WITH BROWNING ON 'INDIGESTION'

Woman Testifies 'Daddy' Sent Her Cereals.

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Indigestion, its symptoms, prevention, and cure was the principal topic of discussion between Edward W. [Daddy] Browning and the Misses Marion and Evelyn Jenis during their long rides through Westchester county, it was stated at the trial today of Mrs. Frances Heenan [Peaches] Browning's divorce suit against the middle aged real estate operator.

After counsel for Mrs. Browning had routed his once and supreme Court Justice John E. Walsh had denied the motion to dismiss, Marion Jenis was called as the first defense witness. It is she and her sister, Evelyn, whom the plaintiff accuses of misconduct with Browning during an automobile ride on the night of April 9, 1929.

Miss Jenis, dressed in blue, flatly denied any act of impropriety on the part of herself, her sister, or the defendant on any and all occasions when they were together. On the contrary, she said, they talked of serious things such as indigestion, which she suffered from and which frequently troubled Browning also.

Common Suffering a Bond.

Their common suffering from this complaint was the basis of their first prolonged friendship, according to the witness, and many hours were spent in conversation about it. As their friendship prospered she began to receive certain cereals from Mr. Browning, a small box now and again to relieve the trouble.

Miss Jenis recounted a number of plays she visited with Browning and her sister Evelyn. She named them. She said the party rode to and from the theaters in Browning's car. Browning usually sat in the middle, she said, and she and her sister on either side.

Denies Impropriety Charges.

She denied flatly that while they were riding together Mr. Browning ever was guilty of any impropriety either toward her or toward her sister. She denied that she ever sat on his lap or was asked to do so by the middle aged defendant.

"He was always a perfect gentleman," said Miss Jenis.

MOTTA ELECTED SWISS PRESIDENT FOR FOURTH TIME

BERNE, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Giuseppe Motta was elected president of Switzerland today by the federal assembly. It is the fourth time he has been elected to the office. He was president of the Swiss confederation in 1915, 1920 and 1927. On Dec. 29 he will be 60 years old.

In Switzerland there is a federal council of seven members elected for three years by the federal assembly. Reelection is automatic and death or resignation are virtually the only factors which cause an occasional change.

One of the members is president of the confederation and another is vice president, each for a one year term.

CALL FOR BLOOD TRANSFUSION TO SAVE POLA NEGRI

Actress' Condition Still Is Dangerous.

Santa Monica, Cal., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Following a blood transfusion and a "comfortable night," Pola Negri, film actress, was declared still in a dangerous condition at Santa Monica hospital today, with the crisis expected in three days.

The actress, unconscious most of the day, was given a transfusion of 500 cubic centimeters of blood taken from Leon Baker, a 23 year old medical student, who came here from Union college, Lincoln, Neb.

Dr. Leo Madsen, attending Miss Negri, said that it has not yet been determined if a second blood transfusion will be necessary. The physicians' bulletin issued this afternoon stated:

"Miss Negri's condition is still critical. The crisis will be reached within three days. She was resting this afternoon. Her temperature was 99; her pulse, 116, and her respiration, 20."

Miss Negri underwent an emergency operation yesterday for removal of an intestinal obstruction. The operation followed her removal to the hospital from the Pathe studio in Hollywood, where she collapsed last Tuesday.

Following consultation of physicians and diagnoses, it was stated that the actress' condition had become aggravated by a chronic appendicitis, from which she sought recovery without recourse to surgery. She was seized with ptomaine poison also last week, and her critical illness followed.

RAIL ENGINEMEN EXPLAIN SMOKE OF LOCOMOTIVES

Fifteen locomotive engineers had to explain yesterday to a group of experts at their trade why their engines were found belching smoke in violation of city anti-smoke ordinances. They appeared at the city hall before the railway smoke abatement board, a body composed of three locomotive engineers, three locomotive firemen, and representatives of railway smoke inspection and fuel and mechanical departments. Ten railroads were represented. The board heard each man's explanations and then reported on his actions to his superiors.

The Chicago and North Western was notified yesterday that four more of its locomotives had offended against the smoke ordinance. Others notified to have representatives in the office of Frank A. Chambers, city smoke inspector, for hearings today were:

James Kelly, 5031 Maypole avenue.

The fire tug Graeme Stewart steamed up the river yesterday at 12:50 p. m. from the harbor mouth to its berth at Franklin street sending forth dense clouds of smoke. It had gone to the mouth of the river to fill its bunkers with coal, it was said at the fire alarm office.

CAPONE DENIES JAIL FAVORS; U. S. PROBES CHARGE

Restrictions Put on Visits to Gang Chief.

Al Capone said yesterday that he is the persecuted prisoner that some persons would have government officials believe he is. When an anonymous telegram was received by United States Attorney Johnson saying that Chicago's gangster chief, now in the county jail awaiting the outcome of his appeal from his income tax sentence, was enjoying special privileges, luxurious surroundings, secretarial service, and aid in conducting business by telegraph, telephone, messenger, and consultations with his lawyers in the county jail, an investigation resulted.

Director Johnson and United States Marshal H. C. W. Laubenheimer announced yesterday that the charges were disproved. However, in order to curtail Capone's opportunities and to limit his business activities, the federal officials decided to establish a censorship over Capone's affairs and issued orders accordingly.

Warden Tells His Side.

Warden David Moneypenny declared that when Capone was placed in his charge Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, who refused Capone bail pending the outcome of an appeal on his sentences which aggregate 11 years, he had asked Marshal Laubenheimer to take the responsibility of deciding who could visit Capone. Until yesterday, the warden said, the government had not acted on the request.

He said that Capone was not being treated as a former warden cooperating with Gerry Druggan and Frankie Rio, and as other wardens have done with prohibition prisoners. Moneypenny took newspaper men to Capone's cell. It is D-5, a dormitory in which three other prisoners are kept, one of them a young consumptive who was in the hall. It is not in the cellblock, as had been alleged.

Capone in His Cell.

"Hello, what's up now?" said Capone when the reporters appeared. Informed that he was being investigated, Capone exclaimed: "I'm in jail; ain't that satisfied?"

"Anybody who wants this place is welcome to it. I don't see anything to get excited about this," and Capone waved a hand, indicating his bare surroundings. He had been playing cards with another prisoner. He was wearing an old blue suit, pencil striped, with a soft collared white shirt, open at the throat and with no tie.

Capone's visits have been "through a double screen," Warden Moneypenny added. Like other prisoners, he has one general visiting day, Thursday. Therefore, in accordance with the rules, he was allowed special visits at his request on other days excepting Sunday, Friday, and Sunday. These, however, in the future, must be approved by Marshal Laubenheimer and Assistant United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, who said they will not permit hoodlums the privilege.

WOMAN ENDS HER LIFE BY POISON AT "L" STATION

An unidentified woman, well dressed, swallowed poison and slashed her veins late last night while on the southbound platform of the Ravenswood station of the Ravenswood branch of the Rapid Transit lines. She died early this morning in the Ravenswood hospital.

The woman, between 30 and 35 years old and described by police as comely and well dressed, alighted from a train. She took a bottle of poison from her purse and swallowed its contents. Then she slashed both wrists with a razor blade.

J. W. Calvett of 2449 Wilson avenue saw the act. He placed the woman in a taxicab and hurried her to the hospital. She died an hour later. Physicians said death was caused by the poison and that the razor wounds were not fatal. No marks of identification were found in the clothing. The woman was black haired and brown eyed.

SEEKS FOX RIVER VALLEY ARM TO GULF WATERWAY

Rep. Reid Introduces Bill in Congress.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Congressman Frank R. Reid of Aurora, Ill., introduced a bill in the house today to aid navigation and commerce in the Fox river valley in northern Illinois. It is drawn on the theory that the Fox can be used as a feeder for the lakes to the gulf waterway by the storing of sufficient water during rainy seasons in the chain of lakes at the head of the Fox to maintain a flow of 1,500 feet per second.

Technically the bill contains the same authorization given the secretary of war by the bill that "built" the Panama canal.

"For the purpose of aiding navigation and commerce on the Illinois, Mississippi and Fox rivers," the bill reads, "the secretary of war, through the chief of engineers, is hereby authorized and directed to improve the Fox river in Illinois and Wisconsin, the chain of lakes drained thereby; namely, Lakes Pewaukee, Wind, Browns, Como, Geneva, Powers, Silver, Camp, and Twin in Wisconsin, and Lakes Channel, Marie, Grass, Fox, Nippersink, Pistakee, Long, McCullom, Slocum, Bangs, Crystal, and Zurich in Illinois, and the drainage basin through which the said Fox river flows, so as to hold sufficient water in storage to provide a continuous stream flow of not less than 1,500 feet per second and a six foot channel from the outlet of said lakes and drainage basin to the navigable channel in the Illinois river at Ottawa, Ill."

"This improvement," said Congressman Reid, "will help solve a problem that has long vexed the authorities, as under the decision of the Supreme court the diversion of water from Lake Michigan will be so limited that navigation on the Illinois river will be endangered.

"Without regard to the aid that this improvement would afford to the great lakes to the gulf waterway, it is justified for the reason that sufficient commerce would be almost immediately forthcoming, because the Fox river traverses one of the greatest industrial and farming districts in the county."

ENGINEERS FIND NEW BRIDGE WILL OBSTRUCT BOATS

Engineers surveying the Illinois waterway for Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, head of the Inland Waterways corporation, have reported that the South Harlem avenue bridge being constructed by the sanitary district is certain to be an obstruction to navigation. A dispatch from Washington said the engineers were amazed by the design of the bridge, which has a pier jutting out into the water.

Philip Harrington, assistant chief engineer of the sanitary district, said yesterday that the south pier for the counterweight pit of the two leaf bascule bridge extended out into the water about 40 feet, but that this would constitute no obstruction to navigation.

"That leaves a clear channel 140 feet wide and the boats used on the river are only 40 to 50 feet wide," said Mr. Harrington. "The Harlem avenue bridge is being constructed on the same plans we used for the Cicero, Crawford, and California avenue bridges, and there have been no complaints about those bridges obstructing navigation."

The north pier of the Harlem avenue bridge is built farther back on the bank and does not extend out into the channel. This could have been done in the case of the south pier, but would have cost a quarter of a million dollars more, according to Mr. Harrington. A longer bridge, heavier lifting machinery, and a larger pit would have been required, it was explained.

When the sanitary district applied for a permit to construct the bridge about three years ago, Maj. Herbert J. Wild, district army engineer, neither approved nor disapproved the plans, Mr. Harrington said. The army engineer wrote that he was not certain the government had jurisdiction. This point was settled by the passage of the rivers and harbors act, whereby the government took over the waterway.

The Harlem avenue bridge, costing $1,000,000, is to be finished in about three months. The citing of this bridge as an obstacle to lakes-to-gulf navigation after the completion of the Illinois waterway followed objections to four railway bridges over the river.

GLIDER CRASHES 500 FEET; ARMY FLYER IS KILLED

HONOLULU, H. I., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Lieut. W. J. Scott of the army air corps, holder of the American glider distance record, was killed when his sailplane Albatross crashed from an altitude of 500 feet today.

As his glider was released from a tow cable over Galt glider airport the sailplane lost its rudder and a moment later a wing broke loose. The glider circled and careened, turned slowly, and fell.

Lieut. Scott came to Hawaii March 26, 1930, for two years active duty with the air corps. He was a member of the Caterpillar club, leaping from an army attack plane near Wheeler field, Oahu island, Dec. 22, 1925.

At the time of today's accident, Lieut. Scott, whose home is in San Antonio, Tex., was competing in a national glider meet sponsored by the Honolulu chapter of the National Athletic association.

The distance record he held is 149¾ miles, made here recently.

CAMELS and DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS go "AROUND THE WORLD" together!

DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS smokes Camels—it is his only indulgence.

He took Camels with him on his year-long journey to the far corners of the earth when he made his new picture, "Around the World in Eighty Minutes*." He smoked Camels when he interviewed Oriental potentates, amused street urchins in Bombay; when he shot leopards from the back of an elephant.

Why Camels?

Doug prefers the natural freshness of Camel cigarettes. They are never parched or toasted, the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that. Hence they retain their natural moisture and exquisite flavor which otherwise would be lost.

A blend of choice Turkish and mild, sun-ripened Domestic tobaccos, Camels are air-sealed in the Camel Humidor Pack to prevent drying-out and loss of flavor. This protection afforded Douglas Fairbanks fresh cigarettes in Hong Kong, Burma, wherever his travels took him.

See Douglas Fairbanks in "Around the World in Eighty Minutes*." Note the enjoyment on his face as he smokes a Camel. Then, if smoking is your relaxation, see for yourself what freshness means in a cigarette. Switch to Camels for just one day—then leave them—if you can!

THE DAVIS COMPANY
CHICAGO

ARTHUR DAVIS PRESIDENT

December 15, 1931.

Mr. W. E. Donahue, Adv. Mgr.
Chicago Tribune
Chicago, Illinois

Dear Mr. Donahue:

The Davis Company in common with most other retail institutions had heard considerable comment prior to last week that the surge of Christmas shopping would occur unusually late this year.

Therefore, it was only after considerable discussion that we decided to experiment with a four page advertisement in your issue of Saturday, December 12, as a feeler of the public shopping pulse; moreover as a little test of a daily morning newspaper with so-called price and value advertising.

Frankly, we were delighted with the response. The number of customers who flocked into the Davis Store that day taxed our capacity from early morning until towards closing time.

Of course, the Davis Store's prices are so low this season in comparison with the merchandise prices of recent years that we are not necessarily judging your newspaper by dollar volume of sales — although we are highly pleased in that respect — but rather by the number of Chicago families that it introduces to us by bringing them into our store and thus enabling us to pass on to them the unparalleled savings that it is our policy to give to our customers.

From this viewpoint, your newspaper produced very satisfactory results indeed.

One of the two largest crowds of the year responded to our offering that day.

Your newspaper carried our message to a great local market — and evidently that market thought our message was worthwhile.

Our entire organization feels that we made many thousands of new friends as a result of our huge money-saving offerings to your huge circulation.

Yours very truly,

The Davis Company
By Arthur Davis

FOUR TRIBUNE PAGES JAM DAVIS STORE ALL DAY LONG

On Saturday, Dec. 12, the Davis Store ran four full pages of advertising in the Chicago Tribune. This picture, taken about 3 o'clock that afternoon, shows how Tribune readers responded. "Frankly, we were delighted with the response," wrote Arthur Davis, president. "The number of customers who flocked into the Davis Store that day taxed our capacity from early morning until towards closing time .... One of the two largest crowds of the year responded to our offering that day." Here is up-to-the-minute evidence that business awaits the Chicago merchant who goes after it through the Chicago Tribune whose readers are ever ready to respond to worthwhile offers.

The nine leading State Street stores placed more advertising in the Chicago Tribune during the first eleven months of this year than in any other Chicago newspaper.

GOOD FELLOW VISITS FAMILY; IS GLAD HE DID

Finds Out What Toy Each Child Desires.

Last night a Good Fellow paid a Christmas visit to a family whose name had been furnished THE TRIBUNE Good Fellow department by a reliable agency. At the bottom of the blue file card enumerating the wants and ages of nine children, the social worker for the agency had made this comment:

"Mother dead. Father deserted. No support. Older sister keeping house."

In a little dark street that runs east a block on the near north side, the Good Fellow found the street number only after consulting by flashlight windows to either side and across the street. The front door into the hallway stood open. A 17 year old girl answered the knock that her ears had been quick enough to hear over the murmur of a roomfull of excited children. Her face lighted when the Good Fellow stated his errand.

Recall Disappointment.

"The children were disappointed last year because there was no Christmas," she said. And in answer to the query of what they might like in the Good Fellow basket: "O, anything. We'd be happy for anything at all."

"Three years ago," the girl, Laura, 15, said, "our mother died. Our father was a plasterer for a department store. Eight months ago he died, too, and we have not seen him since. My oldest sister, Sarah, she's 21, has been trying to get a job at housework, but she hasn't found anything. She used to work in a radio store. Oh, I can't look for work. I have to mind the children."

The six smaller children romped through the room that served as living room, dining room, and kitchen. There was a parlor, Mary, 15, informed the Good Fellow, but it didn't have any furniture in it. There were two tiny bedrooms where the nine were stowed away at night.

Still Wants for Christmas.

Seven dollars comes each week from the charitable organization that vouched for the worthiness of this family. Laura manages on that to feed and clothe the motherless brood.

At the mention of Christmas the children ceased their hilarity. Their brother, Frank, 7 years old, had been out of a hospital last week after six weeks of pneumonia and its aftereffects, recalled that "Santa didn't bring nothin' last year."

"But I can tell you what I hope he brings this year," he added brightly. "A big dumping truck. I'm gonna be a driver when I grow up."

Alice, 5 years old, unable to withhold herself longer, broke in: "And I want a real doll and a buggy." The other children, bright eyed in their excitement, enumerated their desires: A doll dresser for Josephine, 10, a steam shovel for Sam, 8, and shoes for the older girls.

Anxious for Return Trip.

The Good Fellow went away glad that he had come and eager to return with his gifts on Christmas eve. There was something homey about the little street that ran its scant block between two main thoroughfares and something friendly about the home watched over by the two older sisters. There had been no word of bitterness because times were hard or jobs scarce.

Other Good Fellows are making preliminary calls, trying to determine the needs of the families they will provide with food and clothing and toys on Christmas. And at THE TRIBUNE Public Service office, readers are enlisting, requesting the names of families to visit.

From the Icemen's union, local 702, yesterday came word that they would play Good Fellow to the extent of $50. The 31 club of the Y. M. C. A. hotel, 826 South Wabash avenue, requested a family, and the Ofr Afe club put in a like order.

Good Fellows may enroll by telephone [Superior 0100] or in person at the Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street, or by mail.

COUNTY BUREAU ASKS FOR 20 MORE VISITING DOCTORS

Unemployment among physicians was given yesterday as the principal reason for action taken by the bureau of public welfare committee of the county board in recommending the addition of 20 physicians from the civil service lists for the making of emergency calls.

That addition would make a total of 47 doctors assigned to districts over the city who make emergency medical calls among the needy through the welfare bureau. They are paid $1.50 a call. Joseph L. Moss, director of the bureau, said that the October pay roll for the 27 physicians now assigned was $6,783, making an average of $210 to each doctor. That amount has increased to about $290 a month, he said.

Three physicians who were not among the first 20 doctors assigned last summer from the list of 50 on the civil service available list spoke before the commission. Dr. Abraham M. Weinbaum, 5100 Fullerton avenue, said that one doctor who is assigned has a full time position as city physician, has an office and private practice and averaged 12 calls a day over a monthly period for the welfare bureau.

NOBLE DUKE OF MANCHESTER IS MARRIED AGAIN

Weds English Actress in Connecticut.

Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—William Angus Drogo-Montagu, duke of Manchester, and Miss Kathleen Ethel Dawes, London actress, finally got married here today. The ceremony took place in the law office of Anderson & Knapp, with Probate Judge William C. Rungee officiating.

The pair had originally planned to be married by Mayor James J. Walker at city hall, New York, last Friday, following the duke's arrival from England. They were flabbergasted, however, to learn upon showing up at the marriage license bureau that they would be unable to obtain a license to wed in New York, because the papers in the decree divorcing the duke from the former Miss Helena Zimmerman of Cincinnati in London had not arrived in this country.

In vain did they plead with the city clerk to "strain a point" in their favor. The law was written in black and white, they were told, and no exception could be made, not even for an honest-to-goodness duke.

Upon inquiry the duke learned that conditions were a little more lenient in Connecticut and last Saturday he and Miss Dawes motored up and filed their application for a license here. They were told then that they would have to wait five days, but that the license would be forthcoming without fail. Arrangements for the wedding here were made by Walter M. Sanderson of the law firm.

Today the duke arrived by motor, accompanied by the earl of Gosford, his first cousin, and the countess of Gosford, and met his fiancée, who had arrived earlier, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Pusinelli of New York, with whom she has been staying since her arrival from England.

The pair went immediately to the law office where the ceremony was quickly performed.

The duke in his application gave his age as 55. His divorce from the duchess of Manchester took place last spring. They were married 35 years. Miss Dawes gave her age as 34.

SWANSON PICKED AS DELEGATE TO GENEVA PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—The personnel of the American delegation to the armaments limitation conference at Geneva, it is expected, will be completed within the next few days and an extensive study be begun of the problems before the world powers next February.

Chairman Carl Vinson of the house naval committee announced today that the committee would meet tomorrow and take action toward building a navy "up to treaty strength." Vinson has drafted such a bill.

The White House today announced definitely that Senator Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.] will serve on the Geneva delegation. While no other members have been announced, it has been considered certain that Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson will head the delegation, at least at the beginning, and that former Ambassador Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania will serve with him. Another senator, a Republican, remains to be chosen.

Chairman William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho] of the senate foreign relations committee was asked to serve by President Hoover, but declined.

According to information current in Washington several men approached by White House emissaries declined to serve, some because they did not want to be away while congress was in session and others because they felt the Geneva discussions were doomed to failure.

The selection of Senator Swanson, big battleship advocate, on the Geneva delegation was interpreted as indicating the United States will oppose any new British move to abolish or drastically limit the size and gun power of the capital ship. Senator Swanson was one of the strongest supporters of the battleship modernization bill.

Actual scrapping of the battleship Florida under the terms of the London treaty will begin about Jan. 25 at the Philadelphia navy yard, the navy department disclosed today in asking for sealed bids on 18,400 gross tons of scrap metal.

PARENTS OF 'CLOSET PRISON' GIRL FOUND GUILTY OF CRUELTY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Harry M. and Elsie Riley, father and stepmother of 12 year old Edith Riley, were today found guilty of cruel, abusive, and inhuman treatment to the child, who was rescued six weeks ago, emaciated and mentally deficient, from four years of virtual imprisonment in a dark closet.

The decision was handed down by Justice F. D. Letts of the district Supreme court. He deferred sentence. The maximum penalty which may be imposed is two years' imprisonment and $500 fine. The couple was taken immediately to the district jail, escorted from the packed courtroom by a cordon of deputy marshals.

Justice Letts declared:

"This is one of the strangest cases ever brought to my attention. The charges are very strong, and I hoped that some effort would be made at rebuttal.

"I can do only that thing which I have been called upon to do and to pass judgment. I therefore pronounce Harry and Elsie Riley guilty of the charges of which they are accused."

GIVE PENNY FOR EACH YEAR OF LIFE TO BRITAIN

LONDON, Dec. 17.—(AP)—The dowager, Lady Sackville, mother of Sir John Charles Sackville-West, seeking to aid the nation's finances, is asking notables to send her, on their birthdays, a British penny for each year of their lives. Lord Darling, a former judge, sent her seven shillings [about $1.75] on the occasion of his 83d birthday. Ald. W. W. Kelly, theater owner, remitted a corresponding amount on his 76th birthday today.

FAIR ROBS HOTEL.

LAUNDRY BILL IS $890 AND JURORS DECIDE ITS HERS

New York, Dec. 17.—[Special.]—After a laundry supervisor testified to the obvious fact that long silk stockings and gossamer undergarments are generally worn by women and not by men, a jury in the Municipal court reached a verdict that Mrs. Winnifred Bob will have to pay her laundry bill of $890.10.

Mrs. Bob is the wife of Charles V. Bob, the promoter, who is in difficulties just now over alleged stock frauds. In the five months of last year from June to October Mrs. Bob ran up the bill of nearly $900 with the Shemeld Hand laundry and the laundry sued to collect.

Mrs. Bob argued in court yesterday that the laundry was her husband's and not hers. She didn't see why she should pay for her husband's laundry.

So the laundry called its supervisor of the washing rooms. She is Miss Greta Benkert.

Miss Benkert gave testimony to the effect that the clothing was the property of Mrs. Bob.

The jury took an hour to talk it over, but it decided unanimously that the undergarments were Mrs. Bob's and she would have to pay for their washing.

EXILED PRINCE SEES HOMELAND FROM PORTHOLE

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Prince Ziaddine Effendi, son of the last sultan of Turkey, Mohammed VI., caught a glimpse of his lost Ottoman empire today when the boat on which he works as a stoker touched here on the way to Marseilles.

The republic's police watched the grimy exile carefully, but he made no effort to step ashore during the few hours the boat was anchored at the golden horn.

Mohammed VI. left Turkey with his family on a British warship in 1922, thereafter was deposed and died in Malta in 1926. His younger son, Abdul Kadir, gains a livelihood by playing the violin in the cabarets of Vienna.

A CORN POPPER ADDS TO SOCIAL JOYS OF HOME

Good Corn and Hot Fire Held Essential.

Cold winter evenings do not mean that the members of the family who desire to stay at home need consider themselves banished from good social times, especially if the kitchen equipment includes that highly useful ornament, the corn popper. The holiday season, even with its customary round of events, usually proves the popularity of popping and eating corn.

But there are a few apparently minor details attendant to the process that many do not realize. The popcorn supply should not be stored in a warm or heated room, as it will become too dry. Storing in a stoppered glass jar is one practice that helps. Or if the corn has been permitted to dry out, it can be reconditioned by sprinkling with water some time before popping.

Several Types of Poppers.

The type of popper for the veteran usually is immaterial, according to Purdue university specialists, who find popularity for the old style wire popper, the metal type, a skillet with a lid, or the more modern electric devices.

"Good corn and a hot fire are essential," the Purdue investigators report. "If the corn begins to pop within 1½ minutes, the process is usually about right. Only enough corn to barely cover the bottom of the popper is necessary and the kernels must be high enough above the fire to prevent burning. A pint of corn can be counted on, usually, for 15 to 20 pints of popped corn."

Some of the recipes recommended for those who like more than salt and butter with the confection follow:

Chocolate Pop Corn.

2 cups white sugar
1 cup water
½ cup corn sirup
2 oz. chocolate

Put these ingredients into a kettle and cook until the sirup hardens when put in cold water. Pour over 4 quarts of crisp, freshly popped corn and stir well to insure the uniform coating of the kernels.

Sugared Pop Corn.

Make a sirup by boiling together 2 teacupfuls of granulated sugar and 1 teacup of water. Boil until the sirup strings from the spoon or hardens when dropped into cold water. Pour over 6 quarts of freshly popped corn and stir well.

Pop Corn Balls.

1 pint of sirup
1 pint of sugar
2 tbsp. of butter
1 tsp. of vinegar

Cook till the sirup hardens when dropped into cold water. Remove to back of stove and add one half teaspoonful of soda dissolved in a tablespoonful of hot water and then pour the hot sirup over 4 quarts of freshly popped corn, stirring till each kernel is well coated, when it can be molded into balls or into any desired form.

Sugared Popped Corn.

2 quarts popped corn
2 tbsp. butter
2 cup brown sugar
½ cup water

Put butter in saucepan, and when melted add sugar and water. Bring to boiling point, and let boil sixteen minutes. Pour over corn, and stir until every kernel is well coated with sugar.

RECORD INDIANA SWEET POTATO CROP SOLD HERE

The record acre yield of an Indiana sweet potato grower is passing into the Chicago retail channels this week as a modern example of where two or even three sweet potatoes can be made to grow where formerly only one was produced.

Henry Quillen, Patoka, Ind., is unofficially credited with the largest known yield of the Jersey type sweet potato, growing 551 bushels of graded No. 1 and an extra 100 bushels of the smaller No. 2 grade on an acre of land. Indiana farmers, mainly in the counties of Gibson, Knox, Sullivan, and Vermillion, grow about 20 per cent of Chicago's supply of the Jersey sweet potatoes.

"Few persons know that there is a standard in sweet potatoes," said W. B. Ward, extension horticulturist for Purdue university, when he arrived yesterday in Chicago to learn the disposition of the record yield carlot.

"No. 1 quality must be at least 1¾ inches in diameter and must be between four and ten inches, to be a true Jersey type. The ideal is 2¾ inches in diameter and five inches long and slightly tapered at each end."

The commercial crop in Indiana this year, grown mainly between the White and Wabash rivers, is estimated at 580,000 bushels. Much of this will find its way to Chicago, although some marketing is done in Indiana cities. A special type container, almost square, was used for the Patoka farmer's crop, to determine increased efficiency in handling over the other types of hampers and bushels. The car lot was quoted wholesale at the top of the market, being $1.35 per bushel, averaging 53 pounds.

Food Talk

A squab is a young pigeon, one that is taken from the nest before it is really able to get around under its own power. For that reason it has had no opportunity to harden its muscles, and so forms a delectably tender meat.

Most of the flesh of the squab is concentrated on the breast. There is a good deal of fat stored under the skin, which prevents easy scorching. However, squab should be basted frequently to keep the skin soft and to brown the bird.

Squab are now being raised on quite a large scale, so that the price is only a little more than that of chicken, and they are far more festive! They are so small that it is hard to stuff them, but stuffing does pay large dividends. The spoonful of dressing they hold should not be packed in tightly, even though there is so little of it.

Squab can be broiled. It is best to split them down the back and leave the breast intact, though some cooks divide the bird entirely into two parts.

Potted squab is a savory dish, too. With the little carrots, green peas, potato balls, and rich gravy it's a memorable meal in itself.

Baked squab is the thing for a real company dinner, though. You feel sorry for those tiny birds, but they're such a treat.

SQUAB STUFFING.

3 tbsp. butter.
3 cups soft breadcrumbs.
1 cup hot milk.
6 tbsp. chopped onion.
¾ tsp. salt.
¼ tsp. white pepper.

This recipe makes enough stuffing for six squabs.

SPICED CHERRY TODDY.

1 No. 2 can sour pitted cherries.
3 tbsp. lemon juice.
2 tbsp. sugar.
4 cloves.
½ tsp. nutmeg.
2 tbsp. grated orange rind.
1 cup boiling water.
1 qt. grape juice.
¼ tsp. cinnamon.

Drain the cherries and chop. Soak the orange rind, lemon juice, cherry juice, water, and sugar for 15 minutes. Add more sugar if desired. Add grape juice and spices. Simmer for 15 minutes. Serve hot. This makes about two quarts.

Smoked Meats Are Good Buys This Week-End

In its regular weekly report issued for the guidance of consumers, the committee on marketing information of the meat council of Chicago states:

"Pork cuts, especially smoked meats, represent the most economical meat buys for the Chicago housewife over the coming week-end. Smoked meats have declined approximately 8 per cent from this same time last month and approximately 35 per cent from one year ago. Lamb and veal are also selling at attractive prices at the present time."

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

Since it takes food to make flesh, an increased appetite is the first need in bringing underweight persons to normal weight. In short, eat more and weigh more.

END OF PERFECT DAY IS TO SIT DOWN TO SUPPER

Soft Sigh of the Skillet Is Like Music.

BY ROE FOWLER.

When you come to the end of a perfect day, and there is bacon frying in the skillet, and you sit around with your shoes off, what more can a man ask? There is Ann, red faced but lovely, humming a song that blends with the soft sigh of the skillet. Every now and then she looks around at you, and you both know that there is nothing in the world except you two. You, and the children, that is.

Soon they come rushing in, happy as larks and hungry as sparrows. Somehow, even their clatter adds to the peace of the scene. Ever notice that? Well, perfect days are few and far between, because there aren't enough perfect people. Why can't they all understand, as you and Ann understand, one another? There, Ann is smiling at you, and nods that supper [don't call it dinner] is ready.

And So to the Table.

"Bobby, did you wash your hands?"

"Yes, mother."

And for a miracle, he has. It is a perfect day, indeed. You never have to tell little Mary to wash her hands. The danger is, instead, that some day she'll scrub them off. Takes after her mother, that girl.

"Now, hush, children. Bobby, as a special honor for having clean hands, we'll let you return the blessing."

Bobby solemnly bows his head [the little devil] and wavers forth in his child's sing-song tones:

"God is great; God is good,
And we thank Him for our food.
By His hand we must be fed——
Give us, Lord, our daily bread.
Amen."

Ann helps the children to their bacon and eggs, with hash browned potatoes. Any doctor would say there was too much grease in such a diet, but be that as it may, there are roses in the children's cheeks.

Why Talk of Manners.

Each of the children takes two slices of bread; and plenty of butter. There are glasses of milk, too. They both tear their bread apart, scattering crumbs. Ann notices, and reiterates her vow that soon she will start teaching the children some manners.

"They can't grow up like little heathens," she will say. And mean it. But my imitation of a bushman rending his prey will get her to laughing, and the children will be saved from manners awhile yet.

Manners? Why should we talk of manners? We have food, and the children, and a perfect day. Pleasant things, these. Let us not change them, for any change would be to mar their perfection.

Change will come to us, yes. If we live long enough, we shall grow old—we shall not be so keen, and cannot therefore appreciate these fine things that tickle and lull our senses. When the meal is over, we will sit together and dream. Just dream, while the day ends.

Old Fashioned Taffy Pull Still Is Lots of Fun

There was a time when a taffy pull was one of the big events of the social season. Of late years this old time, uproarious method of providing amusement for a houseful of guests has been supplanted with more decorous pastimes—such as bridge.

For those who hark back to the good old days and who still retain a sweet tooth, the house economics division of Iowa State college provides this recipe for old fashioned taffy.

Merely boil some sorghum until it is bubbling freely.

Then add a teaspoonful of soda and stir the mixture until it becomes frothy. After it has cooled sufficiently it should be pulled—and then is when the fun begins, say the old timers.

HOLIDAY FOODS 25% CHEAPER THAN YEAR AGO

Survey Shows Prices at Low Level.

BY EVERETT SWINGLE.

Turkey stands will be available to Chicagoans at about 25 per cent lower than a year ago, it was apparent yesterday from a survey of wholesale and retail markets dealing in the usual Christmas list of turkey or other fowl, butter, eggs, and the major fresh fruit and vegetable items from potatoes to cranberries.

It is true there are a few items higher in price because of a short crop. These can be counted on seven fingers, however, even if the principal fruit or food items are considered. They are grapes, tangerines, pears, cauliflower, lettuce, onions, and spinach, and among those tangerines are expected to be cheaper before serious Christmas food shopping is concluded next week.

8 Cents a Pound for Turkey.

Those who paid 45 cents a pound for a turkey a year ago can buy one nearly as good for 40 cents a pound this year, if the present complexion of prices remains about the same. Two to 8 cents a pound reductions will likely prevail for those desiring retail duck, goose, and spring chicken prices with those of a year ago.

Good quality butter should be available for 25 cents a pound and even some of the highest quality fresh eggs are worth no more than 36 to 40 cents a dozen, according to wholesale prices, with the best storage eggs about a cent apiece less.

Oranges at New Low.

None of the greatest savings in the food budget, however, are present in the citrus fruits, apples, potatoes, cauliflower, celery and sweet potatoes. Oranges are lower than they have been in many years, even considering they had established that level at this time a year ago. They will stay at this low price at least until the first of the year, says Charles T. Irrgang, vice president of the Chicago fruit auction.

The volume of them is large, with Florida shipping large quantities because the groves in that state this year enjoyed unusual weather for making a good crop. An average size runs from 25 cents. Grapefruit, at 4 to 5 cents each, likewise, is being sold at a price that does not even give the grower a return on his crop, merely paying for picking, packing and shipping, says Mr. Irrgang.

Shortage of Grapes.

Low prices also have taken the Delicious variety of apple out of the luxury class this year, with wholesale prices ranging at least one third less than in 1930, when they were also low. Boxes of 100 to 120 apples are averaging around $1 to retailers.

The red emperor grape and the white grape constitute one commodity in which there is a shortage. As a result housewives will find the best will cost 15 to 20 cents a pound in the grocery store. The wholesalers are asking $4 for a 32 pound drum of this fruit.

Potatoes, representing in volume the commodity of which Chicago eats the most each year, represents another bargain. A year ago storekeepers sold 100 pound sacks of good quality round white potatoes cost $1.25 to $1.40, while this year the same quality costs 75 to 85 cents, less than a cent a pound. Twenty cents a peck is considered a fair retail price.

Cranberries have come down a third in price since shoppers filled their tubs a year ago. Even the reddest and highest quality berries are worth around 12 cents a pound and many stores are selling them for less.

Spinach Twice as High.

Spinach costs about twice as much as in 1930, but the so called Christmas luxury, strawberry, has taken a drop, at least in price. Wholesale traders were offering them this week for one-third of the price of 12 months ago, when they were worth 50 cents a pint. Storekeepers can sell them to the retail trade this year at half the wholesale price of a year ago.

Sweet potatoes at 3 cents a pound are no reflection on their quality, but rather should be of the best in the market. According to W. H. Hall, fruit and vegetable reporter for the United States department of agriculture, onions are one of the few commodities which this year are "out of sight." A small crop causes them to sell for much about 5 or 6 cents a pound, or about three times what they were a year ago.

Most dealers probably won't ask you to invest all your savings on food as a present on the Christmas tree you trim, according to present indications. Last year there were too many toys and holly wreaths, but indications are that there will be a supply of these plentiful and cheaper than at Christmas of 1930.

MERRY CHRISTMAS! BUT NOT TO THEM

All the turkeys weren't devoured at the Thanksgiving day repasts, for dealers report gobblers are plentiful for Christmas feasts. This parade of holiday fowl will lead to the oven and thence to the table, making it a merry Christmas for diners but not for these birds.

LIVER AVAILABLE AT PRICE RANGE TO FIT ANY PURSE

BY FLORA MARTIN.

With several kinds of liver on the market at varying prices almost any housewife can include liver, which is high in food value, in her menu these days. For those whose budgets are liberal there is calf liver and for others there are beef, lamb and pork livers.

According to the New York State college of home economics, the cheaper kinds have as much food value, and in addition are much cheaper than the calf liver and most lean meats. The market prices on the various kinds of liver as quoted by a local meat dealer run as follows per pound: Calf, 55c; beef, 40c, and both pork and lamb at 10c.

Taste Can Be Acquired.

When it comes to the liver question most families are generally divided into two forces, with the liver enthusiasts on one side of the fence and those who are indifferent to its qualities on the other side. A taste for liver, as for any other dish, can be cultivated and one of the best ways to go about winning the members of the family who are indifferent is by preparing and serving it in many different and appetizing styles instead of the usual way of frying and combining it with bacon.

First of all in cooking liver, remember that very tender liver, such as lamb and calf, needs quick cooking such as pan broiling, deep fat frying and sautéing. Beef and pork liver have a less delicate flavor and texture and taste better if braised, stewed or baked.

Suggested Recipes.

Here are a few recipes for the use of liver which were suggested by the New York State college of home economics. For instance, for liver en casserole the instructions are as follows: Chop one-half pound of liver and place in a casserole with two slices of bacon, one cup of tomato sauce, three-quarters of a cup of cooked rice, and one tablespoon of butter. Add one teaspoon of finely chopped celery, one tablespoon of chopped green pepper, and one sliced onion. Be sure that all are thoroughly mixed and season with three-quarters of a teaspoon of salt, and a dash of pepper, if desired. This dish should be baked covered for one hour in a moderate oven [300 degrees F.] Any kind of liver can be used for this recipe, although beef liver is particularly good cooked in this fashion.

And for liver rolls the recipe runs like this: Parboil one pound of sliced liver, then drain, and season with salt and pepper. The stuffing is made of two cups of bread crumbs, one cup of stock, one teaspoon each of chopped parsley and chopped celery, one-half an onion, two slices of chopped bacon, one-half teaspoon of salt; and a pinch of pepper, if desired. Place a spoonful of this mixture on each slice of liver, roll it, and fasten the roll with skewers or string. Sear these rolls in hot bacon drippings, add a small amount of water, and cover the pan tightly. Let the rolls simmer about twenty minutes or until the liver is tender. Gravy may be made from the liquid in the pan.

Or for those who like liver fillings for sandwiches this recipe may come in handy: Boil a pound of liver slowly until it is tender, drain it, and allow it to cool. When it is cold, run in through the meat chopper, using the finest blade. Add to the chopped liver a half cup of melted butter, one-eighth of a cup of prepared mustard, half a teaspoon of salt, and a few grains of pepper. This mixture may be kept in a covered jar in the refrigerator. If calf liver or lamb liver is used you will find that the mixture will taste much like pate de foie gras made of goose livers.

Pomegranate Jelly Pleasing Invention in Field of Cookery

BY ANGELA PETESCH.

New ideas are continually being conceived in the field of cookery just as new inventions and discoveries are made from time to time in industry and science. But after all, cookery is a science.

The new idea that recently has been brought to our attention, and only recently put on the market for that matter, is pomegranate jelly. It's a clear, dark red jelly and has a tantalizing flavor. For your Christmas dinner next Friday you will be wanting an attractive complement to the meat course. Pomegranate jelly exactly fills that need.

We wonder when we see the domestic pomegranate in our city markets how enough juice is ever extracted from so little pulp and so many seeds to make jelly on a paying basis. And it wouldn't be profitable if the domestic fruit were used. The truth of the matter is that the imported fruit, which is grown in Persia and surrounding region—a very small part of the world—is so much larger than our variety.

Three or four times to be exact.

Big As Volley Ball.

The seeds are considerably smaller, making a high percentage of pulp and consequently of greater quantity of juice. Just imagine a pomegranate the size of a volley ball. And imagine not having to worry about so many seeds.

The juice of the Persian fruit is extracted and distilled before being shipped in order to facilitate and decrease the cost of transportation and in order to insure the prevention of spoilage. In the factory the juice is combined only with sugar and pectin, made into jelly, sealed in jars and placed on the market.

Pomegranate juice has often been called the favorite food and drink of the luxury-loving Romans. That is, two thousand years ago. Mythology and ancient literature are full of allusions to it. The Bible and classical poetry, too, refer to it. In the lavish banquets and feasts of the period it ranked with nightingales' tongues and other aristocratic delicacies.

Long Discourage Export.

In that age expense was no object with the upper powerful classes. So the price of pomegranates kept a high level. The local demand for the juice prevented its being exported up until this time. Now this exotic jelly is given the American consumer in a still limited supply, it is true, but nevertheless at a reasonable price.

The juice and, of course, the jelly which is made from the juice has great medicinal qualities—a liver and kidney tonic. It is the only fruit juice in the world that contains phosphoric acid in its natural state. And phosphoric acid is a digestive stimulant. Knowing this, we realize that the juice makes an excellent appetizer and the jelly a fine complement to any meal.

We encourage you to try "the most ecstatic flavor the world has ever known." We are sure you cannot help but agree with everything we have said.

INSPECTION SERVICE SHOWS U. S. SAILORS BEST FED IN WORLD

The assertion that the world's best fed sailors are in the United States navy is supported by statistics from the United States department of agriculture showing that 2,808,660 pounds of fruits and vegetables were inspected on grade for the navy in October. Of this quantity, only 207,198 pounds were rejected as not complying with grade specifications.

Steamship lines, the United States navy and marine corps, and United States veterans' hospitals are making increased use of the department's fruit and vegetable inspection service.

Inspections for veterans' hospitals at Chicago, Great Lakes, Milwaukee, New York, Philadelphia, and St. Louis covered 537,366 pounds of fresh fruits and vegetables in October; inspections for steamship lines at New York covered 294,246 pounds; the United States marine corps, 223,785 pounds, and the United States shipping board at New York and Norfolk, 16,423 pounds.

EXPERT TELLS HOW TO REDUCE YOUR MEAT BILL

Substantial savings can be made in meat bills by purchasing the less expensive meat cuts, according to R. O. Roth of the department of animal husbandry at the Ohio State university.

The beef hind quarter furnishes such economical cuts as the rump, round, flank, and shank.

The rump, he says, may be cut into steaks or made into a delicious boned, rolled, and tied roast.

If a steak is preferred, sear it on both sides in a sizzling hot, heavy frying pan. Then reduce the temperature and cook to the desired stage.

In cooking the roast, he suggests it be seared in the oven. Chunks of beef fat are then put on top of the roast, which is allowed to simmer on a rack until tender. From two and a half to three hours of cooking are required. Served on a hot platter with buttered carrots and stuffed onions, such a dish challenges the best of the more expensive cuts. Ways of serving the round are similar to those used for the rump.

Shanks are good to use in soups and flanks may be used as steaks, in stews, or baked with vegetables, Roth believes.

Forequarters of beef furnish the inexpensive chuck, neck, plate, and shank. Chucks may be used as steaks or pot roasts and are second to none of the carcass cuts in flavor. Made boneless and rolled, pot roasts may be used without hesitancy. Necks may be used in soups and stews. When ground the meat may be molded into patties, surrounded with a slice of bacon, and broiled.

FINEST CHINESE COOK IN CAPITAL AT JOHNSON HOME

And at China's Legation Chef Is a Negro.

By GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—You certainly haven't time to try out any quaint recipes for Siamese curry or Japanese sukiyaki this morning, with all those pre-holiday chores still to be done. You're too busy this week to cook up funny foods; too busy to eat them. But perhaps you'll have a moment or two to hear about them.

So I'm giving you some food facts and figures that I picked up this week and which you can consume far from the cookstove.

You'd naturally expect to find the best Chinese cook in Washington over at the Chinese legation. You're wrong. They have a Negro chef; have had him for years. Sometimes he cooks rice and bird's nest soup; more often it's fried chicken and beaten biscuits. The famous Chinese chef is over at Senator Hiram Johnson's. The senator brought him here from California.

The German embassy prints its formal dinner menus in French. It's a fact. A few weeks ago at the big dinner they gave to Baron von Steuben, here's what was written beneath the German crest on its ivory parchment menu card:

La creme d'asperges
La saumon bearnais
Le filet de bonef garni
Le celeri braise
La bombe au café
Les fruits

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, in the days when her husband was secretary of commerce, wrote these words as preface to a cook book:

"As truly as food is, first and last, our most important concern in life—so perhaps governing, in one of its forms or another, is second in importance."

Washington loves to be invited to dine at Senator Shipstead's. The Farmer-Labor senator from Minnesota serves unusual Scandinavian dishes.

Speaking of foods from chilly countries here's a great favorite over at the Danish legation. It's called "King Christian IX.'s court dish" and was served by the grandfather of the present king at all state functions. Here's the way to make it:

Boil down ½ pound of chocolate with a little water until it becomes a thick gruel. Have ready 25 large meringues. Place a layer of crushed meringues in a glass dish, sprinkle with chopped almonds and cover with the chocolate gruel. Then place another layer of meringues, and so on, until you come to the top of the glass dish. Top off with a fluff of whipped cream.

If that's too sweet a dish, how about this—a radish with sour cream? Wash a radish, slice and sprinkle with a little salt that has been mixed with good heavy sour cream. It's an old Esthonian custom.

At the famous Gridiron dinner the other night at the Willard hotel, the time honored piece de resistance was terrapin. I called it "terrapin stew" to the infinite horror of the waiter who said sadly, "It's terrapin a la Maryland." Just the same it looked like stew.

Down in Guatemala their tastiest soup is consomme with avocado pear. When the soup is cooking they flavor it with a sprig or two of mint and when it is being served add a few drops of lemon juice. Then they put into each portion a sufficient number of tiny cubes of avocado pear so that each spoonful will have one cube in it.

Before you call the children to eat their Christmas dinner ponder this advice from the department of agriculture: "Remember that the table is a place for good comradeship and not for discipline or nagging."

Christmas Dinner at Low Cost Is Your Good Fortune

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

C-H-R-I-S-T-M-A-S! One week from today! The happiest, the merriest, the grandest of all the 365 days in the year. "It's so much better than a birthday," said young Johnny, "for a birthday lasts only one day and Christmas stays a week."

And that week of weeks for mother is this week when the Christmas tree, the hanging of the holly wreaths, the tinseled holiday wrappings, and plans for Christmas dinner set every one tingling with joyous anticipation. It's the dinner most of all that demands mother's attention, for every member of the family gives it a vote as the event of the day.

Elaborate or simple, it's Christmas dinner, and this year housewives particularly are fortunate in being able to provide an attractive and appetizing menu at a comparatively low cost. If turkey is out of reach, suggests the bureau of home economics of the United States department of agriculture, how about roast pig?

The time was in Merrie England in the days of good Queen Bess when a young roast pig with a big red apple in its mouth and laurel leaves on its head was the most festive dish on the festive Christmas board. Why not give the old tradition an economical twist this year and serve a shoulder of pig, a shoulder roast with apple stuffing, or a roast with savory stuffing served in a ring of apples baked to a juice brown?

Baked Sweet Potatoes.

This may be done for a family of five at a cost of not more than 53 cents for the meat—in fact, the 53 cent shoulder can make two meals, according to the bureau of home economics. As vegetables for this dinner, sweet potatoes baked in their skins and five minute cabbage might well be served, or hominy and boiled onions, mashed Irish potatoes and collards, kale or spinach. Then a salad of jellied tomato juice on a lettuce leaf, celery leaves, or parsley. For dessert, a suet pudding.

This is the menu. Now for the picture it will present when served at the Christmas table. A centerpiece is made with little or no cost of a branch of evergreen set up as a little tree or of a few sprays of pine, cedar, laurel, or branch berries in a vase, bowl, or little basket. Sprigs of the same green are attractive here and there on the table cloth and red, white, or green candles complete the table decoration.

The bright red and green salads add to the color scheme, and remember that even 2 year old Bobby or Susan can eat lettuce if it is chopped fine, and should eat the tomato jelly. Father presides over the rich brown roast at one end of the table while the children help with the serving of the vegetables and the gravy. Toward mother's end of the table is a dish of the sweet watermelon pickles she made last summer, or some of her grape marmalade or pickled peaches. Mother is also responsible for hot corn bread or a plate of beautiful light brown biscuits. Popcorn balls, nuts, and homemade candy squeezed out of last week's budget top off the dinner for every member of the family.

The Roast Is Tender.

It is a good dinner because the roast is tender, well flavored and cooked to a turn, the stuffing well seasoned, the apples with their acid sweet offsetting the richness of the pork. The gravy is rich and the vegetables cooked just long enough to be tender but still firm. The Christmas pudding is sweet and fruity as a Christmas dessert should be. It is also a good dinner because it is well balanced with minerals and vitamins, proteins, fats, starch, and sugar, all the foods necessary to good health, in good proportion and sufficient quantity.

The cost is kept down by selecting foods which are both tasty and nutritious as well as cheap. Shoulder of pork ranges from 12 to 17 cents a pound, bread for stuffing from five to seven cents, and apples from 2½ to 5 cents. The vegetables all represent plentiful crops selling now at low figures in the markets.

When it comes to selecting the meat, Paul A. Goeser, instructor in meats at Iowa State college, warns against judging only by the amount of lean displayed on the surface. He explains that some of the things to look for are a thick muscling with a high percentage of meat to the bone to provide economy; a high finish so that the fat is "marbled" between the fibers of lean meat to insure tenderness and juiciness; a bright red color and fine texture to indicate that the cut is from a young, tender carcass; and a cut that can be carved across the grain for appearance and easier handling in serving.

Turkey Completes Dinner.

If it is a turkey you want to make your Christmas dinner complete, you should be able to obtain one at a reasonable price per pound for turkey growers have held back a large proportion of birds for the Christmas trade. Low prices early this season, relatively cheap feeds, and unseasonably warm weather in many producing sections are responsible for this action. The Thanksgiving supply was appreciably smaller than usual and although stocks were well cleared in most markets, consumer demand was not up to normal.

When Texas turkey dressing plants opened this year, young toms and hens were bringing as little as 13 cents a pound at the plants. Light deliveries later caused prices to rise to 18 cents.

A turkey that meets government requirements for the stamp U. S. Prime must have the following specifications: young, soft meated female bird with well fleshed breast and with entire carcass covered with fat; must be well bred, well dressed, with breast virtually free of pin feathers and only a few scattered pin feathers over the remainder of the carcass; crop must be empty; only very slight flesh or skin bruises, abrasions, or discolorations permitted with breast practically free of such defects; slightly dented breast bones but no broken wings above the wing tips or broken legs. The bird must be dry picked or semi scalded and dry packed.

FIND WATERLESS COOKER KEEPS FULL FOOD VALUE

One of the best methods of getting full nutriment value from foods is by use of a waterless cooker, girls in home economics classes at Iowa State college have found.

In principle, the waterless cooker is extremely simple. It uses the moisture in the food to cook the food, thereby saving all the minerals which often are poured off when vegetables are cooked in water and have to be drained. Although the cooker is called "waterless" there always is considerable moisture left on the vegetables after washing and for some foodstuffs a few teaspoonfuls must be added.

Success in using the waterless cooker is largely dependent upon the fit of the lid, the girls have found. If steam is allowed to escape because of a loosely fitting lid, the food will dry out and in a short time burn.

On modern cookers there is a whistling indicator which informs the housewife that the pressure in the cooker is becoming too strong and that steam is escaping. Since it is the steam that is doing the cooking, the housewife wishes to keep it within the cooker. Therefore the proper procedure is to reduce the heat to a point where no steam will escape.

Although the waterless cooker is not a time saver, it does not require strict watching. Since practically an entire meal may be cooked at once in the cooker, it is a great saver of fuel.

High School Singers Again Win Applause

BY EDWARD MOORE.

THIS is the week that the Chicago high schools step in as assistants to the Chicago Symphony orchestra, rather competent assistants, too. Last night there were some two hundred singers seated up behind the orchestra, and drawn from the Lindblom, Roosevelt, and Schurz High schools, also about two dozen brass players at the right who came from the All-Chicago High School orchestra.

For these there were a number of pieces that do not get upon the customary symphonic programs. With the assistance of Winifred Macbride, pianist, the chorus and orchestra performed Beethoven's Fantasie, opus 80, and, for the first time in Chicago, Constant Lambert's "The Rio Grande." In the midst of the program Dr. J. Lewis Browne, director of music of the Chicago public schools, took the stand and conducted three unaccompanied choral numbers, the Sanctus from Palestrina's Mass, "Aeterna Christi Munera"; Rheinberger's "Night Song," and a spiritual called "On Canaan Shore." At the end the brass choir took a part with Mr. Stock and the orchestra in the last section of Glazounoff's symphonic tableau, "The Kremlin."

All of which left the unassisted orchestra chance to play the Tambourin from Grétry's "Céphale et Procris," Richard Strauss' "Till Eulenspiegel," and the "Hellafest" and Children's Dance from Humperdinck's "Koenigskinder."

It was just a year ago that the young people's chorus was called upon for the first time in these concerts. Their cherubic singing made such an impression that the feature seemed worth while making permanent.

It was quite as enticing last night. Only good singing and good playing keep the Beethoven Fantasie from sounding thin, and it was not in the least thin. As for "The Rio Grande," the musical setting by an English composer of an English poem, its gestures toward jazz would have been only a mannerly bow across the sea if it had not been for the high spirits with which all concerned took part. As it was, it became a lively and persuasive piece of music worth hearing repeatedly. Dr. Browne's a cappella numbers were delightful, even admitting that "On Canaan Shore" was a long step toward sophistication and away from the genuine spiritual mode of expression.

"Il Trovatore" was repeated by the Chicago Civic Opera company last night in what probably was Iva Pacetti's last appearance of the season and what was certainly Cesare Formichi's first Chicago appearance in the rôle of the Count of Luna. With his extraordinary fine, resonant voice and great ability in the use thereof it seems a bit strange that he should not have been singing it all the time that he has been here. He has the power, the quality, and the control to do all the bel canto singing that the older composers ever saw fit to write for the baritone voice.

The rest of the performance was as before: Mme. Pacetti in her finest vocal form, Antonio Cortis first class as Manrico, Coe Glade a marvel of an Azucena, and Virgilio Lazzari, one of the great artists of the generation, in the lesser rôle of Ferrando.

Roberto Moranzoni, who conducted the "Il Trovatore" performance last night and who ranks as senior conductor of the Chicago Civic Opera company, has been awarded the insignia of the crown of Italy and the title of cavaliere in recognition of his artistic value and ability. Giuseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general, was thus notified yesterday from Rome.

BERLIN'S NEW HOME FOR POOR HOUSES POLICE STATION, TOO

BERLIN, Dec. 17.—Standing impressive, but half empty with city authorities puzzling their brains how they are to find some useful use for its valuable space, Berlin's newest municipal home for homeless is cited by Berliners as just another example of how easily streams of money flowed on of public coffers in the good old days, just a couple of years ago.

Now it turns out that there were faulty reckonings and prognostications and the homeless get no benefit out of the up-to-date hostelry, because it is used merely as an overflow reserve for the older shelters. Besides, to "save the good, new house," the same as our great-grandmothers "saved" the front parlor, by keeping everybody out of it, Berlin's town fathers installed a police station in the house to make sure that only "worthy" homeless get the benefit of this shelter. Rather than submit to what they term "draconic police rule" the homeless try to find shelter in other parts of the town and the home is half empty most of the time.

There is some thought of utilizing it as a center for youth organizations, and in one corner of it is tucked away Berlin's biggest public kitchen.

Official Contract

By Charles True Adams.

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Constant repetition is unquestionably a tedious and boring procedure, yet few will deny its instructive value. If anything is repeated often enough, it is simply bound to sink in, and that is my only excuse for constantly talking about squeeze plays.

Though you may be bored stiff with them for the moment, there is no play as valuable and as common and at the same time as intriguing as the squeeze, so I am sure that if all this results in your learning the play you will forget and forgive its tedious instructor.

In yesterday's play-a-problem which was:

NORTH (Dealer)
♠—A,J
♥—A,4,3
♦—Q,6,5,4

WEST
♠—K,Q,8,7,6,5
♥—10,9,8,7
♦—3
♣—10,3

EAST
♠—4,3,2
♥—K,Q,6,5
♦—A,2

SOUTH
♠—10,9
♥—3,2
♦—K,J,10,9,8,7
♣—A,Q,4

North dealt and opened the bidding with one no-trump. He not only had four suits stopped, but in addition had a no-trump count of 14. East passed and South took out with two diamonds. West passed and North, holding 5 supporting tricks for a diamond declaration properly raised to four diamonds. After East passed South bid five diamonds, which closed the bidding.

West opened the ♠ K, dummy played the A, East the 2, and South the 3. Dummy led the ♦ 4, East played the A, South the 7, and West the 3. East returned the ♠ 4, which West took with the Q. West then led the ♥ 10 and dummy took it with the A. Dummy now led the ♦ Q and followed with the ♣ 2, which South took with the Q. South then led the ♣ A, West playing the 10, dummy the 5, and East the 8. South then led the ♦ K, West discarded the ♠ 6, North playing the ♦ 5 and East the ♠ 3. Next South led the ♦ J on which West played the ♠ 7, North the ♦ 6, and East the ♥ 6.

Each hand now contained four cards. Declarer held the ♦ 10-9, the ♥ J, and the ♣ 4. West held the ♠ 8 and the ♥ 9-8-7. Dummy held the ♥ 4-3 and the ♣ K-6, while East held the ♥ K-Q and the ♣ J-9.

South led the ♦ 10. West played the ♠ 8, dummy the ♥ 3, and East discarded the ♥ Q. South then proceeded to play the ♦ 9, on which East threw the ♥ K after which South took in his now good ♥ J and dummy's ♣ K.

If at trick 10 East had thrown the ♣ 9 in place of the ♥ Q South would then have led the ♦ 9 and then led the ♣ 4 to dummy's K, dropping East's J of that suit and taken the last trick with dummy's ♣ 6.

In many of the hands in which I have shown squeeze plays they were used merely to take in an extra trick or two. The above hand, however, was typical of many situations in which a knowledge of the play is absolutely necessary to make a perfectly valid declaration.

It might interest you to know that the above hand was played at duplicate, and some West's put in a nuisance bid of two spades over South's two diamonds. At those tables East was prompt to raise his partner's opening bid to four over North's four diamond bid. In all cases, however, South bid the five diamonds and West and East promptly subsided, the final bidding being identical at each table in the room.

PLAY-A-PROBLEM: SOLITAIRE OR PARTNERS

Play this hand tonight at your bridge game. Keep a record of the bid and play in the spaces provided. Numbers in the bidding squares are for successive rounds. Check your results with tomorrow's answer.

To play "Solitaire": Record the bids you think each hand would make in the bidding squares. After the final declaration has been made start the play, leading from the hand at declarer's left. As you play each card cross it off of the diagram and record it in the proper square, as S. 3, H. 5, etc. in the last column indicate the hand which won the round and lead from that hand on the next round.

Culbertson Has 4,965 Lead in Bridge Match

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 18 [Friday].—[Special.]—With their contract bridge match more than one-third played, Ely Culbertson and his new partner, Theodore A. Lightner, were in the lead by 4,965 points when play of the seventh session was concluded early today.

The Culbertson team, beginning the night with only 410 points advantage, took the first five rubbers, but lost the last to ther opponents, Sidney S. Lenz and Oswald Jacoby.

A summary of the match by rubbers follows:

	Last night.	Previous.	Total.
Culbertson	5	23	28
Lenz	1	25	26

Lenz and Jacoby Argue.

While Mr. Lightner's entrance into the 150 rubber match seemed to strengthen Mr. Culbertson's play as well as bring a series of high cards to the team, Mr. Lenz and Mr. Jacoby began to suffer under a sequence of misunderstandings and misinterpretations of bidding that kept them in some cases from bidding the full strength of their hand and, in others, from realizing when to close the contracting. As a result, there were several slight arguments between the partners.

Something of a pall hung over the players, owing to statements attributed to F. Dudley Courtenay, president of Bridge Headquarters, Inc., that the tournament was a mere publicity stunt. Mr. Courtenay said neither side was adhering to their bidding systems. He characterized Culbertson as a second P. T. Barnum and condemned the referees for not enforcing the rules.

Score for Night's Play.

Before last night's session 43 rubbers had been played and the Culbertson team was leading with 410 points. The progress of the night's play was as follows:

Rubber No. 49—5 hands, won by Culbertson; Culbertson now plus 1,535.
Rubber No. 50—5 hands, won by Culbertson; Culbertson now plus 2,685.
Rubber No. 51—5 hands, won by Culbertson; Culbertson now 3,045.
Rubber No. 52—5 hands, won by Culbertson; Culbertson now 4,275.
Rubber No. 53—12 hands, won by Culbertson; Culbertson now plus 5,785.
Rubber No. 54—5 hands, won by Lenz; Culbertson now plus 4,965.

Winter Suit Must Button Up Tightly

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Fashionables around Paris, these dark and rainy days, are wearing their tailored suits all day long, with a fur or topcoat thrown over them for warmth. The suit of the hour has one universal characteristic—it buttons up to the neck. No flaunting of throats is allowed by Madame Paris this winter, and we're hoping that this will at least lower the percentage of bronchitis and other evils of this region, for it is sometimes trying to a face, particularly one with a surplus of chins. However, be that as it may, the suit of the smart Parisienne always buttons right up either like a cadet uniform or like a bellhop, and the whole effect is neat and dainty.

Worth's most successful buttoned-up suit is shown in our sketch. It is made of parrot green diagonal woolen and has a double breasted closing right up to the shoulders, while at the neck are placed two collars which cover about half the neck. The upper collar is green and the lower is black to match the black leather buttons down the front of the jacket. The belt is of self material, and fastens with a black buckle.

The skirt of this suit is straight in line, but is wide enough for walking in big, free strides, because it has two inverted plaits secreted at the sides of the back and front panel.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Can't Afford a Razor.

"I have been in this sanitarium for almost two years and consequently my finances are very low. I wonder if one of your readers would supply me with a razor. I need one and cannot buy it. E. B."

This shut-in's needs are simple ones, indeed, and I am sure more than one of you will be able to supply this particular one. He'll be grateful for the razor you are planning to discard.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Tracking Down the Donor.

My friend had a colored shirt on and I did not like it. I asked him where the awful shirt came from.

"It's a Christmas present." He did not remember who gave it to him so I asked his mother, and added it must have come from an enemy.

You can imagine my embarrassment when she said that she gave it to him. B. A. M.

Boys Shy Away from Quiet Evening in Girl Friend's Home

BY DORIS BLAKE.

That coffee and sandwich idea of ours apparently didn't go over with the proverbial bang! You know, the one in which we tried to sell the novelty of dragging the beau in and serving him a bit of the home brand hospitality! No protests from the boys—yet. But listen to this from "Jean," boys, and then you tell one:

"After discussing your article, the girls in our crowd unanimously agree that you lose more boy friends bringing them home to coffee and sandwiches than by taking them out and making them spend their money.

"It was the experience of two of the girls to have their boy friends to dinner. It wasn't just coffee and sandwiches. But whether it was the steak or the mood, here's what honestly happened. After being duly filled up and seated comfortably on the divan smoking one of father's cigars, the boy friend solemnly delivered himself of: 'Sally, I don't want you to misunderstand what I am going to say, but—er—er—or—I don't want you to fall in love with me inasmuch as it is not my intention to marry you and, of course, I would not want to hurt you for the world.'

"Can you feature any one saying this if he were paying the check at an expensive café? Not on your life, Doris. It was just the idea that he thought Sally was trying to show off her culinary art in order to rope him in. Well, Sally, in showing off her other talents at the boy friends' expense, these days.

"A couple of other girls, after going with two chaps, thought they'd reciprocate by having a little bridge and chicken salad, later. Mind you, these were boys the girls considered steady friends who'd spent money taking them to shows, etc. Well, they never heard from either of them again. More proof that men are scared away by the coffee and sandwich idea.

"No, the average male, nowadays, wants to get out of the house as quickly as possible. If Mamma and Papa sit around and talk, the boys are sure they're being measured for a son-in-law. For me, I'll take the coffee and sandwiches any place and any time they're paid for and not by yours truly."

Is that right, boys? Does the home atmosphere make you wary?

FARM and GARDEN BY PAUL POTTER

The following dispatch is of interest to gardeners of Chicagoland:

State College, Pa., Dec. 17.—A Rip Van Winkle of American farm soil plots, after 50 years of the "sleep" of sterility, has "awakened" to produce a record crop at Pensylvania State college.

One year of proper fertilization brought this land back to production. The experiment, made public today, adds a new chapter to the growing information with which scientific agriculture is learning how to keep the land continuously up to maximum fertility.

The Rip Van Winkle land was one of numerous plots which Pennsylvania State college set aside for observation and experiment 50 years ago. It went to "sleep" because it received the wrong kind of fertilizer. The diagnosis was made by Fred G. Merkle, associate professor of soil technology, during research into some of the "secondary" changes caused in soils by fertilizers.

The trouble with old Rip was one of these "secondary" effects, such as often go unnoticed in practical farming. The effect in this case lay in a change in the film of soft material which covers soil particles.

The most important of these "tools" seems to be calcium, because it is necessary for the life of the teeming microbe population which produces much of the food for plants.

Love Affairs, Church Baffle Man of Science

Sigrid Undset Plans New Book's Sequel.

"The Wild Orchid," By Sigrid Undset (Knopf).

Sigrid Undset, incomparable portrayer of the Medieval, has turned again as she did in "Jenny" to the modern scene. The genius of this author, recognized and acclaimed in 1925 when she was given the Nobel prize for literature, shines constantly and quietly from the pages of this newest work which is followed shortly by a sequel. [illegible] the son of Julie Selmer, a man who wears the modernity of [illegible] and the late 19th century liberalism soundly, if somewhat smugly. [illegible] when divorce was not accepted. Julie had the courage to separate from her husband in a dignified, and thoughtful manner. Endowed with charm and honesty she [illegible] to her three sons and one daughter to rise above petty relationships, to face realities calmly and to be [illegible], even when individual [illegible] dangerous and impractical.

[illegible] subject of science, Paul decides [illegible] to Christiana away from the [illegible] and himself his mother has established in the suburbs. There he goes to university and there he meets the beautiful young Lucy [illegible] clerk in a florist's shop. She gives his existence because he is [illegible] financially to marry her. He [illegible] emotional and physical [illegible] to her presence that makes [illegible] intellectual and social [illegible] between them. Lucy, as well [illegible] character of Bjorg, later, in [illegible] represents the wild orchid, [illegible] of earthly love. Lucy finally [illegible] with another man, and Paul [illegible] he marries, chooses or is [illegible] to a young, innocent, pretty, [illegible] and very silly girl.

[illegible] summary of the plot can give [illegible] of the richness of the actual [illegible] of the many diverse characters [illegible], nor of the undercurrents [illegible] of emotion and [illegible] which flow under the actual [illegible] and interpretation of the action. The complexities of themes and [illegible] intrigue the interest of the [illegible]. The theme of Catholicism [illegible] early in the book and constantly [illegible] thereafter. Paul at the beginning of the story contemptuous of [illegible] Church, at the end is [illegible] convinced though actually [illegible] not yet formally embraced [illegible].

[illegible] is concerned with the [illegible] of her main character, [illegible] is a fit of her novels of wistful [illegible]. Paul's mind and body [illegible] find, and not until he is thirty [illegible] the present volume closes] does [illegible] calmness and seed of a spiritual [illegible] come clear and urgent enough [illegible] to search his own soul for a [illegible], further answer to the eternal [illegible] of life. Since the book [illegible] is chiefly about Paul and his outer and inner struggles, one may well complain a little of the treatment of his adolescence. The author, except for a few pages of vague description, evades the issues of that troubled formative period. Paul on one page is a boy. On the next a grown man. Though the affair with Lucy takes place chronologically during adolescence, the reader feels that it essentially is an affair of comparative maturity. This maturity seems not to stem directly from the boy's character, but rather from the author's arbitrary invention.

As to his religious gropings, it seems natural enough that Paul, surrounded by Catholic friends, should tentatively look to the church for an answer to his problems. Many of the dialogues and soliloquies, however, are so brusquely interjected into the narrative that the reader feels them to be the author's intervention rather than indications of the story's inexorable progress in this spiritual direction. And it must be said that these long and often mechanical explanations are dull and incongruous in a vital and moving story.

The novel is in the last analysis only a prelude to the main problem which will be solved in the next volume. The scene is laid, the characters presented, and the themes indicated. Passages in the writing and presentation of the moral struggles are leisurely during most of the novel, it becomes clear toward the end of this volume [illegible] that there is a steady, if slow, technical progress in the direction of a thrilling moral conclusion.

It is not possible to predict what the sequel will reveal to us; nevertheless there are a few suggestions throughout the book that stimulate the reader to imagine the denouement. It is indicated, for instance, what part Catholicism will play in the sequel [the very name for the next volume "The Burning Bush" is significant], what the relationship between Bjorg and Paul will be and where and when Paul will find peace.

Doug Tempers His Travels to the Talkie Fan

Does Nothing in "Interests of Science."

"AROUND THE WORLD IN 80 MINUTES."

Produced from photographs taken by Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and his party on his around world.

Directed by Victor Fleming and Fairbanks. Presented at the United Artists' theater.

By Mae Tinee.

Good morning!

Comes the resilient Douglas Fairbanks Sr. with something entirely new and completely fascinating in travel films! "Around the World in 80 Minutes" hands you eighty of the shortest and most delightful minutes you have ever enjoyed.

This is a remarkable picture in that it combines such a wealth of fact with such a treasure hoard of nonsense and imagery. Not for one second does Mr. Fairbanks take himself or his travelogue seriously. He assures you at the start that the production was NOT made in the interests of science. It was made to be interesting—and it is that. What a relief to get away from sex and racketeering and see the world as—well—it is certainly fun to see it!—sometimes through the lens of a camera that gayly indulges in trick photography!

Would you care to behold a Japanese maiden engaged in her boudoir rites? Mr. Fairbanks takes you for a peek. Ever observe a bird string beads with its bill? Now's your chance. Know how the famous Indian rope, sword, and basket tricks are accomplished? Well—there are some more sights for the old eyes!

You go golfing, tiger hunting, dining, etc., with the star and see scenery and architecture that poets and artists have raved over. There's the beautiful Taj Mahal, for instance—and isn't THAT something . . .!

Mr. Fairbanks has not scorned to kid "Trader Horn" a bit and he even summons Mickey Mouse to his aid. And at the end, lo—the magic carpet from "The Tales of Bagdad" makes a mysterious reappearance to transport Douglas, his director, and camera men back to Hollywood—and Mary.

As for said director and camera manipulators, those men certainly deserve honorable mention! Victor Fleming did a grand job of direction, and Henry Sharp and Chuck Lewis proved photographic wizards.

The running dialogue by Robert E. Sherwood, my favorite writer on the movies, is the last word in snap and patness, and there's a captivating accompanying musical score. The studio stagings are so clever one can hardly believe that they are that.

I tell you Douglas Fairbanks is s-m-a-r-t! He's 50 years old, but sometimes you have to get that way to be really good!

See you tomorrow!

Bogan Says Most Students Aren't Fitted for College

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—American universities were pictured by Dr. William Bogan, superintendent of Chicago schools as "ruining thousands of young men and women." Dr. Bogan spoke at a banquet given by the California vocational federation here.

"American colleges ruin thousands of boys and girls who ought to be doing something useful," Bogan said.

Dr. Bogan contended that 95 per cent of the high school students are not naturally adapted for university education and that the plan of high school education should be changed to meet their requirements.

Dr. Bogan added that time spent on classical languages and mathematics in high school and universities was largely wasted, while a similar educational development could be achieved through vocational study. The banquet was attended by 300 vocational teachers of the high schools of Los Angeles and nearby cities.

Hoovers Plan Happy Holiday for Family

President's Grandchildren Will Be There.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—(AP)—This will be a really merry Christmas in the White House.

For the first time in years there will be youth, gayety, a carefree spirit, and an unbroken family circle—all there.

Already there's a bustle of preparation, scent of spruce and pine, glistening ornaments, alluring packages arriving.

The President will have his family all together for the first Christmas since he has been in the White House. The two oldest grandchildren are coming all the way from California—little Peggy Ann and Herbert III., known as Peter. Their joy will be undimmed as their parents will be with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hoover Jr. spent last Christmas in Asheville, N. C., where the former was recuperating from an illness.

Allan, too, likable, full of life, will make things hum and the debutante set is eagerly anticipating another jolly Christmas dancing party in the big east room.

Much gayety will be crowded into a week or so as the Hoover children and grandchildren probably will return to California soon after New Year's. Allan is working in a Los Angeles bank and little Peggy Ann must get back to her school in Palo Alto.

A realistic looking lion that roars and snaps his eyes, a wonderful blond doll in pink organdie dress, await her and Peter's inspection in the capital's toyland. Mrs. Hoover has already made a tour of it preparatory to taking the children there.

The nursery on the third floor of the White House is ready, although the children probably will not spend so much time in it as on their prolonged stay a year ago. Both Peggy Ann and Peter are old enough now to mingle with grown-ups, especially at holiday time, and baby Joan is to be left at home in Palo Alto.

Peter and Peggy Ann will be host and hostess at a children's party at the White House on the afternoon of the 23d. The small guests will bring presents and candy, not for Peggy and Peter, but for needy children. Mrs. Hoover personally will attend to the distribution.

Children will be included in the Christmas eve and Christmas night festivities, too. On Christmas eve youngsters belonging to the White House secretaries are to march solemnly with the President and Mrs. Hoover, Peggy Ann and Peter, in the candle procession, listen to carols and receive gifts from the tree. On Christmas night children of cabinet members will attend a White House dinner with their parents.

Methodists Drop 200 Hymns; Keep Titles Secret

Asheville, N. C., Dec. 17.—(AP)—The official Methodist Hymnal is to lose 200 of its ancient songs and 200 are to be added in their place, but the Methodist joint hymnal commission, in session here, refused to reveal the names of the hymns to be dropped.

THE STAGE

THE Chicago company of Eugene O'Neill's "Mourning Becomes Electra" will be composed of Florence Reed as the wife, Judith Anderson as the avenging daughter, Walter Abel, Crane Wilbur, Thurston Hall, Seth Arnold, Beatrice Moreland, Harold Woolf, and Beatrice Maude. The play will begin an engagement at the Blackstone theater early in February.

Beatrice Lillie's next activity will be in a revue called "Hello, 1932," which will have its first performances in Brooklyn the week of Dec. 28. Bert Lahr, last seen here in "Flying High," will be the leading comedian of the company.

After appearances in Baltimore on Christmas day, Maude Adams and Otis Skinner, in their revival of "The Merchant of Venice," will start on a tour of the south, the southwest and the middle west. Between the holidays and mid-February they will visit the following cities: Richmond, Raleigh, Montgomery, Mobile, Shreveport, Houston, San Antonio, Austin, Fort Worth, Dallas, Louisville, Little Rock, Memphis, Indianapolis, Cincinnati, Dayton, Pittsburgh, Columbus, and Detroit.

"Girl Crazy," the musical comedy which recently ended a long run at the Garrick theater, will begin a week's engagement at the Oriental theater tonight as a supplement to the cinema program. The show, in a slightly abbreviated form, will be given four times a day. This plan may be the start of a new regime of "presentations" at cinema palaces, combining legitimate stage productions with film entertainments. C. C.

School Lunch Good Present to Hungry Child

Will Make Small Item on Yule List.

Cash contributions to the Hungry School Children's fund will be received at the following Tribune offices: 1 South Dearborn street, 1101 East 63d street, and 4133 West Madison street.

That Christmas list! All done? Not quite, unless you've remembered to write out that check you've been intending to send to the Hungry School Children's fund. Your donation may insure some destitute youngsters the luxury of eating regularly for a week, or a month, or for several months. At five cents a luncheon, your Christmas gifts will stretch a long way when deposited in this indispensable philanthropy. Where can you buy so much comfort and happiness for so small an outlay?

During the rush of the holidays, the needs of these destitute youngsters are getting pushed into the background in the flurry and whirl of activity apparent everywhere. To overestimate the necessity for this service would be impossible. To overlook it entirely would be more than regretable, both to the Christmas spirit which it wakens, and to the children who need it so greatly.

Gifts yesterday for the fund were:

$15—Margaret H. Thomas.
$10—The Louisville club.
$5—L. C. D. and Lucy C. Borica.
$2—Anonymous.

The finals were held in the Palmer house on Tuesday evening and were participated in by 944 players who were invited from time to time sent in scores after contesting in the Golden Card preliminaries on Dec. 3.

Charles True Adams, bridge expert for THE TRIBUNE, yesterday expressed his thanks to all those who had aided in making the tournament a success. He added that the number of players in the final was greater than in any duplicate tournament held in Chicago in four years.

Those who desire to see the score sheets will find them on display for the rest of the week in THE TRIBUNE Public Service office at 1 South Dearborn street.

The Bride's Boat

By Coralie Stanton and Heath Hosken

SYNOPSIS.

Kit Lenoure, who had worked four years in a London family hotel, accepts a post in the Grand Africa hotel, Soydoret, Kenya. Theo Sabie had gone there two years before when Kit had broken her engagement to him. But Kit still wanted him more than anything in the world. She sails on the "Bride's Boat." Jess North, her cabin mate, is going out to be married. Lal Crowhurst, the biggest landowner about Soydoret, and a most attractive bachelor, is on the boat. He is attentive to Kit. Jess tells Kit the scandal she hears about "the widow who owns him." Soydoret proves to be a paradise with quaint savagery and terrible powers of demoralization to weak natures. Jess is married on her arrival to Noel Graham, who manages Crowhurst's coffee plantations. Kit hears that Theo has taken up his game hunting. Crowhurst shows her through his place, "Moon Fields." She meets the widow, Ariel Grieve, who lives nearby. Then Theo Sabie arrives in Soydoret with a hunting party. They are both overjoyed to have found each other again. But there are unexplainable changes in Theo that Kit can't understand. Ariel Grieve also has her tentacles secretly around Theo Sabie. A dance and entertainment to wind up the season in Soydoret is given at the hotel.

INSTALLMENT XXIX.

FRIENDS AGAIN.

Again Crowhurst was all apology.

"Why, only because it's always a nuisance hanging about when you're going to get off on a job, Miss Lenoure! I'm sure you understand that. There aren't many things you don't understand, I fancy."

Her mind was diverted at once. She was always taking herself to task nowadays. She seemed unable to concentrate. She was always changing her mind, blowing hot and cold, detesting some visitor or inhabitant, and then finding out that she liked them very much. It wasn't a bit like her and she knew it.

"It's nice of you to say it, Mr. Crowhurst, but I don't know what you mean." She gave him one of her sweet, frank smiles.

But he answered in a serious voice.

"I hear all sorts of things about you. Nobody—certainly no woman—"I hear all sorts of things about you. Nobody—certainly no woman—has ever settled down to Africa like you have done. Blair tells me you are even picking up the Swahili language quite easily and you're getting to the bottom of the incomprehensible native mind. He says the boys will do anything for you and when they've slashed themselves with knives and other domestic implements they never seem to get the hang of, they come to you to be doctored and refuse to let anybody else touch them."

Kit's smile grew merry.

"They're such black children," she said. "Iodine and peroxide is better than their magic; I think that's what they try to tell me. When I first came I found one of them putting chicken innards on another one to cure him of a poisonous attack of flu!"

"Yes, you're a colonist all right," said the man. And once again, and with a fresh shock, she saw that haunted look in his eyes.

It was a pleasant little talk, though.

He ended up by picking her some of the ferocious looking orchids and saying, like a boy:

"Then, are we friends again, Miss Lenoure?"

"Of course we are, Mr. Crowhurst."

"And believe me I wish you every possible happiness."

Why shouldn't they be friends, she asked herself. He had been consistently kind to her. Those disturbing incidents could never occur again. Their relations were perfectly defined. She was engaged to Theo and he belonged to Mrs. Grieve.

The entertainment had been a tremendous success. Every one had sung, danced, acted their very best. The Grand Africa was crowded. Kit knew that supper was going to be superfine and that was chiefly due to Crowhurst, who had insisted on supplying a heap of delicacies and telling Capt. Blair, under seal of deepest secrecy, that everybody was to drink champagne at his expense.

The long windows of all the rooms were thrown open, special mosquito netting having been installed. Outside was the velvet African blackness and the huge orange African moon.

Crowhurst was putting up a party from Nairobi, some of the Dunbars' friends and some of his own. The only regret people expressed was that the nice Glystrian prince could not have stayed to add the finishing touch.

Kit was happy. She was in her element. She had done most of the hard work, and now the thing was such a success that it seemed spontaneous.

She was amazed at the music. Crowhurst's jazz band was a revelation. Not altogether a pleasurable one, but exciting as an earthquake or an avalanche. And just as primal. The boys were dressed like a sophisticated European band, in evening clothes.

They played the same tunes as other bands. Kit knew most of them. They were the same tunes to dance to, but they were not the same tunes to hear if you didn't happen to be dancing.

Kit danced with Theo, with Capt. Blair, with Mr. Dunbar, with other men, with Crowhurst. She enjoyed herself thoroughly. Crowhurst did not dance particularly well, but dancing with him was also different. He admitted that he did not care about it.

Kit had taken part in the entertainment, in a little Spanish sketch. She had made herself a Spanish dress out of a few dozen yards of soft net of the color that suited her so well, the rose-red of a ruby. A tight sateen bodice, cut low and round off her shoulders, and a foaming frilly skirt to her ankles. For the show she had worn a white lace mantilla over a high comb. But she had taken these off and now her rich golden hair was itself but for a red rose tucked behind her ear.

She knew she looked her best. Eyes, wherever she went, told her so. What she personally most delighted in were her dancing sandals of red velvet, laced high upon the leg. She had also made them herself. Yes, it was a becoming color scheme, the rose-red with her golden hair, blue-green eyes, and the pale tan that the hot weather had laid on her amber skin.

About ten o'clock Ariel Grieve caused a sensation by putting in an appearance.

She looked wonderful. Kit gasped when she saw her. Mrs. Grieve was dressed in black, but was not dressed in black. Kit had a flair for clothes and knew what it was at once, gray tulle in succeeding layers of darkness covered with a final one of black. It was as if her ghostlike and yet anguine form were swathed in smoke. The gown was as baffling as her eyes. She wore her black pearls that people said Joseph Grieve had almost ruined himself to buy for her. Her ashen hair and her shadowy red mouth made up the usual intriguing effect and from her frail person emanated that indescribable elusive power.

She did not dance. She created an atmosphere rather like a queen. People, men and women, came and sat with her at the end of the room, talked for a while, and went away. Others took their places. No doubt about it, tongues might wag and clack, tipped with venom, but when Ariel Grieve was there she dominated the scene.

Crowhurst sat beside her for a time. Once, as Kit happened to look that way, she saw him take Theo Sable up and introduce him to her. She smiled her thin detached smile. From across the room Kit heard the light, volatile, contactless voice that actually depressed her physically just as the atmosphere of Snow View had done. Mrs. Grieve found something Theo said amusing and laughed. What would Theo think of her, the girl wondered. A woman like that could never have come his way before.

Later, when there was a lull in the dancing and the supper room was getting crowded and the sound of popping champagne corks and excited laughter filled the air, Jess Graham came up to Kit, holding up a torn length of black imitation lace from her full, long skirt.

"Kit, darling, may I go up to your room and mend myself? That boob, Cal Watson, has trodden me to pieces!"

She hardly waited for the permission that Kit gave and hurried off. She wanted to get back quickly. She had a dance with Crowhurst in sight which she was not going to miss. There was not an occasion when she even spoke only a few words to him that did not result in her getting out of him something that she wanted. It was a natural instinct with Jess.

Children Love to Give as Well as to Receive at Christmas Time

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Of course, children love to get things, especially presents at Christmas time.

But did you ever see the face of a child as he watches some one he loves open a present he has made and wrapped up himself? Don't you know how it is—you can almost hear the stillness way inside him as this gift into which he has put himself emerges from its tissue wrappings and he waits for your words and expression of delight?

Children love to receive, but they love to give, too. Don't let Christmas go past without letting your children have this experience of giving.

If you're wise about Christmas, then your children have already saved for the buying of Christmas presents for those they love best. By this time they've probably had the fun of planning their money, working on or shopping for the present they're going to give, had long discussions about it, have whispered secrets and jealously guarded the hiding places of their treasures.

But if they haven't done any of these things, there's still time for them. Even the little ones can do all those things—except perhaps the saving. It's surprising how much even they can do if they've caught the contagion of giving and making presents. Your invention can lead them to many things—a picture they've drawn and framed, a little basket of nuts shelled by themselves—things which represent either their own effort, or their own choice.

But be sure of one thing—and that is that if you leave plenty of time for the wrapping in gayly colored paper, with pasted on stars, and carefully printed or written cards. This is a sort of climax to the creation of the gift, and shouldn't be rushed through at the last minute when the children are all tired out. Especially do small fingers make hard work of it, so stage manage this part of the proceedings.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Bobby, 5 years, is the son of an Italian father and American mother. He had been told that he had two kinds of blood in his veins, and it evidently impressed him.

He cut his finger one day and was troubled by its bleeding profusely. "Mother," he asked later, "was it my American blood or my Italian blood that ran out?"

Movie Gossip as It's Heard in Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Commander Donald MacMillan has closed negotiations with Sol Lesser, movie producer. It binds MacMillan to act as sort of a motion picture explorer. He will sally into the arctic wastes in search of thrill and scientific data, but each time he goes he will take movie equipment, and will have the comfortable assurances that expenses of his expeditions, and neat profit besides, are to come out of his ventures via the action camera.

The explorer will travel north again next June, seeking to retrace by air the region where the tragic Greeley and Franklin expeditions failed with great loss of life. Lesser will take charge of the synchronizing of sound into the pictures in Hollywood.

Estelle Taylor returned to Hollywood today 9 pounds lighter than she left last summer. She has been on an extended vaudeville tour. She will seek an immediate arrangement of property settlement matters which are holding up final determination of her disputed divorce status with Jack Dempsey.

Gloria Swanson celebrated the interim between her first and second weddings to Michael Farmer by having a nose beautifying operation performed here by Dr. Josef Ginsburg.

Every big star on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot played a part subordinate to Jackie Cooper in "A Christmas Party," to be released next week. It is a short film intended as a special novelty to make kids happy during the holidays. "Chuck" Reisner directed it. In the film are Norma Shearer, Clark Gable, Ramon Novarro, Marie Dressler, Marion Davies, Lionel Barrymore, Bob Montgomery, who himself feels very unhappy because of the death this week of his own 14 months old daughter; Charlotte Greenwood, Wallace Ford, Polly Moran, Ukulele Ike, Anita Page, Leila Hyams, Jimmy Durante and others.

Just think of it: these new, better and different salts were only introduced into America 3 years ago—yet a host of intelligent Americans are healthier and happier because of their supreme goodness.

Kruschen Salts are the daily health dose of millions of people the world over.

One-half teaspoon of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning gently but surely stimulates the liver, bowels and kidneys to healthy elimination.

But the six salts in Kruschen do more than assist regular elimination—for the decrease in weight as a result of taking Kruschen is far more than mere waste removal.

One bottle of Kruschen Salts (lasts 4 weeks) costs but 85c and one bottle will prove of vast benefit to people who have constipation, headaches, indigestion, nervousness, rheumatism, depression, acidity and auto-intoxication through improper elimination.

Not only that but one bottle will bring about body activity—increase in energy, vigor and ambition, sparkling eyes and freedom from pimples and blemishes—millions know all this—you ought to know it.

The Eyes Have It, Says Antoinette, Speaking of Feminine Beauty

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Yesterday we were talking about this boomingly active industry among our beauty searching women—eye and lash tinting. But that, we believe, is really putting the cart before the horse.

There are eyes and eyelids to be cleared up, toned up, made youthful, before the lid and lash painting is started. One can look like a civil war flapper with wrinkled lids and tired eyes bowed down with eye paste just as one can look like nobody's mamma with lined cheeks weighted down with red, red rouge. In fact, if eyes are not in pretty good condition it were better to leave the tinting until such time as youth or semi-youth is restored them.

It's funny to sit on the sidelines and watch this beauty parade of the years, to note particularly how, for one period of time, concentration will be largely on the silhouette; then on the complexion; then on the hair and coiff, and now on the eyes. The eyes certainly have it, at this current moment.

Enemies are peering into yours and mine and seein' things we'd rather they didn't, as yesterday they scanned our complexions for flaws, and the day before our silhouettes for hidden tonnage. [Maybe I shouldn't call them enemies; they may be friends in disguise.] Anyway, the eyes are getting the onceover good and plenty. And it is a good sign, too. Just as it was good for the figure when folk started wagging their heads at those extras on our hips.

Up to a certain age the eyes are able to make a quick comeback after a session of abuse such as overstrain at work, or not giving them enough sleep. But there comes a day when they lose that resiliency. They may go to a party bright enough, but before the evening is over they look awfully weary. The lids crinkle deeper and the bright young thing just isn't.

Now, there are just as good things to be done for flabby lids and tired eyes as ever were advised for complexion betterment or hair. It's just as possible to rejuvenate eyes and lids as it is to rejuvenate skin. It's all in wanting to do it and then getting busy with eyewash and lotion for the eye, proper, and massage for that tired, drooping lid.

Charity Dance at Auditorium to Stir Memory

The peak of the social season may be said to be reached tonight when the charity dance is held in the old Auditorium theater, now for so many years society assembled every year for grand opera, and when, before the days of Chicago's own opera company, there were such charity affairs.

The dancers will dance on a floor which has been laid over the stage at main floor seats, in a garden setting which will be a lovely background for the beautiful gowns and precious jewels which are sure to be in the picture tonight.

The 121 boxes will be occupied by those "400," although in this case it will be several hundred more than that number, made famous by Ward McAllister when he separated the "sheep" from the "goats" of New York society. A ticket—they are on sale at the leading loop hotels, clubs, and theaters—entitles one to supper, which will be served at reserved tables on the dress floor and also at tables in the foyer.

Mrs. Ashbrook C. Cranmer is in charge of a group of fortune tellers who will forecast the future in a booth that has been set up in the foyer. The balcony has been reserved for those who wish to view the scene but who have not reserved seats or tables.

The grand march will be led by Mr. Peter Palmer, chairman of the society committee, and Mrs. Jamieson, and when the march reaches the left wing will be led by Mr. Edward L. Ryerson, whose many select committees, which will benefit from the proceeds of the ball, Mrs. Cyrus McCormick. Miss Eleanor Stewart, Mrs. Stanley Zaring, and Mrs. Conrad Weary are chairman of the groups of girls who will sell cigarettes and flowers.

Mrs. McCormick is chairman of the Loopers, Mrs. Zaring of the club members, and Miss Weary of the girls who live on the south side; Howard F. Gillette is chairman of the executive committee, Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson is box chairman, Mrs. J. Newton Perry, table chairman. Mrs. Walter S. Brewster was in charge of tickets and invitations, Joseph T. Ryerson arranged the entertainment, J. Russell Forgan is at the head of the music committee, and Mrs. Morris L. Johnston is the energetic one who has given all the information to the press during the past weeks.

Getting Tonight's Fete Ready

MRS. JOSEPH T. RYERSON AND MRS. WALTER S. BREWSTER. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Ryerson and Mrs. Brewster were photographed yesterday while they were putting some finishing touches to the decorations for the charity fete that will be given tonight at the Auditorium.

Alicia Patterson Wedding Next Wednesday.

Miss Alicia Patterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Patterson, 209 Lake Shore drive, will be married at noon next Wednesday to Joseph W. Brooks of New York. The wedding will take place at Miss Patterson's apartment, 2 East 84th street, New York. Only members of the immediate families of the bride and groom will be present. The ceremony will be followed by a wedding breakfast in the bride's apartment. The engagement of Miss Patterson and Mr. Brooks was announced last October.

Mrs. Stephen Tyng Mather of Chicago and Darien, Conn., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Bertha Floy, to Edward Reynolds McPherson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reynolds McPherson of Harrisburg, Pa. Miss Mather was graduated from the University High school, Vassar, and the Cambridge School of Domestic and Landscape Architecture at Cambridge, Mass. Her father was for fifteen years director of the National park service at Washington, D. C., and held that position until a year before his death in 1930.

Mr. McPherson attended the Phillips Exeter academy and was graduated from Harvard in 1929. He is a member of the Harvard Lampoon, the Pi Eta club, and the Harvard club at Philadelphia. At present he is a student at the Cornell Law school. The wedding will take place in June.

Marjory Horton's Dance Is Set For Dec. 29.

The invitation list for the dance that the Samuel Rinakers are giving on Dec. 29 to introduce to society Mrs. Rinaker's daughter, Miss Marjory Horton, is limited to young people. Many of them will attend the dinner dance that Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Leslie Behr will give earlier that night at the Casino to present their daughter, Miss Edith Behr.

Mrs. Edward J. White will give a dinner for her daughter, Marjorie, on New Year's eve before the Junior Assembly at the Lake Shore Drive hotel where the Whites whose home is in Pasadena stay when they are in Chicago. On Saturday, Dec. 26, Mrs. White will entertain forty young girls at luncheon for her daughter, who is finishing her first year at Miss Wheeler's school at Providence. Next year Miss White will attend school in Paris.

Polly Hart Makes Debut Today at Dinner Dance.

Today's debutante is Miss Polly Hart, who is to be introduced at a dinner dance given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Stillson Hart, at the Blackstone. Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Hart and Miss Polly will be Miss Elizabeth Hart who did not have a formal debut when she finished school two years ago on account of being abroad with her family, so she is taking part in the debutante festivities this year. The Harts have set the time for their dinner at 7 o'clock so that their guests can go to the charity ball.

Two Winnetka girls who will make their debuts while they are at home for the holidays are Miss Dorothy Gerhard and Miss Virginia Miller. Miss Gerhard, the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. E. Ashley Gerhard, will make her bow at a tea next Tuesday at the residence of her parents, 466 Maple street, and Miss Miller will be introduced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Miller, at a tea on New Year's day at their residence, 670 Walden road. Miss Gerhard is a sophomore at Bryn Mawr, and Miss Miller is a sophomore at Smith.

The South Shore Country club is planning a festive program for the holidays. The entertainment committee has sent out cards for a dinner on Christmas day, a dinner and ball on the night after Christmas, and a junior dinner party on Tuesday, Dec. 29. The New Year's eve invitations are brightly colored circulars illustrated with sketches of whoopee makers and bearing in large type the warning to "make reservations early." No reservations will be accepted after the capacity of the club [1,700] is reached.

Mrs. G. F. Swift and Her Daughter Back from Bermuda.

Mrs. Gustavus F. Swift and Miss Geraldine Swift have arrived at home from a three weeks' trip to Bermuda. Miss Marie Swift will be missing from the Swift family Christmas gathering, for she is in school in Italy this winter.

The boys who will form the all important stag line at the holiday festivities for the debutantes and subdebs are arriving home daily from the eastern schools. A contingent of Yale boys, including George A. Ranny Jr., Leeds Mitchell, Edwin Smith, son of the Solomon A. Smiths; Jimmy Heyworth, Aldis Browne Jr., Gordon Cameron, Radford Van Ness, Elias Babcock, Edward Brewster, Frederick Charles, Freddy Pierce, and Nathan Swift, son of the Allen B. Swifts, were welcomed home yesterday.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Hoover gave the second of this season's state receptions this evening, that for the judiciary. The guests included the Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes, with several of the associate justices and their wives. Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes renounced evening receptions some years before he reached his 90th birthday last March; Justice and Mrs. Sutherland, Justice and Mrs. Van Devanter, Justice and Mrs. Brandeis, were not in the company, and Justice and Mrs. Owen J. Roberts, the most recent addition to the circle, were called to Fairfield, Conn., because of the death of Mrs. Roberts' brother-in-law, Mr. Charles Hosmer.

Other justices and judges of the lower courts with their wives attended. Arrangements were much the same as at former receptions. Attorney General and Mrs. Mitchell greeted the guests in the east room.

Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes were th first to be received followed by the other guests in the order of their appointments. Guests also included members of the senate and house committees on judiciary, officials of the department of justice, legal advisers to other federal departments.

SOCIETY NOTES

The students' press board of the Emma Willard school at Troy, N. Y., reports that Miss Astrid Breasted, daughter of Prof. and Mrs. James H. Breasted, made a great hit in the rôle of an Egyptian princess in the school's annual Christmas revel. Miss Breasted, who is in her senior year, is a member of the Glee and Dramatic clubs, the Athletic association, and the senior hockey team.

Mrs. Victor A. Beaufort has gone to the Ambassador after a visit with the Wallace Kirks. Maj. Beaufort and Mrs. Beaufort's son, Alexis Thompson, will join her on the 23d to spend the holidays here. They will return to their residence at Thomasville, Ga., in mid-January.

Mrs. Leon M. Allens of Kenilworth have gone to Santa Barbara for the winter.

HAWKS' ATTACK WILTS; DETROIT WINS, 4 TO 1

TO BE SISTER MANAGER OF ING LEVINSKY!

Mrs. Lena Levy; She Knows.

WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 17.—Another of combinations of the prize fight business, a brother-and-sister act, has hit town from Chicago for a performance under the Garden corporation's big top with Tommy Loughran tonight. They are King Levinsky, a retired herring monger, and his sister, a Mrs. Lena Levy, manager of the former.

The King is of the clownish, talkative, just-a-great-big-good-natured type, which is as old as the prize fight business. Lena also is of a familiar type, as are hundreds of thousands of Jewish women. The King does the fighting, but Lena is such a good natured, motherly kid, Mrs. Levy decided to let his old managers out and put herself in to protect him from his generosity, innocence and occasional bullyness.

Mrs. Levy Not So Affable.

Lena is not as good natured as Levinsky is the third of what has developed a dynasty. The first was in the prize fight business. A Jewish boy from Chicago, a heavyweight who wound up his hassle for per diem sparring partner for Jack Dempsey, took some terrible beatings in his competitive career and would have been heard of if he were not the first prize fighter named King.

Then there was a lightweight champion, who came along when Lord Carnarvon's discovery was ingeniously called the King Tut. Or maybe that was Tut, for the originals are unceasingly defunct and Tut is his extreme decay, or something else. Anyway, there was just an Iowa boy called Tut. In the process of time he is now more or less himself.

The Legend of the Herring.

Mr. Levinsky's biographers consider the fact of his having been a herring monger, as though there were something sensational about it. I would willingly believe that Levinsky spent some time in connection with the herring. It is a respectable fish. If they don't like it, they keep on saying, why don't they know that King Levinsky was a herring-monger?" and that Levinsky used to peddle herrings in a professional way. Emotions are aroused and suspicions are aroused at the mention of it. I wouldn't believe that he was a brilliant lineman. By his fighting spirit and dogged determination he further helped Mr. Stagg to keep the boys from becoming discouraged. The Chicago team could not well have gotten along without Horwitz."

A Voice for Hillsdale.

Dear Wake: I've read all arguments in your column for the Big Ten championship. Well, here's my conclusion: Hillsdale college of Michigan is champion.

Hillsdale beat Chicago by one touchdown. Chicago beat Illinois by a touchdown, making Hillsdale two touchdowns better. Purdue was only one touchdown better than Illinois. So Hillsdale was one touchdown better than the Boilermakers. Purdue then beat Northwestern one touchdown, so Hillsdale was two better than the Purple. Northwestern beat Ohio State by a touchdown and Ohio State had upset Michigan by two touchdowns, so Hillsdale was five touchdowns better than the Wolverines. Here are Hillsdale's indicated scores against the three co-champions:

Hillsdale, 7; Purdue, 0.
Hillsdale, 14; Northwestern, 0.
Hillsdale, 33; Michigan, 0.

GRANDMA'S VISIT.

Grandma Brewster came to town to visit grandchild Fred,
To rest from farm house drudgery—
that's what the children said.
Now Fred's wife, May, bought bakery pies, potatoes washed and peeled,
Biscuits ready for the oven, chickens cooked and sealed.
And still when Grandma said she'd like to see the Planetarium,
Or watch the seahorse twist and turn and whirl in the Aquarium, Poor May (who'd been a-rushing 'round in orange crêpe pajamas
Preparing instant coffee and some pep with sliced bananas)
Just gasped and held her marcelled head and tried to catch her breath—
"O, Grandma, dear, I couldn't go, I'm almost rushed to death.
Grandma smiled. She went back home when Grandpa came on Sunday—
She told him she could hardly wait to start the washing Monday.
At 10 o'clock the clothes were out . . .
Grandma began to bake.
She filled a jar with gingersnaps and made a chocolate cake,
A custard pie, a rooster fry, some noodles long and thin,
And, when the tablecloth was spread,
she called the family in.
The fire glowed, the kettle sang, the atmosphere was gay . . .
"Why, Ma?" said Grandpa. "Why the fuss? I thought you washed today."
That night, at Fred's, they shed a tear for poor old Grandma Brewster, While Grandma snickered at city ways
as Grandpa carved the rooster.

Player of Greatest Value.

Samuel Horwitz, Chicago guard, is receiving votes from members of the board of award as the Big Ten player of greatest value to his team in 1931. Here is the opinion of one judge:

"I select Sam Horwitz of Chicago as the man most valuable to his team. A coach told me his players considered Horwitz the best guard they had played against this year. Certainly he was a brilliant lineman. By his fighting spirit and dogged determination he further helped Mr. Stagg to keep the boys from becoming discouraged. The Chicago team could not well have gotten along without Horwitz."

LIGHT HEAVIES RESUME TITLE QUEST TONIGHT

Bozo and Johnson on Stadium Card.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Another small army of light heavyweight boxers will go into action at the Chicago Stadium tonight in the tournament which is to determine a new world's 175 pound champion.

Six bouts with 12 hard punching fellows mauling away at each other make up the program, and many persons wise in a fistic way are predicting numerous knockouts and many more knockdowns, for the luck of the draw has brought most of the more rugged sluggers in the division into the competition this evening.

An exciting card is in prospect any way you figure it, but the coronation ceremonies still are some distance away, for this is one more series of first round bouts, the other having been offered a week ago. After tonight's battles the survivors will begin coming together in the struggles that will lead nearer to the title.

Bozo's Popular; He's So Cute.

There is prospect of a good sized gathering at the ringside when the program opens, one much larger, the advance ticket sale indicates, than the crowd on hand when the tournament opened last week. And from the way Battling Bozo's name flitted around off one tongue onto another, one might get the impression he is the real drawing power of this tournament session.

Bozo's foe will be Pettit Pearrer, a Negro youth from Michigan, whose friends call him "The Wildcat." And if "The Wildcat" is half as tough as his advance notices indicate, then Birmingham's Bozo is in for one of the most lively skirmishes of his career.

Bozo lost Willie Stribling as his chief second yesterday when Willie decided to go bear hunting in the Carolinas. Maybe there is something in common between hunting bears and serving as second to Battling Bozo. However, the Battler will have a Stribling in his corner, but it will be Pa Stribling up there beneath the bright lights peering viciously out over the ring at the "Michigan Wildcat" whispering words of wisdom into the ear of Bozo.

Able Is Here, Too.

Another bout that has caught the fancy of ring fans brings Larry Johnson of the south side into action against Roxy Rosales. It isn't any secret that these fellows met once upon a time in Detroit and that Rosales had Johnson down in the rosin nine times. But Rosales couldn't put Johnson to sleep and Johnson insists that the nine knockdowns he suffered came after Rosales had accidently hit him a glancing blow on the chin which disabled him for the rest of the combat.

Any of the other battles may steal the show, for Lou Scozza is paired against Russ Rowsey, Able Bain of Newark has been handed Harry Fuller of Buffalo as an opponent, and Teit Littman and Bob Olin should be able to furnish plenty of fireworks when they meet.

A last minute change was made in the other bout and, according to the eleventh hour schedule, it will find Buddy McArthur of Saginaw, Mich., squared away against Rescoe Manning, Negro from Newark. Joe Zelinsky would have been McArthur's foe, but he broke a hand in training and fell by the wayside at the end of yesterday's drills.

Draws Are Barred.

Making weight will not bother any of the twelve gladiators, although they all will have to step on the scales at the Illinois athletic commission's offices today. Soon after the weights are officially entered into the ledger there will be a draw for program positions.

A chance to earn some money later on in the tournament is about all the boxers on tonight's card will get for their efforts unless there is a huge crowd on hand, for in the preliminary rounds each boy is working for only 4 per cent of the net gate receipts.

The bouts are scheduled to go eight rounds and there must be a decision if the boys are on their feet at the end of the journey.

BEFORE ST. MEL BEGAN TO GO PLACES

Frank Denies Asking Badger Coach to Quit

Madison, Wis., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin, today denied published reports that he had asked for the resignation of Glenn Thistlethwaite as head football coach.

Frank was reported to have told the legislative committee investigating the athletic department that Thistlethwaite was "through."

President Frank later announced via press and radio that he had made no such statement.

"I have not mixed in the personnel of the department and have not expressed an opinion on any person in the department. I am interested in the organization and policy of the department first," Frank said.

George Little, resigned athletic director, and George Downer, publicity director, are scheduled as the next witnesses to appear before the legislative committee.

Members of the committee this afternoon said the hearing likely would be resumed tomorrow afternoon and that Little and Downer would appear.

N.U. Beats K. of C. Five, 33-16; De Paul, St. Mel Also Victors

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Northwestern's basketball team, champions of the Big Ten, ran wild last night at the Chicago Stadium to whip an all-star Knights of Columbus five, 33 to 16. Ten thousand watched the charity games. Officials estimated that more than $8,000 will be given the committee for unemployment relief in Cook county.

In the other games on the program, St. Mel High school defeated Crane Tech, 28 to 14, and De Paul university nosed out St. Viator, 23 to 24.

N. U. Leads at Half.

The Wildcats had no difficulty proving their superiority to the K. C. Stars. Northwestern had superior long distance shooting in the first half to build up an 18 to 4 lead, while Bill Brown's field goal was the only basket for the all-stars.

Northwestern only counted four field goals in the first half and a total of nine for the game. The Wildcats, however, secured fifteen free throws, while the K. C. players were equally off form here as well as shooting from far out.

Joe Reiff, Northwestern star, led with 12 points, nine by free throws. Elmer Johnson was close behind with 11 points, five from the penalty mark.

Saul Farber, who started last night, again played an excellent floor game, as he did against Southern California last week. Louie Mehalek was high point man for the all-stars with two field goals and an additional free throw.

De Paul Rally Wins.

De Paul rallied in the second half to whip St. Viator. Rondinella, Lauritas, and Coan did the scoring in the Blue Demons' winning spurt.

De Paul got away slowly and was behind, 19 to 14, at the half. In that time St. Viator lost Romary by four fouls and in the opening minutes of the second period also lost Red Hayes by the same method. With the score 22 to 17 for St. Viator, Lauritas scored a field goal and Rondinella repeated from close in. De Paul trailed, 22 to 21. Coan's free throw tied the score with six minutes left.

De Paul went into the lead on Rondinella's free throw, but seconds later Green's two free throws sent St. Viator to the front, 24 to 23. Once more Rondinella tossed a penalty shot to tie at 24 all. Each team played cautiously, looking for an opening. With a minute to go, Lauritas received Weston's pass and scored from under the basket.

St. Mel led, 15 to 11, at the half in the game with Crane, with Rigney making the first 11 points for St. Mel, while holding his opposing center, Gruenig, scoreless. Although Crane narrowed the margin to three points in the third period, St. Mel pulled away, and when Crane substituted freely in the closing minutes doubled the score.

Coan Scores Again.

De Paul stalled, but as the gun sounded Coan dribbled under for the final goal.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Chicago's Blackhawks, who scored three goals in an overtime period to defeat the Falcons in Chicago last night, were thoroughly whipped by the Detroit six here tonight, 4 to 1. Detroit scored in each of the three periods, clinching the game in the second session with two goals.

The Hawks' front line of Gottselig, Adams, and March was unable to crack the Falcon defense until late in the final period, when Musa March, taking Johnny Gottselig's pass, drove home the only Chicago goal.

Only Nine Penalties.

Carson Cooper, Falcon wingman, scored midway in the first period on a pass from Alex Smith, and Larry Aurie and Art Gagne counted in the second. Doug Young, rookie defense man, scored his second National league goal midway in the final period on a solo run down the ice.

Nine penalties were called, four of them on Reg Noble, Falcon defense star. Less than 3,000 spectators, the smallest crowd of the season, saw the match.

The game got away to a slow start with most of the play around center ice until Aurie and Cox broke away for a pair of drives that had Gardiner on the ice sweeping the puck away after Aurie's shot and kicking it out on Cox's rebound drive. Gottselig gave the Hawks their first good opportunity when he broke through and laid a pass to Wentworth, but the bulky defense star missed the net.

Cooper Beats Gardiner.

With three minutes left to play in the period, Carson Cooper followed Alex Smith down the arena, reached out to hook Smith's pass, and skated in alone to beat Gardiner cleanly for the first Falcon goal. It was Cooper's first goal of the season.

The Hawks opened up a fast offense, but failed to tie the score as the period ended.

Early in the second period Lowery drew a penalty for holding Lewis near the Hawk net. With the Hawks a man shy, Doug Young, Falcon defense recruit, carried the puck into Hawk territory, but lost it in a mixup. Aurie swung behind the net and shoved the rubber to Lewis, who snapped it past Gardiner in 5:14.

Gagne Also Scores.

The Hawks suddenly turned loose a five man assault, which the Falcons turned to their own advantage late in the period. Goodfellow got away and sent the puck to Gagne in center ice. Gagne skated down with the Hawks overhauling him and shot. Gardiner saved, but Gagne eluded Taffy Abel and tapped his own rebound past the goalie for Detroit's third goal in 14:26.

In contrast to the previous two periods of occasional flashes of speed amidst minutes of mediocre hockey, the third period saw the Hawks piling in with a four and five man drive, with the Falcons checking frantically from the defense line.

Another for Falcons.

Noble's second penalty midway in the period was the third break for the Hawks, but the Falcons suddenly developed uncanny ability at poke checking and they broke up every Chicago drive.

At the 13 minute mark Doug Young eluded Boucher near the left boards, skated across in front of Gardiner, drew him out of position, and slammed home the fourth Detroit goal, his second in major league hockey.

March broke away to score the only Hawk goal with less than two minutes to go, taking a pass from Gottselig as the Hawks piled in with four men. The Hawks were still battling in Falcon ice as the game ended.

BATTISTA WINS DAY'S HONORS AT JEFFERSON PARK

Brings 2 Winners Home, Places with Another.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Jockey J. Battista, little known rider, grabbed the honors of a featureless program at Jefferson Park today.

While the more prominent riders had to be content with one winner, Battista rode two of his mounts down past the judges' stand in front of their rivals and placed second with another. The winners were Nosh's Pride in the curtain raiser and Chatson in the closing event.

The third race, decided over the mile and one-sixteenth distance, was the best race on the card and went to Sis Esther for the filly's second consecutive victory. Although the favorite, Sis Esther paid 2 to 1.

Shamrocks to Meet Pla-Mors for Ice Lead

Porky Levine, goalkeeper for the Kansas City Pla-Mors, and Art Smith, new Shamrock defense man, are expected to share the spotlight in tomorrow night's American Hockey league game between their clubs at the Chicago Stadium.

When the Pla-Mors won a 78 minute [double overtime] game from the Shamrocks last week by a score of 1 to 0 Levine was in the goal for the 3 to 2 victors, and Smith had not yet joined the Green and White. It was Levine who was largely responsible for the blank the Shamrocks drew. It is Smith, the new Shamrock, who is looked to by Shamrock fans to supply the punch missing the last time. His powerful rushes and hard shots were an important feature of the Shamrocks' victory over Duluth in a game following the defeat by Kansas City.

The Shamrocks will meet their rivals for the league leadership refreshed by ten days' rest. They had their last ice practice Wednesday, limbered up yesterday in Coulon's gymnasium, and will repeat the gym program today.

Official averages of the American Hockey league released yesterday show Dennie McFadyen, Shamrocks' left wing, to be second high point man for the period ending Dec. 14. McFadyen specialized in assists with six. Three goals give him a total of nine points, one point behind the league leader, Gus Forslund of Duluth. Forslund scored six goals and four assists.

Five Shamrocks are among the first ten leading scorers, ranking in the order named: McFadyen, second; Riley fourth; O'Neill, fifth; Preleanik, sixth, and Wiseman, eighth.

Boys 16 years of age and under are eligible. There will be four divisions: Under 10; 11 and 12; 13 and 14; 15 and 16. Mail entry to Ski Editor, Sports Department, Chicago Tribune. Entries close at midnight, Dec. 28. Neither THE TRIBUNE nor the Northwest Park district is responsible in case of injury to contestants.

Vic Kaufman, 16 years of age, is the first of Chicago's boys to enter the second annual TRIBUNE ski tournament which will be held Jan. 3 at Riis park, Fullerton and Mead avenue. Kaufman will compete in the oldest age group, boys 15 and 16, and even if he doesn't win one of the three prizes based on distance and form he may get the medal for the longest jump.

Each of the four age divisions has three awards. In each the winner will receive a gold medal; second place carries a silver medal, while the third prize is a bronze medal. All of these prizes are determined on distance and form in landing. Consequently it was decided to offer a gold medal for the longest jump regardless of form. The jumps, of course, must keep his feet on at all times, but lack of balance and other point features will not be considered.

Jumpers Want Snow.

The TRIBUNE tournament is open to all boys 16 years of age and under. The age divisions are 10 years and under, boys 11 and 12 years, boys 13 and 14 years, boys 15 and 16 years. The young ski jumpers these days are waiting for some snow. So far there hasn't been sufficient to cover the slides in the forest preserves and Riis park. But with colder weather predicted the officials of the northwest park district promise to conserve the snowfall and have sufficient for the tournament two weeks from Sunday.

Two Jumps Apiece.

The slide at Riis park is particularly suitable for novices. An extension will be erected so that maximum distances can be obtained. Last year several jumps were over 40 feet despite slushy snow. With better conditions it is possible to jump more than 50 feet.

Each competitor will be required to jump at least twice. The number of entries will determine whether three jumps will be permitted. Officials of the Norge Ski club and the Ogden Shops club will judge the distance and form. The average of each boy's jumps will determine his position in the division.

TABERSKI UPSET BY ALLEN IN CUE MEET, 125 TO 52

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Another upset featured the world's championship pocket billiard tournament here today when Frank Taberski of Schenectady, N. Y., many time titleholder, lost to Bennie Allen of Kansas City, 125 to 52.

The game was the final of the tournament for Allen, also a former world's champion, who is tied with Ottilio Lauri of Brooklyn for sixth place.

Allen completed his string in 13 innings, having five runs of 29, 24, 22, 15 and 27, while Taberski's best run was 37. The westerner got the jump on Taberski early in the match and led at 52 to 27 edge at the end of the 21st inning. Taberski's 27 in the 20th inning enabled him to draw up within 4 points of the Missouri entrant, but the latter gave the easterner few openings the rest of the way, and Taberski failed to score a single ball in the last six innings.

Lauri also finished his tournament schedule, easily beating Marcel Camp, fellow player from Detroit, 125 to 46. This also was the last appearance of Camp, who wound up with five victories and six defeats.

MOON MULLINS—UNCLE WILLIE IS SUPER-SUPERSTITIOUS

Anyway, Sox Can't Slump Next Season

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Lew Fonseca, who is to hold the chair of baseball hitting in Lou Comiskey's White Sox college, had his shock several days ago when he read in the official American league averages that his new charges in 1931 were at the foot of the class in batting.

This morning it will be the turn of Johnny Butler, new professor of infielding, and Bill Cunningham, professor of outfielding, to become apprehensive, for official figures just released show that the 1931 White Sox supported their status of being tail enders in the league standings and in hitting by finishing last in fielding.

As they ponder the situation, however, they probably will become very happy, for not only will they realize more fully than ever that they have a great task before them, but they are in the inspiring spot where they have much ground to gain but none to lose. The White Sox in 1931 were a 100 per cent tail end aggregation, with the only blot on their year's record the fact that they won the city championship.

Shift Will Help Smead.

There is much to guide the new faculty in fielding instruction. Several steps already have been taken in this direction. For instance, it has been announced that Smead Jolley is to be made into a catcher. Smead, though he led the league in pinch hitting, was a poor last among the outfielders in the league. Because of injuries Smead was out a great part of the year, but he was in long enough to get 35 chances, five of which he gummed up. Mr. Jolley, who led the league in outfield assists in 1930, with 17, made only one assist last year.

The fielding of all third basemen was below par last year, and young Billy Sullivan was 16th in a mediocre field. He had some balm, however, in that he participated in two triple plays and 24 double plays, to lead all third basemen in the league.

Bill Cissell was one of the few Sox to show improvement. Bill made only 24 errors, 31 fewer than the number he perpetrated in 1929 when he last played shortstop regularly.

Hayes Fields .962.

Jack Hayes, late of Washington, who is expected to play second base for the Sox next summer, played the position last year in only 19 games and fielded .962, six points under the departed Johnny Kerr.

Lu Blue, generally looked upon as the Sox's "most valuable" last year in all round play, had a mark of .990, two points under the leading regular first baseman, Rookie Irving Burns, Lu's successor at St. Louis.

Prof. Fonseca, in addition to leading his club in hitting, also ranked at the top of the class in outfielding, but even so was fifteenth in the league with a mark of .974. Fothergill was next with .972. The departed Reynolds staggered about the outfield for a mark of .949 and Watwood was even worse, muffing them for an average of .944. Watwood led the league in outfield errors with 18. He was tied by Earl Webb of Boston, but Earl can throw, and moreover broke the record for doubles with 67.

A's Set Fielding Record.

While the Sox were having such a terrible time in virtually every department, two teams were breaking the league record for scarcity of errors. The champion A's made only 141 errors, as contrasted to 245 by the Sox. The Washington Senators made only 142 misplays. The former record was 144, set by the Yankees in 1923.

Suburban and Catholic Prep Leagues Open

CATHOLIC LEAGUE.
De La Salle at St. Rita.
Joliet at Leo.
St. Michael at St. Patrick.

SUBURBAN LEAGUE.
New Trier at Oak Park.
Deerfield at Proviso.
Evanston at Morton.

The Chicago Catholic High School league and the Suburban league will begin their light and heavyweight championship basketball games today. Only six games will open the parochial competition as the north section deferred four contests and the St. Philip-St. Ignatius south division inaugural was held Thursday night.

St. Rita's heavyweights, south section champions, will oppose De La Salle, which will be playing its fifth game of the season at the St. Rita gymnasium. De La Salle has won half of its games.

In the other Catholic league games Leo, coached by Charles [Feed] Murphy, will meet Joliet's lights and heavies on the Leo court, and St. Michael will face St. Patrick at the latter's gym.

The Leo heavies have played seven practice games, winning six and losing to Morgan Park of the City league. The squad hung up its sixth victory last Tuesday night by defeating St. Michael, 22 to 13.

Oak Park's championship quintet will start its title defense against New Trier at the Oak Park fieldhouse in the feature game of the Suburban league schedule. Other games are Deerfield at Proviso and Evanston vs. Morton at Cicero.

HYDE PARK, 25; PARKER, 21.

Hyde Park heavies defeated Parker, 25 to 21, for their fourth practice victory on the Hyde Park court yesterday. Led by Taylor, who scored seven baskets and two free throws, the Parker lights won from Hyde Park, 24 to 13. Heavyweight lineup:

Nick Scialaba, Tony Muscarello Battle Tonight

Nick Scialaba and Tony Muscarello, who are undefeated since they won honors in the Golden Gloves tournament last year, meet in the windup of Promoters Jack Lund's and Frank Knipper's boxing show tonight at the Merry Garden arena, Sheffield and Belmont avenues. Muscarello and Scialaba have never met. Seven other bouts are on the program, which starts at 8 o'clock.

Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, will arrive in New York from Berlin about Jan. 15 to start training for the bout in defense of his title against Mickey Walker, according to Sammy Wolff, Schmeling's Chicago representative, yesterday. The bout is booked for Miami, Fla., Feb. 22, but if the 15 round law is passed for heavyweight championship battles in Illinois, the contest will be staged here, probably in March.

George Haberski and Oscar O'Hannion, Catholic Youth organization champions, will feature the amateur card at the Northwest Lions arena, 4300 West North avenue, tonight. Haberski meets Al Stillo and O'Hannion faces Alex.

The supporting card to the Bud Saltis-Jack Moran bout at Cicero stadium next Monday was announced yesterday by Matchmaker Billy Cepak. Kid Irish, Cicero featherweight, and Joey Bozak of Blue Island meet in the six round semi-final. Four four round contests will bring together Benny Goldblatt vs. Buddy Dawson, Davy Day vs. Freddy London, Frankie Young vs. Red Tadevitch and Frankie O'Farrell vs. Joe Brown.

Tony Herrera, El Paso, Tex., lightweight, will leave Chicago today for home to spend the holidays. He will return next month and resume fighting. Herrera scored two good victories recently when he defeated Lew Massey and Johnny Jaddick, Philadelphia stars.

BUFFALO ROUTED BY KANSAS CITY SEXTET, 4 TO 0

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 17.—(AP)—Kansas City Pla-Mors defeated the Buffalo Majors, 4 to 0, in an American Hockey league game tonight.

There was no question about the outcome after 3:45 minutes in the first period, when Ranger outwitted Buffalo's defense and tricked Stark away from the net to score easily. Five seconds before the period ended Gorman netted McLeod's pass.

McCormick scored in the second period with the assistance of Goodman. Kansas City's second goal in this period was kicked in by Goalie Stark, but McKinnon received official credit.

Baima Stopped by Tramblie in 6th Round

Ray Tramblie, Rockford middleweight, last night scored a six round technical knockout over Johnny Baima of Chicago at White City. The bout was scheduled for ten rounds.

The fight was fairly even until the fifth round, in which Tramblie scored three knockdowns. The third spill occurred near the timekeeper and Baima, in falling, placed his hand on the bell so that the timekeeper was unable to ring the gong to end the round after a six count. The Chicago fighter was down for two more counts in the sixth before Referee Sammy Ford stopped the fight. Tramblie weighed 156 and Baima 155½.

The 2,200 spectators were treated to another slugfest in the sem

GUARD RANIERI CASE WITNESSES IN DEATH PLOT

Report Suspect Seized in Western City.

A suspected plot to murder the remaining witnesses in the three year old Billy Ranieri kidnaping case so that Julio Rosano, one of the Mafia extortionists still at large, might feel at ease in Chicago, is being investigated by the police and the state's attorney's office.

Expert marksmen have been sent from the detective bureau to guard the lives of Tony Di Domenico, alias Tom Dyer, a cousin of the boy, and Attilio Scalsitti, both of whom declared they had been threatened with death.

Report Suspect in Custody.

There were reports around police headquarters that Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller of the racket bureau, Sergt. Michael Ahern, and the Ranieri boy, who is now 13 years old, are in Pueblo, Colo., and that suspect is in custody. At Mr. Mueller's home he was said to be in Colorado and at the Ranieri home, 4901 Altgeld street, the boy was reported out of town.

The suspect reported held is Tony Percenti, brother of Joseph Percenti, once arrested as a member of an extortion gang which blackened the boy's eye. Charges against Joseph Percenti also included driving the kidnaper's car and writing threatening letters to A. Frank Ranieri, the boy's father, but they could not be substantiated. Whether Tony Percenti is suspected as another member of the kidnaping gang or as a plotter against the living witnesses was not disclosed.

Tells of Death Threat.

Appeals for protection first came from Domenico, who told Chief of Detectives Schoemaker on Monday that six men with shotguns entered the Loft Social club, 422 South Hoyne avenue, which he manages, and sought to kill him. Domenico was not in at the time and the terrorists returned in 30 minutes, firing several shots in the place when they failed to find their man. Detectives Michael Trainor, John Garvey, Edward Starr and Norman Stearn, all crack shots, are guarding Domenico day and night, armed with shotguns.

Scalsitti, who has been under police protection ever since the Ranieri boy was held a prisoner for thirteen days and then released when a demand for $60,000 ransom was not fulfilled, also reported a renewal of efforts to kill him.

Chief Schoemaker visited Scalsitti at the Scully Monument company, 1301 West Madison street, of which he is proprietor, and announced that he was changing guards. Sergt. Rocco Filetti, ace Italian detective, is to report today for the guard duty.

One Plot Thwarted.

A plot to assassinate Scalsitti was thwarted two weeks ago by a policeman guarding Scalsitti as he left for his home. Two men abandoned their automobile when they saw the police man and escaped with a third in another car.

Scalsitti is a cousin of Ole Scully, alias Scalsitti, who was clubbed to death with baseball bats the day before he was to testify against Angelo Polizzi and Andrew Cappellano, who are serving 25 year terms for the Ranieri kidnaping.

The only living witnesses who could identify Romano are the Ranieris, Scalsitti and Domenico.

TAKE UP TRAFFIC JOBS AS RELIEF MEASURE TODAY

A proposal to place thirty unemployed men on duty at traffic crossings in school districts on the northwest side will be discussed at a conference with Police Commissioner Allman at 3 o'clock today.

Ald. James C. Moreland [41st], Joseph C. Ross [40th], and Walter J. Orlikoski [39th] will appear with a committee of parents from the northwest side, extending north of North avenue and west of Western avenue.

Dr. Martin Hayes Bickham, superintendent of the Illinois Free employment service, which works in conjunction with the governor's unemployment relief committee, will attend the conference. The plan of substituting the thirty men for fifteen patrolmen, working each of the thirty men three days a week, hinges on whether the unemployment relief committee would pay the wages of the men.

The policemen would be released to patrol school neighborhoods where attempts of morons to molest children have been reported recently. Ald. Moreland said that he hoped the plan could be put in effect throughout the whole city in time, which would release 1,500 patrolmen from traffic duty near schools.

Aurora Employes to Take Month Off Without Pay

The city council of Aurora yesterday voted that all city employes must take a month's layoff without pay during 1932. Retrenchment was necessary, the council held, because the revenues of the city would be much smaller, due to a delay in tax collection and reduction in assessments. The slash, which affects the mayor and other officials as well as the rank and file of police and firemen, will reduce the salary outlay by $26,000.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

WILL DISCLOSES HINES GAVE UP WEALTH IN 1914

$12,000,000 Trust for Family Formed.

Edward Hines, multi-millionaire lumberman, placed his estate in trust for his heirs in 1914 and for the last seventeen years of his life was the possessor, in a legal sense, of only a few hundreds of thousands of dollars. This was disclosed yesterday when his will was filed in the Probate court. Mr. Hines was 68 years old when he died on Dec. 1 in his home at 1456 Ridge avenue, Evanston.

Lawyers said that by investing title to his property in his wife and children so long before his death it was probable that Mr. Hines saved them from paying federal and state inheritance taxes. The estate aggregated $12,000,000 when it was placed in trust in 1914, and is known to have increased largely since that time.

Will Involves Only $150,000.

The value of the property disposed of by Mr. Hines' will was recorded in the Probate court as $150,000. It consisted wholly of his home, automobiles, and personal effects. The will directs that the widow, Mrs. Loretta D. Hines, shall have a life estate in this property, and that at her death it shall pass to Ralph J. and Charles M. Hines, sons of the couple.

No provision was made in the will for Mr. Hines' daughter, and it was in explanation of this that the existence of the trust estate was disclosed.

"The fact that I make no provision for my daughter, Loretta Hines Howard," the will states, "is not because of any lack of affection, but because on June 22, 1914, I gave to trustees a major portion of the property which I then possessed in trust, and from the proceeds of the trust my daughter was amply provided for. I wish in this will to record, however, my affection for her and for my son-in-law, Howell H. Howard."

Mrs. Hines, her sons, and Mr. Howard were named executrix and executors of the will.

Divides Bank Stock in 1929.

A codicil stated that on Oct. 16, 1929, Mr. Hines divided between his two sons his holdings, 2,000 shares of stock in the Continental Illinois bank.

William S. Bennet, personal counsel for Mr. Hines, issued a short statement in further explanation of the trust estate, as follows:

"Edward Hines was one of the few men who, in middle life, made the resolution to divest himself of his property, and adhered to the resolution. By a trust agreement in 1914 he put the bulk of his property into the hands of trustees for the benefit of his wife and children and other relatives, and some incidental minor gifts and smaller trusts."

Mr. Hines' benefactions after the establishment of the trust, including the Edward Hines Jr. hospital at Maywood, a memorial to a son who died in France, and numerous gifts to the Catholic church, totaled more than $3,000,000, Mr. Bennet said.

His place of business was at 1153 North Clark street for forty years. Mr. Graham made his home with Charles A. Roland, 21 Scott street, with whom he had been associated in business since 1897.

H. K. SMITH, MEMBER OF ROOSEVELT'S FAMOUS 'TENNIS CABINET,' DIES

Hartford, Conn., Dec. 17.—[Special.]—Herbert Knox Smith, 82, federal commissioner of corporations under President Roosevelt and member of the famous "tennis cabinet," died suddenly this afternoon at his home in Farmington eight miles west of here. He had been in ill health all last summer and suffered a severe heart attack yesterday and another this forenoon. His wife was at his bedside when he died. They had no children.

Mr. Smith became deputy United States commissioner of corporations in 1903, which place he held until 1907 when President Roosevelt made him commissioner of corporations and incidentally a member of the famous "tennis cabinet."

When Roosevelt set up his Bull Moose party in 1912, Smith was one of his most enthusiastic followers and ran for governor of Connecticut. He was one of the chief reasons why Taft lost Connecticut that year, although Mr. Smith was not elected. In 1914, Smith, still crusading for Roosevelt and the Progressive party, ran for United States senator, being overwhelmed by Frank B. Brandegee, Republican in the first popular election to the United States senate.

The Supreme court ruled that the sentences were not too severe.

Prison sentences for Maurice A. Barnett, a jewelry salesman, and Max Krakow, a manufacturer of jewelry, who conspired with Mrs. Laura B. Price, wife of a wealthy woodenware manufacturer, to stage a fake holdup, were also upheld by the Supreme court. Barnett was sentenced to 1 to 5 years in the penitentiary, while Krakow is to serve 6 months in the county jail. Mrs. Price has already

FRANCE-ITALY CANCEL THEIR TRADE TREATY

Commercial War in Europe Flares.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Dec. 17.—The European trade war received a sensational impetus tonight when an official communique announced that the French and Italian governments by common consent abrogated the commercial accord signed by them in 1922.

Feb. 24 was fixed as the date for the expiration of the treaty and unless negotiations for a new accord are successful, France—and Europe—will see another frontier closed to normal trade.

Earlier action was official notice given here today by the Canadian representative of the abrogation of the Franco-Canadian commercial accord six months hence. At the same time Canada will automatically cancel similar accords with Belgium, Italy, Denmark, Japan, Spain, Argentina, and Austria, it was learned here.

Denunciation of the Franco-Italian trade convention follows by a few days a similar action by Switzerland against Germany and by Lithuania against France.

U. S. Products Tied Up.

At the same time it is learned that negotiations are going on in Paris to release of millions of dollars' worth of American products tied up in the ports of France through secret orders issued from the ministry of commerce.

Action against the American goods will be taken by virtue of any tariff and is consequently was difficult for American diplomatic authorities to make any official protests. The French customs officials merely took the stand that duties setting for the products in question and included in the bills of sale under the terms of French customs clearing laws cannot be accurate. Since the shippers produce documentary evidence, French authorities insist that whatever the product in question it could not be manufactured at such a low cost in France and therefore it is in violation of the customs clearing ordinances.

British Coal Lies Idle.

At present thousands of tons of British coal are lying useless on one side while the French farmers on the other side are out of employment because the British market for their products is closed.

Denmark, Rumania, and Norway have announced their trade with France is at a standstill and are striving desperately through diplomatic channels to find some loophole in the tariff wall. Even France's closest natural ally, Belgium, has had the door slammed in her face. The French market is closed to her eggs, butter and other agricultural products and she is obliged to take measures of retaliation. A commission is now sitting in Paris trying to untangle this mess.

The problem is acute all over Europe, but France has topped all her neighbors in the altitude of the trade barriers which she has erected to shut out her borders. Her reason is an unmistakable trade balance which is inevitably draining some $40,000,000 of gold out of the country every month. It is realized that if that drain is not stopped, the franc will go the way of the pound.

Premier Tells Policy.

The method used is not the old fashioned one of soaking on exorbitant duties but the much deadlier "contingenting" which is simply applying the quota system to foreign trade. Premier Laval, speaking before a federation of retail merchants today, delivered an eloquent defense of the "contingenting" system and described the heroic struggle to bring the level of imports to that of exports, even at the risk of strangling off both.

"To defend our domestic market, we were obliged to inaugurate a new policy—tariff barriers were no longer sufficient. Thus to stop the flood of foreign imports we have adopted a contingent system which establishes a rational control of imports and allots to each country a rightful place in our markets. In this way, during October, imported goods dropped by more than 217,000,000 francs [about $8,680,000] while exports increased 100,000,000 francs.

"Our unfavorable trade balance was reduced for the month of October to 594,000,000 francs, whereas in September it was 916,000,000 francs.

"The measures we have taken have aroused protests in foreign countries, but it is necessary for France to get through the present period of difficulty."

England Extends Tariff.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 17.—Imported manufactured cotton goods, men's clothing, women's dresses, and other wearing apparel, cameras, radio valves, electric lamps, and photo films are in the new list of articles included in the third order, under the National government's anti-dumping act on which 50 per cent duty is to be imposed from midnight on Friday, issued tonight by the board of trade. Altogether 16 classes of goods are enumerated. Imports of these goods during November were valued at just under £3,000,000—about $10,380,000, calculated at current rate of exchange.

The inclusion of cotton goods, which was generally anticipated, especially affects Lancashire.

Canada to Cancel a Treaty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Dec. 17.—Clearing the decks for the British empire trade conference to be held here in July, out of which she hopes to secure a guarantee of 60 per cent of the United Kingdom's wheat market, Canada has notified the French government of the cancellation six months hence of the Canada-France trade treaty.

Under the French treaty provisions, Canada was compelled to allow entrance at preferential rates to a lot of commodities which Britain exports, and the dominion will utilize the new situation in her empire trade dickers.

Explodes Rumor of Nation Deserting Gold Standard

BY O. A. MATHER.

The silliest rumor yet produced by depression and the decline in securities was broadly circulated in La Salle and Wall streets yesterday. It was to the effect that the United States is preparing to suspend the gold standard. It was discussed by little groups of speculators and hangers-on in several Chicago brokerage houses that I visited.

"I'm told that London Lloyds is offering bets at one to three odds that the United States will suspend the gold standard within ninety days," one man was telling a little group. And immediately there started a discussion of what would happen if this country should suspend gold payments. It seemed incredible that anybody should discuss the contingency seriously.

Gold Holdings Increase.

But in view of the widespread rumor the weekly statements showing the condition of our federal reserve system, issued last night, are unusually pertinent. They show clearly why it is unthinkable that the United States should suspend the gold standard. They reveal that our gold holdings are on the increase, that our currency is amply covered by gold, and that no outside pressure, such as the withdrawal of foreign credits translated into gold can force this country to follow the action of England and other countries.

An Increase in Holdings.

Our federal reserve system, which is the base for our whole banking system, last Wednesday held gold reserves of $2,982,044,000, which was an increase of $12,926,000 over the week before. The reserve banks hold about two-thirds of the country's entire stock of monetary gold. Against these gold holdings the reserve banks had outstanding $2,528,332,000 in paper currency, which represents nearly half of all money in circulation.

Therefore, the gold reserve of the reserve banks was larger than their paper currency. In this situation, what would be the sense of suspending the gold standard? Federal reserve note circulation increased $42,440,000 in the last week but this was the natural result of the usual need for more money for the holiday spending season, plus some lesser need for money occasioned by bank troubles in the east.

Total reserves of the system increased $7,857,000, but the ratio of reserves to liabilities eased slightly to 65 per cent, compared with 66.1 per cent last week. But this is unimportant, in view of the expansion in note circulation. The December government financing resulted in the reserve banks increasing their holdings of government securities by $183,501,000. But this was largely offset by a slackening demand for commercial credit, as shown by a decline of $27,274,000 in borrowings of the member banks and a decrease of $82,142,000 in bankers' acceptances held by the reserve banks. Member bank borrowings now total $697,908,000. Deposits at the reserve banks increased $49,330,000.

BROKERS' LOANS DROP

Coinciding with the decline in securities, brokers' loans receded to a new low level this week. The total on Wednesday was $662,000,000, a decline of $28,000,000 for the week and a decrease of $1,346,000,000 from a year ago, when the total was $2,008,000,000. Interior banks and nonbanking lenders reduced their loans by $19,000,000 and $12,000,000, respectively, while the New York banks increased their own loans by $3,000,000.

The New York federal reserve bank made no change yesterday in its 3½ per cent rediscount rate.

INSULL STOCKS BREAK SHARPLY IN HEAVY TRADE

Price Declines Laid to Bank Selling.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Heavy selling in the leading Insull securities marked another day of sharply declining prices yesterday on the Chicago exchange. Large blocks of the lower priced Insull issues were thrown on the market, breaking prices to the lowest level yet reached in the bear market. Sharper breaks occurred in the higher priced issues, but the volume of trade in these stocks was not unusually large.

The bulk of the liquidation was attributed to unloading by banks which have held the stocks as collateral on loans. While no accurate estimate can be made of the amount of offerings from this source, it was held to be unusually large. Clearing up of impaired margin accounts by brokers swelled the volume of offerings and contributed to the decline.

Preferred Shares Hit.

The widest breaks occurred in preferred stocks of two of the Insull holding companies—Middle West Utilities and Insull Utility Investments. Middle West 8 per cent preferred sold down to 30, then rallied to close with a net loss of 7¾ at 33. Insull Utility second preferred tumbled from 24 to 15 and was selling at 17¾ when the trading ended.

Commonwealth Edison fell 11¾ and recovered only a small part of its loss. Public Service of Northern Illinois common stocks also declined sharply.

The heavy trading, however, was concentrated in Middle West and Insull Utility common stocks. Both of these issues sold under five during the day, but rallied slightly before the close. Transactions in Middle West approached 56,000 shares, while the turnover in Insull exceeded 32,000 shares. Insull Utility debentures, due in 1940, were quoted as low as 21, but were selling at 25 when the day ended, a net loss of 8½ points.

Other Stocks Weak.

Stocks in other sections of the list were weak, but net losses were moderate. The investment trust issues were under pressure, with Continental Chicago common and preferred losing ground on heavy sales.

The omission of the quarterly dividend of 20 cents by Merchants and Manufacturers failed to stir any interest in the company's stock.

Bank Asks Receiver for Sheridan Road Building

A bill for foreclosure and a petition for a receiver for the Bryn Mawr Building corporation, owners of the $5,000,000 Bryn Mawr Beach apartment building at 5555 Sheridan road, were filed in the Superior court yesterday by the First Union Trust and Savings bank as trustee. According to the bill, the corporation issued bonds to the entire worth of the building on Oct. 1, 192 . A total of $200,000 worth of the bon recently were defaulted, it is allege and 1928 and 1929 taxes to the sum of $11,473 remain unpaid.

Canada Dry Cuts Dividend; Movie Firm Defers Action

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 17.—In accordance with a new policy regarding payment of future dividends directors of Canada Dry Ginger Ale, Inc., voted today a quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share, placing the stock on a $1.20 annual basis, compared with 75 cents quarterly, or $3 a year, heretofore.

P. D. Saylor, president, said that after directors had reviewed the general business situation and after going over the budgets prepared by the officers they had decided to establish a dividend rate for the coming year that could reasonably be expected to be paid even though general conditions in the industry should show no improvement over the past. He also indicated that it will be the policy to pay extra dividends in accordance with future growth of earnings, less reasonable reserves.

Columbia Pictures Delays.

Directors of Columbia Pictures voted today to defer action on the common dividend, "deeming it advisable in view of present conditions and in order to conserve cash." Three months ago a dividend of 18¾ cents was declared. All salaries above $50 were reduced, effective the first week of January, 1932.

Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke company has omitted the semi-annual dividend of $2.50 a share on the preferred stock. The Abitibi Power and Paper company has omitted the quarterly dividend on the preferred stock.

International Utilities corporation has deferred action on the class A dividend of 37½ cents, due at this time. Regular quarterly dividends were declared on $7 preferred and $2.50 prior preferred issues.

Lawyers' Trust company has omitted quarterly dividend of $2 a share, due at this time. The company had been paying $2 quarterly since March 30, 1929. No action was taken on the quarterly dividend of $1.75 a share on the preferred stock by the William Whitman company.

Pays Christmas Dividend.

Truscon Steel company has omitted the quarterly dividend of 15 cents due on the common stock. The Segrave corporation has omitted the quarterly dividend of 10 cents due on the common stock.

The Union Trust company of Pittsburgh has declared the usual Christmas dividend of $6 a share and the regular quarterly dividend of $50. C. M. Hall Lamp company declared a dividend of 10 cents a share. Three months ago the rate was omitted after the company had paid two 10 cent quarterly dividends this year.

Massachusetts Investors' Trust will pay a special interim dividend of 15 cents from net received or to be received between Oct. 15 and Dec. 31. The dividend will be paid Dec. 31. Directors of Austin, Nichols & Co. voted a quarterly dividend of 37½ cents on the prior A stock, against 75 cents previously.

POOL TO PICK UP BOND BARGAINS REPORTED IN N. Y.

New York, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Formation of a large banking pool for picking up bargains in the bond market appeared as a possibility in Wall street today. Some of Wall street's leading bankers acknowledged that the project had been broached, but declined to confirm or deny a report that the idea was actually to be carried into action.

Present year end selling of bonds, it was explained, has been accelerated because of the desire by some holders to establish income losses and because of the determination of banks throughout the country to present a year-end condition statement showing a larger than usual proportion of their assets in cash or its equivalent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 17.—Except for a moderate increase in trading volume there was little change in the share market picture today. The rank and file continued to talk courage and press their holdings for sale. Prices continued to melt to disheartening new lows.

In well informed circles now there is not much disposition to hope for any radical change for the better until some of the big financial matters now on the program as "unfinished business" such as reparations, railroad wages, and the like are definitely cleared up. It has been suggested also that an abatement of the new congressional fad to alarm the world with sensational allegations regarding high government officials and policies might help to instill some of the confidence that everybody agrees is so necessary to constructive endeavor.

Selling Goes On.

Thus, today as on yesterday and the day before and last week there was nothing in the news to give security holders fresh discouragement or to embolden the shorts. But the selling went on as monotonously and steadily as ever. A little more so, in fact.

United States Steel dipped more than 3 points to 38½ to record its daily new low for the bear market and most of the other leaders followed it headlong. United States Steel's crash through the 38 point level, which came in the early trading, turned the memory of old-timers back to the early world war days when the stock exchange was closed from the beginning of August almost to the end of November, 1914.

Given Restricted Price.

United States Steel had done the incredible by going to 38 on that bleak occasion, but since that time the company has paid a 40 per cent dividend so that the price levels then and now cannot fairly be compared. When the exchange was reopened under new trade restrictions, near the close of November, 1914, United States Steel, it may be recalled, was given a restricted price minimum of 42, with no sales permitted on the floor of the exchange below that figure. Some time later the minimum was reduced to 38 and that had served as the low for the old industrial bellwether until today. The closing sale on the stock this afternoon was at 37⅝, off exactly 2 points from yesterday's closing figure.

Liquidation continued on a heavy scale in such stalwarts as American

¶ While the current financial situation of Chicago and Cook County is very serious; more so than many people realize, the security behind Chicago and Cook County bonds is so great—as illustrated in the accompanying chart—that no concern need be felt for their ultimate payment. (Only 12¼% of the City of Chicago's 1932 budget is required for debt service.)

¶ Although we consider local bonds to be cheap at the present time, we are not recommending their purchase because it may be possible to obtain them at cheaper prices if the January 1st interest should not be met promptly; and such a delay is imminent if the Legislature fails to enact the legislation necessary to correct the present temporary difficulties.

¶ Chicago's financial embarrassment, which arises from very unusual circumstances, is exceptional (due partly to the re-assessment of property which prevented the collection of taxes for about two years), and in no way disproves the superior security of municipal bonds.

¶ It perhaps demonstrates that there is no particular merit to extreme size in a municipality issuing bonds, for there are thousands of smaller municipalities all over the country whose political organizations are more compact and whose financial record, past and present, is of such a high order that selected municipal bonds over the years have attained an unchallenged record, along with Government bonds, of being the safest investments that one can buy.

THOMAS DENNEHY BUYS LEASEHOLD ON WEST LAKE

May Erect New Building in a Few Years.

Thomas C. Dennehy, for many years identified with the wholesale liquor business of Chicago, yesterday purchased for investment the ninety-nine year leasehold estate and four story building at 171-173 West Lake street, which is eighty feet east of Wells street. The seller was the Lake Investment Building corporation, of which George J. Alex is president and Demetrios E. Alex is secretary. The price paid was an indicated $2,500. The buyer stated that when certain subleases expire in a few years, he might erect a new building. Three floors of the building are now rented. The fee is owned by the Chicago Title and Trust company, trustee. Butler, Foster, Pope & Ballard were attorneys. George P. Chiagouris was the broker.

Construction Falls Off.

Construction contracts in the Chicago territory totaled $13,640,700 during November according to F. W. Dodge corporation. This contrasted with $29,746,000 in November, 1930. This territory is comprised of Indiana, Iowa, northern Illinois, and eastern and southern Wisconsin.

The three major construction classes formed the month's total as follows: $4,565,400 in residential building; $6,781,000 in non-residential building, and $4,244,300 in public works and utilities.

Northern Illinois Gains.

Although November awards for non-residential work were somewhat larger than in October, a large loss in shown when compared with November, 1930. For the year to date, public buildings and social and recreational facilities scored gains. Of the states within this Dodge territory, northern Illinois showed a gain in November over October.

Chicago produced the most important city total in the district with $3,482,000. This was distributed among the three major classes with $1,425,000 in public works and utilities; $223,900 in residential building; and $3,833,000 in non-residential building. Other cities within the district showed the following totals: $156,000 in Peoria; $330,000 in Indianapolis; $208,200 in Des Moines, and $506,000 in Milwaukee.

North American.

I would like to know what you think of North American company common stock. You will have to excuse me for bothering you so often, but I don't care to invest in one stock alone and a person can't be too careful. Please answer in inclosed stamped envelope.—R. D.

North American company, a holding concern, is one of the largest public utility enterprises in the United States. Operating subsidiaries are distributed in four well defined groups. They are: Wisconsin and Michigan properties, which serve Milwaukee and other eastern Wisconsin communities, and towns in the upper Michigan peninsula; Ohio properties, which serve Cleveland, Ashtabula, and other northern Ohio communities; Missouri, Illinois, and Iowa properties, which serve communities in the vicinity of St. Louis, and a fourth group operating in District of Columbia, Maryland, and Virginia.

The company has a 19 per cent interest in Detroit Edison company, a 46 per cent interest in North American Light and Power, and a 32 per cent interest in Pacific Gas and Electric company.

About 86 per cent of net is derived from sales of electricity. Consolidated statements include figures of subsidiaries 75 per cent or more owned.

Net income for 1930 was $25,823,000, equal to $4.27 per common share on shares outstanding at the end of the year, against net of $28,807,000, equal to $4.82 per share on a smaller capitalization for 1929. Net for 1928 was $26,409,000 and for 1927, $19,285,000.

For the twelve months to Sept. 30, 1931, net was $25,210,000, equal to $3.81 per common share. For the preceding twelve months net income was $29,785,000, equal to $4.63 per common share. The decline was due, mainly, to decreased industrial use of electricity, increased charges on investments in properties not yet fully productive, and the absence of nonrecurring income items included in 1929 income.

On Sept. 30, 1931, there were outstanding 605,678 shares of 6 per cent preferred [par $50] and 6,659,522 no par common shares. Funded debt of the holding company was $35,000,000 and that of subsidiaries, $291,348,000.

The common is on an annual dividend basis of 16 per cent in common stock. President F. L. Dane stated this policy of disbursement provides "an automatic method of financing at reasonable cost to the company without burden to the stockholders."

Both the preferred and common are high grade.

WITHERING FIRE OF SALES DRIVES STOCK LIST DOWN

U. S. Steel Drops Back to Pre-War Price.

Johnson, Du Pone, American Can, Consolidated Gas, Woolworth, and American Tobacco, the losses among them ranging from 2 to more than 7 points.

Rails Are Drab.

Rallroads presented as drab a front as ever. Norfolk and Western, the only carrier on the big board selling well over a share hit a new low with its most on a loss of more than 4 points. Holders of these shares are waiting for something worthwhile from the executives' conference here today, but, obviously, are resigned to the worst.

Motor shares were the only group to show any improvement. They got a little strength, of course, from reports of an installment agreement had been practically assured with the decision of the Dodge Dodge corporation to return to the exporters' association. Anaconda, Kennecott, Cerro de Pasco, and Kelsey played against the tide for not more than a fraction to a point.

Specialties were weak and the motors were all lower with others. Chemicals and amusements were prominent in the declines.

Utilities were especially hard hit. Public Gas dropped nearly 10 points to its worst since 1924. American Water was at the smallest price in 1931 and Consolidated Gas sold at the last ever offered for the present year.

Top yesterday, $5.75; average, $5.00.
Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 1,500; hogs, 36,000; sheep, 15,000.

Yesterday's large supply of hogs went over the scales at an average price of $4.00, a new low, but there was a better tone toward the close when several large eastern interests appeared on the market and were unable to fill their orders for selected lightweight stock. Most medium and weighty hogs sold at 5c decline, but light and underweights strengthened as the day progressed and some of the lightest pigs that were selling extremely low earlier in the week showed gains of 25c compared with Monday.

The extreme top yesterday at $4.15 was steady with Wednesday. The trade was more spotted than usual toward the close, when some of the larger commission houses were holding butcher hogs off the market rather than sell for less than $4.00. Parts of all divisions, however, reported good grades of medium and weighty stock in midsession as low as $3.95, and occasional sales of $3.90 came to light before the close. Prices are only 25@35c above the bottom of the low year of 1930. In December, 1897, top hogs were selling at $2.50 and under.

Trade in Futures.

There was more trading in hog futures yesterday, with bids outnumbering offers to sell in all months. Medium weights for next March delivery were sold at $5.00 and December heavy grades brought $4.10. There were plenty of buyers for $5.00@5.25 May contracts, but no offers to sell were made in that month.

The chaos which has characterized the cattle trade all week was not so apparent yesterday, and salesmen from all parts of the yards reported the belated support from the country which came through abbreviated supplies has at least enabled them to dispose of much of the stock that has been carried from day to day on a peddling trade. There was even some action in medium and weighty steers carrying good flesh and some prime cattle evidenced a little strength, but an immediate recovery in prices seems out of the question unless supplies are held down to a minimum until after the holidays.

Sharp Price Cuts.

Most of trading all week has been on a "catch as catch can" basis and declines since last week's close amount to anywhere from 50c to $1.25. Some sellers of butcher stock cite sharper price cuts in medium grades of heifers which were hardest to sell most of the time and some of these had to go back to the country because of the lack of demand. Although the cleanup yesterday was the best of the week, the carry over at the close was large in proportion to the available supply on hand at the start of trading.

The decline on the wholesale market for fresh beef is attributed to unseasonably warm weather, particularly in the east, and to the approaching holidays. Declines for the week at most distributing centers amount to 50c to $1.00. An exceptionally well finished load of cattle averaging 1,112 lbs sold at $11.50 here yesterday, equaling the highest sale of the week, but the rank and file of best steers changed hands at $5.00@8.00, only a very small share of the supply selling over $8.50.

Lambs Drop 75c.

A big supply of lambs yesterday subjected the market to a 75c cut, with some of the better grades off 25@50c on opening rounds. Large packers took the majority of good slaughter stock at $4.75@5.00, paying up to $5.15@5.25 for only occasional loads, while the practical top for the day to shippers reached $5.25. Fancy natives were sorted to city butchers and yard traders at $5.65@5.75 during the first rounds. Aged sheep were more plentiful and showed little loss late, while yearlings were quoted 25@50c lower in sympathy with the break in lambs.

WHEAT PRICES BREAK AFTER STOCK RETREAT

Corn Stronger at Start; Eases Later.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Continued decline in the stock market finally affected wheat and, while there was resistance to pressure early, the weakness yesterday was heavy during a great part of the day. At the close May was down to 56¾c, or 4¼c under the high of the previous day. The finish was within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of 1¾@2¼c. December being 51¼@52¾c; May 56¾@57¼c, and July, 53¾@54c.

Little attention was paid to the generally bullish news of late, and there was to a large extent were governed by developments in Wall street. The sentiment was more in evidence at any time within a week, as the action of foreign markets did much to allay apprehension of unfavorable developments.

Liberal Export Demand.

Sharp rise in the exchange rate between the United States and Canada was ignored by the trade, and the foreign quotations were 2¾@3 cents lower in Canadian funds, with wheat at 87¾c, the actual loss only ¼c per bu based on gold. Export rate being around 16¼c, against the previous day. The weakness of the relative steadiness in corn was to put hard winter more to the front as exports, with fair sales in sight and further business during the day. It was also said that some hard winter at the gulf had been sold to go back into Canada.

Reports regarding business in Manitoba were conflicting, with early messages stating large sales had been made on Wednesday, and there was talk of No. 1 northern sold via Duluth during the day, but the Winnipeg sales was 300,000 bu from the previous day. Europe also ignored the strength of Liverpool closed equal to 1½c lower, with December 1½c with Buenos Aires was ¾@1 cent lower in the face of the forecast of better weather. December in the Argentine market closed at 40¼c.

Stocks Ships Wheat.

There continues to be a mystery to the trade and while expectations were of a steady reduction in the bitter aggregated 1,894,000 bu for the week, compared with 1,966,000 bu for the previous week. Explanation for heavier clearances from Russia and Australia which offset the effect of the decreased clearances from North America.

Trade took on a bullish construction to the movement estimate on corn, which showed a decrease of 117,000,000 bu from the previous week, and prices moved up 1½c over Wednesday's finish in the early trading. The late weakness was due to general selling, and a decline of 1¾@2c in the principal markets of the country declined the same month a year ago to the monthly official figures by Neil- The November total was 4 per cent below that of the previous month, when the year's decline to be registered, when the year's total of 1,462,700 was registered.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Grain traders have the impression that so long as the stock market continues weak and declining and selling, which is attributed to forced liquidation by banks, continues, there will be only temporary rallies in the grain markets. There has been heavy liquidation and a large part of the recent advance has been lost. It was said that the market had been overbought on the upturn and the short interest cut down, leaving it with a poor background to offset the increased selling movement. A belief was expressed at the close that should the stock market change for the better a sharp upward movement in wheat prices would follow. Otherwise traders look for a nervous, unsettled market.

"The public frame of mind at present is such that it is neither attracted by low values, or even cheap values," says the Uhlmann Grain company. "Therefore we would not be surprised to see further declines. The government report on wheat was a little bearish, with an increase of 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 bu over previous estimates. The government report on corn was very bullish, making the crop more than 100,000,000 bu less than its previous estimate. This induced some buying early in the session, but when wheat declined so much corn could not resist sympathising."

LIQUIDATION IN EGGS

Butter and egg futures again dropped to new record low levels on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday. December and January butter struck all time lows, while all other deliveries finished with heavy selling session at new lows for the movement. Egg trading established a new volume record for the year. Closing prices in butter were from 300 to 3140 lower per carlot, egg closing losses of 2140 to 3200 per case. The heavy liquidation and fairly active new selling were brought about by continued bearish production and storage news.

Butter reports showed sharp increase in the make compared with last year, while the storage figures in both butter and eggs revealed a much smaller outward movement than last year. The continued mild weather brought in nervous selling through fears of increased production. Covering commanded most of the buying, and there was not enough new support to check the decline. Sales: Butter, 59 cars; eggs, 357 cars; potatoes, 10 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 7 cars. Prices follow:

NEWS OF THE CROPS

In the eastern half of Kansas wheat has abundant moisture to carry it through the winter but there is some danger of wheat heating with alternate freezing and thawing later in the season, says the Kansas weekly crop bulletin. Only about 75 per cent of the corn has been gathered to date, work being delayed on account of the mud. Wheat fields were too wet to pasture. Rough feed is becoming scarce in many central and southwestern counties. Much shocked corn and grain sorghums have been greatly damaged by continued damp weather.

France had a sharp frost which stopped seeding, but weather is now milder, according to Broomhall. Growers in the central and eastern districts are complaining of weeds and vermin and would welcome a cold spell.

Farmers in the north of Argentina are actively threshing and shipping new wheat to market with quality already commenced to deteriorate. Where frost damaged grains. Samples from these zones indicate little damage was done, however, and it is thought that production of wheat may possibly exceed present expectations, he says.

COTTON TRADE LIGHT

Interest in the cotton futures market was light. Prices were higher early on buying of nearby deliveries, credited to co-operative interests. Later in the day, selling by New Orleans attracted attention, but had no decided effect, although at the last weakness in stocks and grains exerted a depressing influence on cotton and, despite moderate buying by Liverpool, prices receded and closed around the lowest figures of the day. There were net losses on futures in Chicago of 2@5 points with other markets of 10@24 points. Spots were unchanged with New York 8.30c, New Orleans 6.70c, Galveston 6.10c and Houston 8c. Liverpool closed 8@7 points net lower with spot sales 14,000 bales. Trade reports were without influence as a market factor. Prices follow:

Commonwealth Customers Pay LESS for LOANS

$2.93 is the average Monthly Cost of a $225 loan under COMMONWEALTH'S Reduced Rate. This allows 25 months for repayment. There is no lower cost than this in Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

THERE ARE NO fees or deductions. You may take 25 months or pay all or part sooner. Interest at the Reduced Rate is charged only while you have the money.
